Hoover to France: Take My Plan or Lose More

SAVE MILLIONS BY HOLIDAY ON DEBTS, HE SAYS

Germany May Seek a Suspension.

ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 1.—[Special.]—Raising the specter of a possible default by Germany in payment of reparations President Hoover today served upon France what amounts to an ultimatum to accept his debt moratorium plan or be left out in the cold.

The President informed France that if his project for an all around one year suspension of reparations and war debt payments should fail Germany undoubtedly would be compelled to avail herself of a moratorium on reparations, as provided by the Young plan.

Under such circumstances the President calculated, France obliged to pay Great Britain and the United States on her war debts from an income curtailed by suspension of reparations, would be worse off by more than 100 millions of dollars than she would be under the Hoover moratorium.

Mellon Gives French Note.

The warning uttered by the President was conveyed to the French government through Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon in a memorandum which was made public by the state department late today.

Behind the phrases employed by the President there lies the intention, according to an administration source of information, to establish a moratorium on war debt payments and leave France out, if France refuses to accept Mr. Hoover's terms. What is construed as a hint of this project appears in the memorandum. "Thus," says the memorandum, "if the American proposal should fail and the suspension provisions of the Young plan be invoked by Germany then France would be the loser during the forthcoming year of general postponement by over 100 million dollars."

The President thus appears to take it for granted that even if his plan for the "forthcoming year" is to be one "of general postponement" of debts, this accords with what is said to be the plan of the Hoover administration and the MacDonald government at London for the United States and Great Britain to extend a moratorium on war debt payments to all nations except France in the event that France rejects the Hoover offer and Germany declares a Young plan moratorium.

France May Be Out on Limb.

The result of that procedure would be to place France in the dilemma of being compelled to pay Great Britain and the United States or to ask for a moratorium on her debt payments as fixed by the debt settlements.

Although clothed in carefully veiled terms the reference in the memorandum to the probable course of Germany, if the Hoover plan fails, unmistakably suggests that Germany is on the brink of financial collapse.

Thus he said that if the Hoover plan fails, Germany "will unquestionably give notice for the postponement of all conditional reparations as provided in the Young plan" the payment is said to have spoken out of knowledge gained from the letter received from President Von Hindenburg of Germany just before he announced his debt offer. Under the Young plan Germany may at any time avail herself of a moratorium on the additional 58 per cent of the reparations. Thereupon France would be required to deposit with the bank for International Settlements a fund guaranteeing other creditors a share of the 42 per cent unconditional reparations which Germany would still be required to pay and five-sixths of which would go to France.

Fatal Default is Hinted.

Germany in addition to declaring a moratorium on conditional reparations would be unable to pay the commercial annuities because of inability to get a foreign exchange permit to meet these payments as contemplated in the memorandum. Even if Germany were to pay the conditional reparations France would receive only 105 millions while she would be required to make a guarantee of 110 millions and pay Great Britain and the United States 110 millions. France would be out of pocket 111 millions.

JUGO-SLAV GIRL OF 6 TRAVELS TO CHICAGO ALONE

Helen Suchanek stepped off the Manhattan Limited of the Pennsylvania railroad yesterday right into the arms of her mother, Mrs. John Sovjak, 412 Eugenie street. Helen is only 6 years old, but she traveled alone to Chicago from Jugo-Slavia. Her mother had not seen her since she was six months old.

"Helen has seen pictures of us, that's why she doesn't feel strange in meeting us," explained the child's stepfather, who appeared every bit as happy over the reunion as the mother. "At first Helen didn't want to come, thinking she would rather stay with her grandmother in Agram. But when we promised her a great big doll with black curly hair and eyes that shut, she changed her mind in a hurry."

Anxiously Helen's mother questioned her about a broken collar bone which the girl had suffered on her trip and learned that it happened in an automobile accident in Cherbourg, France, just before she sailed.

U. S. ENVOY BOXES DUKE'S EARS, BUT SPURNS A DUEL

LONDON, July 1.—(AP)—Dispatches from Budapest to the Daily Express today said William A. Hodgman, commercial attaché at the American embassy in the Hungarian capital, had boxed the ears of Duke Heinrich Borwin of Mecklenburg-Schwerin, was challenged to a duel and declined the challenge.

The incident, which the Express said had caused a sensation in diplomatic circles at Budapest, occurred in the restaurant of the Budapest polo grounds, where Mr. Hodgman was entertaining a party prior to his departure for the United States on leave of absence.

The dispatch said the attack was attributed to remarks which Mr. Hodgman charged the duke had made concerning the guests at his party.

POORLY DRESSED MAN COLLAPSES; HAS $17,000 CASH

Milwaukee, Wis., July 1.—[Special.]—A man dressed in soiled, torn clothing collapsed at North 4th and West Wells streets from the heat late today. At the county emergency hospital tonight officials found more than $17,000 in cash and collateral in his clothing. Physicians said he appeared to be dying.

In the man's pockets were two certificates of deposit in a bank in Napoleon, O., totaling $15,700. He had $250 in currency, $50 in gold coins, a $1,000 diamond ring and an expensive gold watch. On the papers was written the name of Herman Fralie.

Leiter Fined and Ruled Off at Arlington

Joseph Leiter, millionaire sportsman, whose stable of racing horses is said to represent an investment of half a million dollars, found himself virtually ruled off the American turf last night.

His big string of horses will have to remain idle in the barns until Mr. Leiter reinstates himself with the Arlington Park Jockey club's board of stewards. A fine of $250 was assessed against him and an apology demanded.

Widely Known in Chicago.

Mr. Leiter has an apartment in Chicago, his family's old home town, but with his wife and children he lives much of the time in Virginia, near Washington, where he maintains a large stock farm. He recently was a litigant in a family dispute over the control of the Levi Z. Leiter estate of millions. His sister, the countess of Suffolk, took the opposing side.

Mr. Leiter's troubles with Arlington arose when one of his horses, Princess Camelia, a filly, was disqualified after the third race on Tuesday, the second day of the Arlington season.

Stewards Explain Action.

"At the request of Mr. Joseph Leiter the stewards met him in the office of Secretary Joseph McLennan.

"Mr. Leiter was accompanied by his trainer, N. K. Beal, and Jockey Landolt, who rode his filly, Princess Camelia, when she was disqualified in the third race on Tuesday.

"Mr. Leiter wanted to know why his filly had been disqualified. The facts were detailed courteously. Mr. Leiter thereupon denounced the action of the stewards and said that he would never race another horse over the Arlington course. He further said that he had the testimony of two competent men that his filly had bothered no other horse. On request Mr. Leiter refused to give the names of these persons.

Grows Violent in Language.

"Becoming more violent in his language, he stated that the action of the authorities constituted a damned outrage, not only to him, but to his jockey.

"Mr. Leiter is fined $250 and no further entries will be received from him pending the payment of this fine and until an apology is made for his intemperate language and conduct."

Mr. Leiter left the track after his conference with the racing officials.

"The stewards took the action because they were sore," he said last night. "They have become accustomed to having people kow-tow to them because of the authority the association has given them. I think an injustice has been done me. I won't race here any more and I'm not going to lose any sleep about racing anywhere, for I'm in the game just for the sport of it.

"The case might end up in the courts," Mr. Leiter said. "But the $250 doesn't mean a damn thing to me."

Princess Camelia was disqualified, the stewards said, because Jockey Landolt brought her sharply across in front of her field. She was alleged to have fouled three horses which were running in close to the rail as she swerved over in that direction.

Ruled Off Important Tracks.

A suspension at Arlington means that the former wheat king is out at all race tracks in America except at some of the half mile ovals operating in Kansas, Oklahoma, Nevada, and Missouri. He will not be allowed to race in New York, Maryland, Kentucky or Canada until the ban at Arlington is lifted, as there is a working agreement between the turf bodies in all these racing centers to observe all rulings made on tracks within the jurisdictions of these places.

ONE NEW YORKER IS UNINSPIRED BY CIRCLE OF WORLD

New York, July 1.—[Special.]—When Post and Gatty arrived at the flying field tonight, one clown in the crowd was uninspired.

"What's all the shouting for?" he said. "After all, they are only where they were a week or so ago."

FLIGHT BACKER ONCE $35 MONTH SODA JERKER

"Seems like there was a good friend of the family's back home who was named Florence," and that's how he got it, he said, he could not remember exactly.

"For twenty years," he said, "I was a soda jerker down in Texas. I made about $35 a month. You know that isn't much money. But after I got married—my wife was a Gainesville, Tex., girl and her name was Winnie—I needed more money."

Eventually, with $250 scrimped from savings, he purchased a lease in an oil field and worked it for a while himself. Then he sold it for $35,000 and from that time on the money flowed in. The first lease he took was on a field in Burkburnett, Tex.

HEAT ROUTED; RAIN TO COOL CHICAGO TODAY

Relief Rides In on Northwest Wind.

Relief came to heat stricken Chicago last night after an eight day siege of temperatures ranging between 90 and 100 degrees.

A fresh northwest wind began flowing over the sweltering city about 10 p. m. Immediately thermometer readings began to drop precipitately. Similar declines in temperatures had been recorded earlier in the day in the states of the grain belt to the west and northwest as rains showered down to relieve the parched plains.

The western suburbs were the first to feel the change last night, for the wind lost considerable of its cooling effect in traversing the miles of superheated streets and roofs before reaching the lake shore.

Breeze Cools Off City.

Readings on the official thermometer at the airport observatory told the story of the routing of the torrid spell which had reached a climax late yesterday with a temperature of 98.3 degrees at the University of Chicago and 101.3 at the federal building down town. At the airport observatory a maximum of 99 degrees was noted at 5 p. m. Between then and 10 o'clock it declined slowly to 89 degrees, but a south wind still prevailed.

Then unexpectedly at 10:10 the air became stagnant for a spell. Within another few minutes the northwest wind arose and in a space of two minutes, according to the observer, the mercury fell six degrees.

By midnight the airport reading was below 80 degrees, and the coolness was discernible downtown. At 3 o'clock this morning an unofficial thermometer registered 75 degrees.

The government forecaster, W. P. Day, predicted that readings would be in the lower seventies this afternoon, accompanied by showers. He said, moreover, that the cool weather would prevail over this week-end, and that no abnormal heat is in sight next week.

Heat Takes Heavy Toll.

The heat wave rolled up a record breaking list of heat prostrations in Chicago as in other midwestern cities. The coroner's records for Cook county listed 51 cases during yesterday in which death was attributable directly to sunstroke or to heart ailments aggravated by the extreme temperature.

Following a night made sultry by a consistent reading of 81 degrees, the thermometer began spurting upward at 8 a. m. yesterday and by noon had reached 95. That sent hundreds of thousands on their daily trip to the beaches.

The heat gained intensity as the afternoon wore on, reaching its worst between 4 and 5 p. m., when the record for the heat wave was established at 98.3 degrees. The previous high of this heat spell was 98.

Sunset Brings No Relief.

Sunset brought no appreciable respite, for the temperature declined only four degrees between 5 p. m. and 8 p. m. Strangely, the beachgoers, many of whom went to the lake equipped to spend the night on the sands, were the last to feel the cooling change.

Mayor Cermak, who had gone to Navy pier for a breath of lake air the previous night and had been ordered off at the midnight closing hour, had made it his first business of the day yesterday to order the pier kept open until 1 a. m.

Hence, among the hundreds who thronged the amusement concessions at the pier last night, there were many who decided to utilize the mayor's order, and transformed the huge structure into a dormitory. They found the airy halls unexpectedly cool after midnight.

Pumping System Strained.

The final surge of the heat wave brought a perplexing problem to the department of public works. With uncounted hundreds of householders using their bathtubs and sinks as individual cooling systems, facilities of the municipal pumping system were strained beyond capacity.

In the 24 hours ended at midnight Tuesday the department of public works established a new pumping record by forcing 1 billion 270 million gallons of lake water into the city mains. Even so there were hundreds of complaints from third and fourth

FLYERS TELL THE TOILS AND PERILS OF WORLD JAUNT

BY WILEY POST AND HAROLD GATTY.
[Pilot and Navigator of the Monoplane Winnie Mae.]

New York, July 1.—(Special.)—We had a thrill tonight that probably will never come to us again when the New York sky line came into view through the haze and we set our wheels down on Roosevelt Field in the last safe landing of our trip.

Of course we are happy to have finished our trip in even faster time than we had planned—8 days 15 hours and 51 minutes, they told us when we landed—and at the same time we are a little bit dazed.

Countries, oceans, and civilizations have been slipping past us so fast in this journey of a little more than a week that things are not straight in our minds yet.

And That Reception!

And that reception at the field! It was generous and good, even if it was strenuous for a while. To tell the truth, we did not know whether anybody would be out to see us or not until we saw the crowds in the light of the flares as we sailed over the field.

O, we had adventures, all right. There were four tough stretches that we never will forget. The first was the flight across the North Atlantic, which began the night after we left New York and Newfoundland.

When we ran into fog on the last part of the ocean crossing it was just plain hard flying—flying by instrument, you know, at 12,000 feet. Once in a while the fog would show just enough of a hole for Gatty to get a sight. We held the course, though.

They "Find" Wales.

And then we slipped down through that hole and found ourselves over Wales, safely across the Atlantic. We would have patted each other's back if we had not been the length of the plane apart.

The next high light, so far as tough flying was concerned, was between Berlin and Moscow. The distance was 925 miles, according to our charts. We left early in the morning and pretty soon crossed the border into Poland.

Close to Tree Tops.

There we had absolutely the dirtiest flying of our whole experience on this or any other flight. The ceiling simply closed down on us and forced us right

POST AND GATTY FINISH 16,000 MILE EXPLOIT

Huge Crowds Greet Them in New York.

Newest Air Heroes

What they ate—Mainly black bread.

What they drank—Water only. Too hurried to stop for a friendly glass en route.

When they slept—At odd times—about 15 hours apiece in all.

Weight they lost—About five or six pounds apiece.

What they'll get—Backer estimates Post will realize $30,000. Gatty's share presumably the same.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Roosevelt Field, L. I., July 1.—[Special.]—Flashing in like a silver bullet from man's speediest trip around the world, the airplane Winnie Mae and her two hop-skip-and-a-jump flying men, Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, landed here tonight at 7:47½ [Chicago daylight time], completing a globe circling jaunt in eight days, fifteen hours and fifty-one and one-half minutes.

Home from 15,474 miles of air-burning speeding over land, water and ice, the two tired sky voyagers climbed from the white and blue Lockheed-Vega as its lone propeller sang a song of triumph in the face of a disorderly mob of 10,000.

No man has ever approached the record flight completed here tonight. Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's historic dash to Paris, the Graf Zeppelin's flight around the world in twenty-two days, have been eclipsed and the speed world has a new mark at which to shoot.

Post Grins at Finish.

"Well, here we are," grinned Post, as his black-thatched head and oil-smeared face shot up out of the cockpit. "Let's get started somewhere."

A second later he swung his blue shirted bulk over the side of the plane, inadvertently kicked a microphone square in the mouth, and landed on the ground not a dozen yards from the place where he had stepped into the same plane just a little more than a week ago.

Gatty followed him out of the Winnie Mae as the crowd fought to get nearer the two air heroes. They stood together for a moment, tight lipped and apparently as unconcerned as if they were carrying in the mail from Cleveland. The crowd milled and surged about them as Nassau county police, their arms locked, fought to hold the unofficial welcomers back.

How the Journey Ended.

A few minutes before—at 7:45—the crowd had stood behind the ropes in an orderly manner as the white and blue bird spun in from out of a pink and gold sunset.

"There it is," an eagle eyed spectator had cried, and hats began to fly as the plane swept across the field, traveling high and at an amazing speed. Post, the pilot, dipped his wings in salute, circled in a steep bank to the left, and the Winnie Mae faded from view in the dusk. Suddenly the plane sped back across the field at a lower altitude and the crowd went wild.

Again the Winnie Mae dropped behind the hangars on the north side of the field and then swooped in barely above the rooftops, side-slipping into the wind, touched the earth gently and rolled to a perfect landing, the last chapter of its epic flight completed.

The Winnie Mae was home, the conqueror of two oceans, the mountains and waste lands of Siberia, the ice packs of the far north and most of the hazardous country of the world.

Crowd Grows Disorderly.

Post and Gatty stood beside their still roaring Wasp motor and tried valiantly to grin in the face of the mob of hero worshipers. They succeeded for a time but the crush soon became intolerable. It was then that the motorcycle cops began riding a passageway through the throng.

In the pell mell rush numerous fights between police and spectators took place. Only one person was seriously injured. Edward Connerton, private pilot for William B. Leeds, wealthy sportsman, suffered a fractured skull when clubbed by a policeman.

Connerton got into a dispute with the policeman when attempting to drive his automobile from the flying field. He was accompanied by his wife and left the car when the argument became heated. He was struck several times by the policeman. Conerton was rushed to Mineola hospital, where his condition was regarded as critical.

Meanwhile, riding in side cars, Post and Gatty were taken to the operations office. The crowd there was too thick for comfort and the police resorted to a ruse. They gave the flyers a ride around the field. Returning to a hangar, the flyers were taken inside and a few minutes later newspaper men were admitted.

Post and Gatty sat smiling in one corner. Mrs. Post waited in the operations office nearby. Mrs. Gatty was delayed in Pittsburgh, having arrived there after an airplane flight from California.

Gatty Is Chipper.

Gatty did most of the talking. He appeared at ease and did not look at all like a man who had flown around the world with only stolen snatches of sleep.

"Tired?" smiled Gatty. "Well, take a look. No, we are not very tired. Sleepy? Yes, for we had only fifteen hours of sleep on the entire trip."

"The big adventure of the trip? It was just one round of adventures. But we really hit only two tough spots. It was bad from Berlin to Moscow and from Moscow to Nome. Fog and rain and everything flyers do not like. I'd call that part of the trip a close shave. We cannot complain—we got a lot of breaks. Had a nice trip today with the exception of about an hour's rain. The rest of the time it was just plain flying.

"I can't say too much for the swell treatment we got in Russia. They were great and did everything they could to help us on our way.

"The Winnie Mae is still a great ship. I would say our plane was in splendid condition and could keep right on going."

Post Nods Assent.

"We had a great time," he volunteered. "It was a nice trip. No, we turned down drinks all along the line. Didn't have time for anything like that. We were in a hurry."

The reception committee was in a hurry, too, and its leaders, both from Nassau county and New York City, began to edge two first class flying men toward the door and a long line of shiny automobiles. Presently they were off to the Ritz Carlton hotel, Manhattan, behind screaming sirens at sixty miles an hour.

Just outside Little Neck, L. I., at the city line the party was picked up by an escort of New York police, the Nassau county officers dropped out and Mr. Post and Mr. Gatty had been safely delivered into the eager hands of New York City.

Today's the Big Day.

Tomorrow the festivities begin. Tonight both Post and Gatty agreed to the official program.

"It's O. K. with us," grinned Post, when he and Gatty were advised of the coming ticker tape storm. Gatty nodded his agreement. Mrs. Post smiled in a bewildered manner as she stood beside her husband just before stepping into their automobile.

"I knew they would make the trip all right," she kept saying as reporters and photographers tugged at her sleeve. "Wiley has been talking about flying around the world for a long time, but he never told me he expected to make the trip at the speed he did."

Gatty joined the little group around the car.

Somebody asked him about his shoulder, injured a couple of days ago and many thousands of miles away.

"It doesn't bother me at all now," he replied. "It was just a little accident. I didn't jump quick enough."

Then the party was pushed into their respective motor cars. Gatty and Post leaned back, their arms around each other's shoulders, and the automobile parade sped away, leaving Roosevelt field's lights twinkling in the darkness.

Plane Safely Housed.

The last bit of twilight gave way to moonlight just as the flyers began their auto ride cityward and those left behind wheeled the most famous airplane in the world into an old frame hangar—the same one that once sheltered Lindbergh's Spirit of St. Louis before it won a place in a museum.

The Wasp engine in the Lockheed-Vega had had about 300 hours of service before it took the Winnie Mae on its record breaking jaunt. Tonight in its hangar the ship and engine looked none the worse for the 15,000 mile hop, skip and a jump flight.

F. C. Hall, the Oklahoma millionaire who backed the flight, was one of the most enthusiastic persons on the field this afternoon and tonight. When the Winnie Mae was sighted bearing down out of the west, the Oklahoma war whoop rang out.

Perfect, He Says.

"It was a splendid flight," said Mr. Hall, "and as perfect as clockwork. I never worried for a minute, for I knew those two fellows would come out on top."

The earth has shrunk a lot from the days of Magellan to those of Post and Gatty. Some 400 years ago Magellan set about the first circumnavigation of the globe. It took him 1,083 days. Now Post and Gatty have sped around in a little more than eight days.

Heat Can't Stop Mission Workers' Christmas Party

Big Rapids, Mich., Jul; 1.—[Special.]—Sizzling hot weather here, with the temperature at 95, failed to discourage women members of the local Foreign Missionary society, who staged their annual Christmas tree party last night. The party was held early so that missionaries will receive the gifts by Christmas, and the Christmas tree party netted a boxful of gifts despite the hot weather.

FLYERS TELL THE PERILS OF RUSH AROUND WORLD

Fought Fog, Storms and Fatigue.

down near the treetops. We had to fight wind and rain as well as fog.

Landmarks slipped by so fast that we had trouble checking the course, and, of course, anything like celestial observation was impossible. The drift indicator held out, though, and from it we hit our mark on the nose through dead reckoning.

Another experience which gave us no end of concern was the flight between Irkutsk and Blagovyeschensk through the wildest country we have ever seen. For hours we flew a bare twenty-five feet above the trees, and in the strange country, which was wholly unknown to us, strange apparitions loomed up in the mist ahead.

Thought End Had Come.

Two or three times we thought the end had come and pulled the ship up sharply until the angle of climb became dangerous. We got through without "stubbing our toe," however, and wound up the day bogged down on the water soaked field.

Our sleep at Blagovyeschensk, on the hardest of soviet beds, was somewhat spoiled by the worry of wondering whether the tractor would arrive on time to pull the Minnie Mae to firmer ground, and, if it did, whether the Russians could do it without breaking the already taxed landing gear.

The last really dangerous section of the journey was the water hop from Siberia to Alaska. We flew first across the Okotsk sea. It was just getting dark as we started out, and it began to rain. We soon found ourselves enclosed in a fog so thick that we did not see a thing outside the airplane for four hours.

They Dodge Mountains.

When it began to get light—the nights are short, you know—we pulled up through two large layers of clouds and stayed there. We knew there were mountains ahead on the Kamchatka peninsula, but we managed that all right. We saw a mountain loom up between the layers and we followed that down to the water and flew along just skipping over the waves at an altitude of about 25 feet.

So there we were, over the Bering sea, and there was more fog. We simply had to fight our way through it. We did not know just how we were going to get down to land once we got to Alaska, for the fog hid everything below us, but we figured that it would be better to crack up in Alaska if we were going to crack up than to go into the sea.

It was one of the crucial spots of the trip. We might have played it safe and waited at Khabarovsk for better weather, but we might have waited six months. Since we made it all right, I guess our judgment was good.

Land in Soft Sand.

As we slipped along over the water the bright sand of Solomon beach shone up out of the mist. It sure looked good, but when we landed on it we didn't even have a chance to gauge the wind. We just landed straight ahead. This made the landing pretty fast and the sand turned out to be soft. So we were lucky to get away without a bad ground loop or a nose-over.

Next morning we did nose over. The sand hadn't dried out any during the night, and the ship tipped up while we were taxiing and bent the propeller. We got a new propeller, however, and so that mishap didn't delay us much, but you know it never rains but it pours. Gatty had the bad luck to get smacked by the new prop while winding it up and got painful bruises on his ribs and elbows.

Weather Clears Up.

Luckily the weather cleared a little for the hazardous journey to Fairbanks, along the Yukon river and over the Klondike country. When we got to Fairbanks the doctor took a look at Gatty's injuries and bound him up. Gatty says that as soon as the stiffness wears off he will be all right.

Leaving Fairbanks, it seemed as if the rain would never stop. We were hardly off the ground before we started running into it. As we came along the side of Mount McKinley the weather began to thicken so that we barged upstairs. We figured that it was better to be high, coming down along the shelf of the Canadian Rockies, and, anyhow, the sky was lighter at higher altitudes, even if it wasn't clear.

As we came down farther and our load lightened we climbed still higher where we got a sight and checked our position. We found that we were pretty near on the course and needed only a slight change to get us to Edmonton. As we slid downhill through the murk the rain got heavier and so flooded the windshield and windows that we had to poke little pieces of rag and whatever we had handy into all the little crevices to keep it from splashing in.

The visibility near the ground was better than we expected, but when we looked at the field at the municipal airport at Edmonton we were almost afraid to try to land on it. It looked like a swamp. We slid in over the field, flattening out very low and holding the plane off so that it hardly put any weight on the soft ground and we got away with the landing all right. But for an hour or more we expected that we would have to wait over for the field to dry.

We were not worried, though, because the hardest part of the flight was behind us, our goal was only a comparatively short jump ahead and we still had three days in which to make good our word that we would be back at Roosevelt field in ten days. That is where the hurrying we did on the early part of the trip stood us in good stead and relieved our minds of worry.

So when we started this morning we decided to ride our luck and took off from a highway which borders the airport. We got off in a run of about a half mile and could have risen earlier.

Overloaded, and Why.

We were overloaded on the take-off due to a funny little mistake of ours. We had ordered gasoline, and mechanics filled it with imperial gallons, which are equal to five quarts, instead of using the American measurement.

The run from Edmonton to New York today was the happiest part of the trip, for we were pretty sure that only the most unusual sort of a mishap could stop us. The weather was better than it had been over much of our journey, but it was nothing to brag about.

We hopped off from Edmonton at 3:39 a. m., mountain time, with the rain still drizzling. We had a railroad to follow for the first couple of hours, which gave us a good check on our course. And we were figuring our ground speed at about 155 miles an hour.

180 Miles an Hour.

We made good progress and ran into clear weather after about 400 miles and picked up a strong tail wind, so that for several hours we made nearly 180 miles an hour.

The fastest part of the trip was over the worst terrain, those scrub second growth timber forests which run for miles without a break into northwestern Minnesota. We were glad that it was clear weather when we were over them. We hadn't minded flying through the rain over the nice flat wheat fields of Saskatchewan, where you can land anywhere, though you could not get your plane out again.

We crossed into the United States southeast of Winnipeg and it certainly was good to have the soil of the U. S. A. under us again, even if it was scrub timber.

From here on we never looked at our instruments or charts, because we both had been over this country, so that we know it perfectly. We picked up a corner of Lake Superior and Duluth swung on by our left.

Cross Lake Michigan.

We crossed Lake Michigan and found ourselves out of sight of land again, but it was only for a little while and it didn't count.

After we'd negotiated the Atlantic ocean and a couple of perfectly good seas, Lake Michigan did not seem very big. We flew on north of Detroit and then cut down to Cleveland.

At Cleveland we smacked our lips in anticipation while the mechanics gassed up the ship. For two-thirds of the way from Edmonton to Cleveland we had been flying low, between 150 and 200 feet, but on the last leg of the trip we got some altitude. We ran into a few thunderstorms after we left Cleveland and had to ease around them. We crossed the Alleghenies at 4,000 feet, following the airmail beacons, and found the air pretty rough over the ridges.

Then came the most impatient part of our trip. That last hour before we got to New York just dragged along. We never knew before that the Jersey marshes were so wide.

Pick Out New York.

Presently though, the ground haze that covers New York City came up over the nose and it was the most welcome sight you can imagine.

After coming over midtown New York we dived in the direction of Roosevelt field and were making pretty close to 200 miles on the air-speed indicator when we reached 500 feet and the field hove in sight.

We didn't know which of the two fields we were supposed to land, but judged from the crowd grouped at the corner of field No. 2 that that was our finish line. We made two circles and found that the wind was blowing directly over the hangars toward us. We came in a little high because we were both tired and didn't want to take any chances. There were a lot of other planes in the air and there was need for caution.

As we came over the runway 150 feet high, Wiley Post dropped his left wing and kicked the right rudder, cocking the plane into a fast deep sideslip. He straightened out and touched his wheels just as our chronometer told us we still had eight hours and nine minutes to go before we had used up nine days in our flight.

Flight Lauded for Precision of Navigation and Piloting

New York, July 1. — [Special.] — Leaders in aviation today acclaimed the round the world flight of Post and Gatty as one of the greatest achievements in the history of aviation.

Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the naval bureau of aeronautics, in a dispatch from Washington, said:

"The achievement of Post and Gatty in successfully completing their round the world flight cannot but assure the public of the reliability of aircraft. A flight of this character requires careful planning, an immense amount of ground work and exactness of navigation and piloting. The clock-like precision with which the trip was consummated bears ample testimony to the thoroughness of preparation and untiring ability of the two men. History will record this as one of the greatest flights ever made; not as a stunt, but as a striking example of the practicability of long distance air transportation."

"World Made Smaller."

F. Trubee Davison, assistant secretary of war, in a message to Post and Gatty, "Heartiest congratulations on your epoch-making flight, and on the skill and courage that made it successful. Because of you the world is smaller than ever before. The army air corps admires and honors you."

Maj. Gen. James E. Fechet, chief of the air corps, in a message, "Heartiest congratulations on your marvelous world flight. Your epoch-making achievement adds another testimonial to the courage, dash and daring of American aviators and it will have a far-reaching effect on the future of aviation."

"Wonderful," Says Lindbergh.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh said: "It's a wonderful job. You have to hand it to them both."

Amelia Earhart said: "The world flight of Post and Gatty shows what may be expected to become the commonplace in a few years. It is an excellent demonstration of skill in navigation and flying combined with fine equipment."

United States Senator Bingham of Connecticut, president of the National Aeronautic association, wired Post and Gatty at Roosevelt field as follows:

"Heartiest congratulations on your magnificent achievement. It would give me great pleasure as president of the National Aeronautic association to have the honor of presenting you to President Hoover in Washington. Will you please wire me collect the probable time of your arrival here."

Clarence D. Chamberlin: "The flight in a general way proves that modern airplanes and airplane motors have progressed to a point far beyond all modern expectations."

Clyde E. Pangborn and Hugh Herndon, about to hop off for a similar flight: "The flight of Post and Gatty is the most spectacular in aviation to date. They set up a very wonderful record. Nevertheless we are going to try to break it."

HERE'S A DETAIL PICTURE OF WORLD CIRCLING PLANE

One of Fastest Types Yet Developed.

New York, July 1.—[Special.]—The sturdy monoplane Winnie Mae, in which Wiley Post and Harold Gatty landed today with a new record for circling the globe, is one of the fastest types of commercial aircraft and is exceeded in cruising speed only by semi-racing type airplanes of short range and light loading qualities. It is faster than many of the military planes, except the tiny, single seater fighters of the army and navy, and carries as great or greater load than the observation or light bombing types of military aircraft.

It is of the type known as a high wing, internally braced cantilever monoplane. The fuselage containing the cabin, cockpit, and extra fuel tanks is of monocoque construction, cigar shaped, with no interior bracings other than the ribs. The fuselage depends for its strength on its own tubular shape.

So far as can be attained in modern construction, every part of the plane exposed to the air is built in streamline contour.

The Speedy Engine.

In the nose, cowled under with a special ring, is a supercharged Pratt & Whitney Wasp engine which develops more than 525 horsepower at 2,200 revolutions a minute. The engine is a nine cylinder, air cooled, radial model, similar to those used on military airplanes. Cruising at about 1,750 revolutions a minute, it develops about 400 horsepower and pulls the plane by its steel propeller through still air at 150 miles an hour.

At cruising speed the plane uses about twenty-seven gallons of fuel an hour. This figure can be altered slightly by the pilot, depending on the winds encountered in flight. Judging from the log of the plane on its trip around the world, Post and Gatty are adept at gauging winds while in flight.

Carry Latest Instruments.

Post and Gatty carried the most modern instruments for aerial navigation known outside of laboratories. Dials show fuel pressures and contents in each compartment of the several tanks, the operating oil pressure through the motor, the heat of both oil, fuel, cylinder heads of the motor, and the skin temperature of the entering edge of the wings, to warn of approaching danger of ice formation.

Instruments by which the plane was flown on its course included an air speed indicator, a rate of climb meter calibrated in feet per minute, a gyroscopic bank and turn indicator, a double set of compensated compasses, and a new type gyroscope which operated a miniature plane within a glass globe to show the relative position of the large plane to the horizon.

The Winnie Mae was built by the Lockheed division of the Detroit Aircraft corporation in Los Angeles.

POST AND GATTY FLY ON TEN DAYS THOUGH IT'S BUT NINE TO YOU

New York, July 1.—[Special.]—Because Post and Gatty flew eastward they met the sun earlier each day, and by the time they had flown entirely around the world they had passed through ten days, while those who waited in New York for them to return had passed through only nine.

If the flyers were to count a new day every time they passed through a nightfall it was Thursday today when they arrived in New York instead of Wednesday.

The process of fitting ten days into nine by speeding into the sunrise had gone so far that when they left Moscow at dawn on Friday morning it was Thursday night in New York.

Their nightfalls were: Tuesday, over the ocean, after leaving Harbor Grace; next, in Berlin, in Moscow, in Novosibirsk, in Blagoyeschenck, in Kharbarovsk; over Siberia, approaching Bering straits; in Fairbanks, and in Edmonton, arriving in New York on Thursday night, which is tomorrow instead of yesterday.

The flyers said when they arrived in Canada they had great difficulty in keeping track of the time because it had changed in this way.

OWNER TO GIVE WORLD PLANE TO DAUGHTER

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., July 1.—(AP)—There will be no glass cases for the Winnie Mae, for F. C. Hall, sponsor of the ship's globe girdling flight, announced tonight it will be flown until it falls to pieces.

"I most certainly am not going to put that plane in any museum or institute," he said. "Just as soon as it is possible the Winnie Mae will be presented to the real Winnie Mae, my daughter, after whom it is named. It is possible the boys will want to make a tour of the country first, and of course I will let them do that if they wish."

A Japanese reporter asked Mr. Hall if it were true he was considering sponsoring a flight across the Pacific to Japan.

He replied that he had thought of such a plan and if some one else didn't do it before next spring he would probably arrange such a flight, starting from Seattle.

Great Grandparents of World Flyer, Both 90, Glad

Grand Saline, Tex., July 1.—(AP)—Among the interested applaudars of Wiley Post's globe girdling flight with Harold Gatty are the 90 year old great-grandparents of the famous pilot who live here. Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Post are hale and hearty at their advanced age. Mr. Post is a Baptist minister and has spent much of his life in Van Zandt county, where Wiley's parents were born and reared.

Pair Reach Seattle for Nonstop Flight to Tokio

"I'M DELIGHTED," SAYS MOTHER OF WILEY POST

Maysville, Okla., July 1.—(AP)—Informed her son, Wiley Post, had completed his round the world flight, Mrs. W. F. Post, his mother, said: "I am delighted to know my boy is safe back home, and has realized his dreams. I'm crazy about him."

The proud mother sent the following telegram to Wiley:

"I am thrilled to know you finished what you set out to do. Didn't worry much, for I felt sure of your success. Knew you could do it if any one could. We are all proud of you. Love."

Gatty's Wife Happy.

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 1.—(AP)—Informed that her husband had reached New York, the end of his globe-circling flight with Wiley Post, Mrs. Harold Gatty tonight said "tell everybody I'm very happy."

WOMAN AFTER WHOM PLANE IS NAMED IS TOLD OF SUCCESS

Long Beach, Cal., July 1.—[Special.]—Mrs. Winnie Mae Hall Fain, the Winnie Mae for whom the globe circling plane was named, accompanied by her two year old baby and Pat Moore, Oklahoma oil man, pilot of the ship, landed at Long Beach this afternoon after a flight from Oklahoma City.

Mrs. Fain, the 25 year old daughter of F. C. Hall, backer of the Gatty-Post flight, was greeted at the airport by her husband, Leslie Fain, who told her he had just heard a radio report of the landing in New York.

"I knew they'd make it," said Mrs. Fain, happily. "They are the greatest fliers in the world, and nothing could stop them."

A New Era in Business

We are going forward into times of better business—business that will be on a sounder and more stable basis than heretofore. Purchasers will be better judges in the matter of Quality; Merchants will be more particular in adjusting Price; Manufacturers will be more careful in Production and will be given opportunity for greater Achievements. Banks, likewise, will be doing a better banking business—more exacting in their requirements and more rigid in their formula.

Success in any business necessitates a justifiable financial return. No one can expect to shear off the wings of profit and see business soar to new heights. The element of speculation in business is yielding more and more to organized effort, and Intelligent Service will have a higher rating than ever before. Our large clientele is the result of better business methods.

POST AND GATTY BEAT MAGELLAN BY OVER 3 YEARS

Add New Chapter to Globe Circling Drama.

New York, July 1.—[Special.]—When Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, in the sleek white monoplane Winnie Mae of Oklahoma, landed at Roosevelt field, L. I., with a new record for globe circling, they added an important episode in a four century drama in which some of the greatest of the world's adventurers have been the leading actors.

The newest record, however, has cut nearly 99¼ per cent from the time of the first circumnavigation of the earth; had the two expeditions started at the same time, Post and Gatty would have completed the trip almost before the five ships of Magellan had disappeared on the horizon.

Magellan's Record.

Under Magellan, Sebastian Del Cano, in his ship, the Vittoria, an old square rigged brig, won the title of first round-the-world champion with a record of three years and a month. The four other ships in the fleet and Magellan, the commander, failed to complete that first test of the Copernican theory from Aug. 10, 1519, to Sept. 6, 1522.

The opening lines for the second act of steamship and rail travel were provided in 1870 by Phineas Fogg, the fictional character of Jules Verne in his book, "Around the world in Eighty Days," which served to reawaken the dormant urge of record seekers to keep going toward their starting point in one direction.

With the development of faster steamships and trains in the late '80's, the feat of Phineas Fogg was accomplished in true life by a newspaper woman, Elizabeth Cochrane, better known as Nellie Bly, who circled the globe in 72 days, 6 hours[and 11 minutes, to provide the climax for the second act.

Chicagoan Does It.

In 1901, Charles Fitzmaurice of Chicago cut the record to 60 days and 10 hours; in 1903 Henry Frederick made it 54 days, 7 hours, and 2 minutes, and in 1907 Col. Bunley Campbell of England went around in 40 days and 18 minutes.

In 1913, however, John Henry Mears, New York theatrical man, closed the second act by rushing by automobile, steamer, and fast train over the approximate course followed by Post and Gatty. His time was 35 days, 21 hours, and 14 minutes.

Then Edward S. Evans and Linton Wells of Detroit set out on June 16, 1930, and by steamer, automobile, airplane, and railroad set a new record of 28 days, 14 hours, and 36 minutes, which stood for two years.

Regains First Title.

After the Lindbergh flight to Paris in 1927, Mears set out with the late Capt. C. B. D. Collyer and a folding wing Fairchild monoplane. By landing at airports, folding the wings of the plane and towing it swiftly through streets to steamers for transport across the two oceans, the two regained the title in 1928. They covered the route in 23 days 15 hours.

The record set by Post and Gatty was foreshadowed in August, 1929, when the dirigible Graf Zeppelin carried 20 passengers and a crew of 33 around the earth in 21 days, 7 hours, and 34 minutes for the first all-air circuit record.

David Calls New Sanitary Court Hearing on July 13

Judge Joseph B. David of the Criminal court yesterday notified attorneys in the Sanitary district conspiracy case, which has been pending for two years, to appear before him on July 13 for a new hearing. The defendants are Timothy J. Crowe, former president of the district, and eight former trustees and officials.

FIVE PLUNGE TO DEATH IN PLANE AT AIR PAGEANT

Canadian Writer Is One of Victims.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAMILTON, Ont., July 1.—Five men plunged to death before thousands attending an air pageant here today. A monoplane in which the five were riding went out of control as the pilot swerved upward in an attempt to avoid hitting spectators who had overrun the landing field.

One of those killed was Harold Raine of Toronto, general superintendent of the Canadian Press and one of Canada's best known newspaper men.

Other victims were Capt. Robert Sterling of Montreal, pilot; J. H. Maher Jr., owner of the plane; Charles L. Daly Jr., Toronto parachute jumper, and Alfred Rogers of Hamilton.

The plane had been flying low over the city to advertise the carnival. As it neared the airport Capt. Sterling flew low as though to land, but apparently saw danger in a landing on the field, which had been overrun by the crowd. As he swung the plane upward a strip of fabric blew away from the left wing and the craft went out of control. The pilot almost got the plane to an even keel again, but it staggered and crashed 150 feet to the ground.

All except Rogers were dead when removed from the wrecked plane. Rogers died in an ambulance.

Army Officer Found Slain a Block from White House

Washington, D. C., July 1.—(AP)—The body of Lieut. Col. Joachim Thode, 54, army reserves, who apparently had shot himself to death, was found today near the entrance to the Corcoran Art gallery, a block from the White House. Friends believed Col. Thode was despondent because of inability to find work. He was to have reported to Camp Meade, Md., today for active duty. He was a native of Germany. Two notes were found near the body indicating he had contemplated suicide.

HOOVER ASKS WORLD FLYERS TO LUNCHEON

Washington Prepares a Warm Welcome.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 1.—[Special.]—President Hoover today sent invitations to Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, asking them to be the honor guests at a White House luncheon as soon as they are rested sufficiently after their trip. The luncheon will be the highlight of an entertainment program being arranged by officials of the National Aeronautical association and the greater national capital committee.

SENATOR BINGHAM. [Fotograms.]

Senator Hiram Bingham [Rep., Conn.], president of the National Aeronautical association, dispatched messages to the flyers late today asking them to visit the capital.

Naval, army, and commerce air executives joined in hailing the Post-Gatty feat as a great achievement. Many officials predicted that history would record the round the world flight as the greatest aviation flight ever made.

"The round the world flight of Post and Gatty is an extraordinary tribute, not only to the ability, fortitude, and endurance of the men themselves, but also to the reliability of the airplanes and engines of today," Assistant Secretary of the Navy David S. Ingalls asserted.

LOWELL CHAPIN, MANUFACTURER, WINS DIVORCE

Lowell Mead Chapin, wealthy manufacturer, was granted a divorce yesterday from Mrs. Elizabeth Chalifoux Chapin before Judge John J. Sullivan of the Superior court. Chapin charged his wife deserted him in January, 1929.

By agreement, custody of the children, Elizabeth, 19 years old, and Coolidge, 16, was given to Mrs. Chapin. An allowance, of an unstated amount, is also provided, Attorney Robert N. Golding announced.

Chapin is 46 years old, and lives at the Ambassador hotel. He is a member of the University, Saddle and Cycle, Casino and Onwentsia clubs. He is the son of the late Charles Chapin, capitalist, and is treasurer of the Indiana and Michigan Electric company. Mrs. Chapin now lives at Locust Valley, Long Island, N. Y.

A CHARACTER SKETCH OF POST AND GATTY, 'ROUND GLOBE FLYERS

New York, July 1.—[Special.]—Wiley Post, who held the stick of the airplane Winnie Mae over 16,000 miles of land and sea to fly around the world, and Harold Gatty, navigator, who plotted the course and made his points of call with uncanny accuracy over some of the most difficult flying terrain to be found, hail from widely separated parts of the earth—Oklahoma and Australia.

Post, 35 years old, is stocky and powerfully built. Born in Grand Plain, Tex., he was an oilwell driller in Oklahoma. There he met with an accident which cost him the sight of one eye and left him a little deaf. Special examinations were necessary, therefore, to permit him to take out his license. He had 3,100 solo hours in his log before the world flight.

Last year in the Winnie Mae Post won the Los Angeles-Chicago derby in connection with the national air races. He sent the white monoplane winging across country in a non-stop hop in 9 hours 9 minutes and 4 seconds. His average speed for 1,760 miles was 192 miles an hour.

He was flying for F. C. Hall of Oklahoma City, an oil operator. Mr. Hall and his wife, who died last December, became enthusiastic about the world-flight idea and decided to back it. They had unbounded confidence in the pilot and so had Mr. Hall's daughter, Mrs. Winnie Mae Fain, for whom the plane is named.

The next problem was to find a competent navigator. When Harold Gatty in Los Angeles said he would be glad to go that problem was solved, for Gatty is regarded as one of the great navigators that aviation has produced.

His life has been given to the science of navigation. Only 30 years old now, he started his studies of navigation when he enrolled in the Royal Australian Naval college when he was 13 years old. At 17 he was graduated and at once obtained a job on a merchant vessel as navigator. For ten years he followed his profession.

The navigation of the air became his special hobby after he came to the United States in 1927.

Gatty, slim, wiry and sparing of words, married a girl of his native Australia, the former Vera McColloch of Sydney. They have three sons, Allan, 5 years old; Lindsay, 3, and Ronald, 2.

In 1927 Post married Miss May Lane of Sweetwater, Tex. His parents, William Frank and May Post, now live at Maysville, Okla.

Invite Alcock to Tell Jury About Police Work

Acting Commissioner of Police John H. Alcock has been invited to appear before the June grand jury in its final session today to explain certain phases of police work. Frank E. O'Dowd, foreman of the jury, declined to state the specific questions which will be put to Alcock. Mr. O'Dowd said that the jury was impressed by the conduct of the rank and file of the police in the battle against crime.

We have made an examination of the sales records of your store for the months of June 1931 and June 1930 for the purpose of ascertaining the variation in sales between these two months. We find that the net sales in dollars for June 1931 were 56.67% greater than those for the corresponding month in 1930. Of this increase 18.08% is attributable to the sales of the new Women's Dress Department opened late in 1930, and the balance of the increase, 38.59%, is represented by the total increase in sales of departments which operated in June of both years.

AGREE TO PLAN OR BE LEFT OUT, FRANCE WARNED

Hoover Debt Note Almost an Ultimatum.

millions, according to the Hoover calculation, while under the Hoover plan she would not be compelled to put up the guarantee and her loss in reparations would be cancelled by her release from war debt payments.

To arrive at this result Mr. Hoover ignored the loss to France under the Hoover plan of the conditional reparations also which if taken into account would leave her out of pocket about 100 millions, or about the same as the President figures it, if she rejects his offer.

The memorandum deals in detail with the concessions the President is willing to make to France and the concessions he expects from her in return. He is willing to agree that Germany shall be required to deposit the unconditional reparations but he wants them loaned back in full to Germany and to the German government instead of German industrial concerns as France proposes. He also objects to the segregation of 25 millions to be loaned to central Europe.

As to the period Germany is to be allowed to repay the postponed reparations the President suggests 25 years compared with the five proposed by France but intimates he will compromise on a shorter period if France yields on other points.

GERMAN DISORDERS GROW

BERLIN, July 1.—(AP)—German statesmen and most of the public watched Paris for Hoover moratorium plan developments with the tensest attention today while a burst of National Socialist and communist activity warned the government that the sharpest watchfulness was also needed at home.

The answer of Minister of the Interior Severing of Prussia to the communist challenge—which was sharpened by the killing of a police sergeant last night in a red riot—was to order that police henceforth do not wait to be shot, but themselves to shoot down any demonstration taking on the character of "an attack on the state."

Raid Communist Offices.

Severing's order came after secret and political police under the protection of uniformed police had raided communist offices throughout the city.

The police found evidence indicating that last night's riot was one of a series planned in connection with the international communist athletic meet which was to culminate July 4 in a gigantic demonstration "against the Bruening government and fascism." The meet was forthwith outlawed and all its organizing committees ordered disbanded.

The National Socialists, besides engaging in their customary clashes with communists, have been unusually active in the universities this week.

Two Universities Closed.

Two German universities had to be closed temporarily and the authorities of several others were forced to appeal to the police to quell clashes between Nazi [national socialists] and communist students. Also there were Nazi demonstrations against Jewish or pacifist professors.

The demonstrations against professors reached a climax with the hurling of tear bombs into a student audience at Kiel today during a speech by Prof. Walther Schuecking, a judge of the world court and a consistent pacifist, who stuck to his anti-military views even during the war.

As a result of these demonstrations, the communist and Nazi press paid small attention to the Paris negotiations over the American war debt plan. The newspaper Rote Fahne relegated "the Hoover poison gas cloud" to page two and the Hitlerite Angriff remarked that the Franco-American agreement would be expected "naturally to be to the disadvantage of Germany."

The foreign office continued today to maintain its outward noncommittal attitude and its unrelaxed opposition to mixing in the Franco-American negotiations. Foreign Minister Curtius and Chancellor Bruening, however, remained in close touch with Frederic M. Sackett, American ambassador.

Text of Hoover's Warning to France on Debt Moratorium Plan

Washington, D. C., July 1.—(AP)—The text of the American government's memorandum to France warning that failure of President Hoover's moratorium proposal would result in Germany declaring a moratorium follows:

"The American government recognizes with appreciation the cordial spirit of the French reply to the President's proposal of June 20 and now desires to review the situation which has grown out of the American proposal, the French government's note in reply of June 27, and the subsequent negotiations which have taken place between Ambassador Edge, Secretary Mellon and the French ministers.

"While the President's offer was the direct result of the crisis in Germany which from all reports appeared imminent and is still imminent, I am sure the French government will realize that the purpose of the United States was to give general relief to the world.

The President believed that it would prove an important step in advancing world recovery from the present economic depression.

Year of Economic Recovery.

"The plain purpose was, by relieving one element of strain in world economy, to give the forthcoming year to economic recovery, and to help free the recuperative forces already in motion, thereby contributing to the relief of unemployment throughout the world, and to lighten the burdens of unduly low prices to agriculture.

"The offer met with a world wide response. What it meant in the way of restoring confidence is reflected in the rise of commodity and security prices throughout the markets of the world.

"All of the interested governments have signified their acquiescence. France, however, suggests certain conditions which, if we understand their import, seem to us to withhold the intended relief to Germany and not to conform to the spirit of the President's proposal which contemplated a complete suspension of all payments on inter-governmental debts during a period of one year. In order that we may now cover one point left open in the original proposal, we may add that it is our view that all postponed payments should be funded over a long period of say 25 years, and to bar interest at the average rate paid by the creditor governments on their own public debt at the end of the preceding fiscal year.

Resume at End of Year.

"It is, of course, an essential part of the President's proposal that payments under all existing agreements shall be resumed at the end of the year. Thus, the continuing force of these agreements is in no way impaired.

"In this proposal to postpone for the forthcoming year the payments due under its own international agreements, the American government will be contributing a total of $262,000,000, which is the largest contribution made by any government. It recognizes, however, the substantial sacrifices will be called for by other governments, including that of France.

"It is obvious that on the success of the plan Germany will be the largest immediate beneficiary, since the payments which she is obligated to make during the coming year on account of intergovernmental debts are about $400,000,000. Other nations and dominions will also benefit by various sums in addition to the $400,000,000. It must be remembered, however, that Germany is in the most difficult economic situation of any country. We feel that in a larger sense all the nations will benefit from the improvement in their economic life which will follow the adoption of the President's program.

Concedes Point on Reparations.

"Our government welcomed the statement of France on the 24th of June, expressing her keen desire to collaborate and especially the specific statement that France 'would abstain as a provisional measure and during a period of one year from retaining any payments sent by the German government.' In this connection we emphasize again the 'provisional' character of the President's plan.

"The French government insists, however, as a matter of principle, that unconditional reparations amounting to approximately 131 million dollars the year should be paid, in order that there might be no interruption of the continuity of the payment of unconditional annuities. Our government is willing to recognize this point of view to the extent of agreeing that the payments should be made to the Bank for International Settlements provided they be immediately reloaned to the German government. This would maintain the principle of continuity of payments and at the same time constitute no drain on the German general economy.

Four Points in Dispute.

"We seem then to be agreed on two all important points:

"First, that France will forego the retention of any payments from Germany for the period of one year, and

"Second, that the principle of continuity of payment of unconditional annuities is recognized while complete relief to Germany is afforded.

"There would seem to remain four points of difference:

"First, we understand that the French government desired to have the Bank of International Settlements reloan the sums paid to German industrial and finance concerns rather than to the German government. We feel this would be incompatible with the President's proposal of relief to governments as the French suggestion would give no direct relief to the German government.

"Second, the French government suggests that $25,000,000 of the unconditional payments paid into the Bank of International Settlements should be made available for loans to central European countries, more particularly those whose budgets are affected by the suspension of reparations payments.

Destroys Theory of Plan.

"The diversion of this sum from Germany is a violation of the broad proposal of the President to suspend all payments of inter-governmental debts. Moreover, the practical disadvantage of this exception to the President's proposal is that if any of the other countries who have already accepted the President's proposal should make a similar suggestion with reference to loans to particular countries, the reconciliation of all these differences would be practically impossible.

"Could not the principle of the President's proposal be preserved and this relatively small amount of relief be given to particular countries through coöperative action of the central banks or through the Bank of International Settlements?

"Third, the two governments differ as to the time over which the suspended payments should be funded. Without at this time modifying our suggestion that 25 years is the proper length of time, we do not believe that it would be impossible to reach an agreement on this point, provided the other questions could be disposed of, especially if no repayments are to be made in the next two years, as suggested by the French government. But, of course, the same length of time will apply to the payment on account of the American debt.

Guarantee Fund a Difficulty.

"Fourth, the question involving the greatest difficulty is that referring to the guarantee fund. We recognize that under the terms of the Young plan France is obligated, in case of suspension by Germany of conditional reparations, to pay into the Bank for International Settlements on demand the sum of approximately 120 million dollars to be applied in part to increasing payments to be received by other creditors during the period of suspension.

"There are two aspects of the suggestion of France with reference to the guarantee fund:

"a. France desires to be sure that the suspension of payments during the forthcoming year shall not throw upon her the obligation to pay into the Bank of International Settlements the guarantee fund. We sympathize with France in this aspect of the question. We think this fear is groundless because if all governments agree to the American proposal, then there can be no demand of a creditor government for payment. If France, however, has a real fear on this subject, then the other governments concerned should expressly free France from this anxiety.

Other Aspect More Serious.

"b. The other aspect, however, of the question with reference to the guarantee fund is more serious. Not only the spirit of the President's proposal, but the express purpose thereof is that the offer of the American government is conditional on a like postponement for one year of all payments on inter-governmental debts owing the important creditor powers. It appears to us also to seriously impair the spirit of the declaration of France to the effect that she wishes no benefits from the payments.

"The French government apparently desires her postponement of unconditional payments to take the form of a payment into the Bank of International Settlements and a loan back to Germany. This naturally contemplates that those loans back to Germany should be on the same footing so far as length of time of postponement, etc., as similar arrangements made by any other government.

"When, however, the French government couples with this suggestion the further suggestion that the loans back to Germany shall be considered exactly as though cash payments had been made by Germany to France and cash loans had been made back by France to Germany and that these loans should be considered in all future times as funds available to France to reduce or satisfy her guarantee as to subsequent years, she is departing substantially from not only the spirit but the substance of the President's offer.

Calls Demand Inconsistent.

"To state the problem a little differently. France appears to be insisting that the funds paid by Germany into the Bank of International Settlements during the year of suspension and reloaned to Germany must be credited to the guarantee fund just as if France herself had actually made the deposit, thus relieving France of any future obligation in respect of the guarantee fund.

"This seems to us to be inconsistent with the suggestion that the payment by Germany into the Bank of International Settlements during the period of suspension is a mere matter of form in order to assure the continuity of unconditional payment. What was regarded as a matter of form in the first instance is now evidently to be treated as an actual payment.

"In any event, it seems clear that this particular proposal involves a modification of the Young plan, which we understand the French government was particularly anxious to avoid. The American government not being a signatory of course cannot undertake to negotiate change.

Misunderstands Sacrifices.

"The American government feels that perhaps there is some misunderstanding on the part of France as to the sacrifices which would be required from her under the plan proposed.

"We must assume that with the present situation in Germany and the failure of the American proposals, then Germany will unquestionably give notice for the postponement of all conditional reparations as provided in the Young plan, and that this portion of inter-governmental payments will not be forthcoming.

"Therefore, in measuring the sacrifices necessary there can only be considered the effect of the unconditional payments if Germany is able to find a foreign exchange necessary to meet these payments. If the American proposal shall fail and if conditional payments are postponed under the provision of the Young plan and even assuming that unconditional payments are maintained, France would receive from these unconditional payments, after priorities have been accepted, approximately 105 million dollars.

Obligated to Pay Much.

"She would be obliged to pay:

"[a] The guarantee fund of 106 million dollars under the Young plan.

"[b] One hundred ten million dollars to Great Britain and the United States approximately.

"Whereas her receipts from the unconditional reparations even if they be maintained would be less than one-half of this sum. Thus if the American proposal should fail and the suspension provisions of the Young plan be invoked by Germany then France will be the loser during the forthcoming year of general postponement by over 100 million dollars.

"There is no escaping the fact that the world will not emerge from the present depression without temporary sacrifices by all. Our government believes that coöperative action in the carrying out of a well conceived and agreed on program will not only diminish the burden, but contribute materially to the restoration of normal conditions, which all of the nations so earnestly hope for. In the light of this major objective the American government hopes that the French government, whose coöperation is so essential, will find a method to reconcile existing differences so as to permit a concerted effort by all in the carrying out of the President's program."

KEYNES APPEALS TO INVESTORS TO END DEPRESSION

The breakdown of investment throughout the world is the cause of the world slump and the problem of recovery is the problem of reëstablishing the volume of investment, according to John Maynard Keynes, English economist, who lectured yesterday at the institute of the Norman Wait Harris Memorial, University of Chicago.

The problem of recovery is also, he said, indissolubly bound up with the restoration of prices to a higher level. Prices should rise, he said, rather than have salaries go down to meet the existing level of prices.

"The cure of unemployment involves improving business profits," he said. "The improvement of business profits can only come about by an improvement in new investment relative to saving.

"There are three lines of approach. The first is restoration of confidence to the lender and the borrower. The second consists in new construction programs under the auspices of the government or other public authorities. The third line of approach consists in a reduction in the long term rate of interest.

FRANCE MAY CALL CONFERENCE ON DEBT RELIEF PLAN

U.S. Memorandum Brings Matter to Head.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 1.—July first has come and gone and that is about all one can say about the progress of the moratorium negotiations today.

Although considerable noise is being made on both sides of the Atlantic about the American answer to the French note—technically styled a memorandum in order to avoid political complications with France—it failed, with the exception of one veiled hint, to offer France any hope of putting over its counter proposals.

It is expected that tomorrow night the Franco-American conversations will break down, although, in order to save appearances, Premier Laval and Secretary of the Treasury Mellon may be able to keep the ball rolling for a few more days by discussing old masters and old wines.

Project Not Yet Lost.

This does not mean that the moratorium project is lost. From French sources tonight it was learned that the following sequence of events is likely:

First—Tomorrow night or Friday M. Laval, utilizing his constitutional authority and relying on the senate's vote of confidence, will close down parliament, sending the deputies and senators prematurely on vacation. This will leave the government absolutely free of interference for the next few months.

Second—Secretary Mellon and Premier Laval will announce that the two days' conversations have reached the limit of their possibilities, but that the field of disagreement has narrowed down so far that the negotiations can not be abandoned.

May Call Conference.

Third—Using as a pretext the suggestion in the American memorandum that France have the powers consulted free her from the anxiety that they may demand a share of the $120,000,000 French guarantee fund, Premier Laval will call a general conference of all Young plan powers in expectation of obtaining from them—and principally from Germany—a concession that the United States can not give—a formal release from the guarantee clause. It is considered likely here that this conference may convene within the next twenty days, possibly sooner.

All these things are contingent upon the avoidance of any political upheaval before Premier Laval can close the chamber. It is for this reason, it is understood, that the American memorandum, which was originally intended to be a note, was rebaptized. If it had been delivered as a note France would have been obliged to answer and the French press and chamber would have been informed of its contents.

Changed to "Memorandum."

Consequently it was decided at the last moment that the document would be merely a memorandum cabled to Ambassador Edge for his personal enlightenment, and that Laval would be furnished with a courtesy copy.

Although the text of the memorandum was released in Washington, the French government will give out nothing before tomorrow night at the earliest. Premier Laval hopes by then to have read off the cloture proclamation, leaving the deputies no time to get steamed up ove ther American memorandum.

A cabinet meeting will be held tomorrow to consider the American offer and at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow night the Americans will return to get an answer.

REPORT SCHEME UNDER WAY TO ISOLATE FRANCE

Plan Would Give Berlin Full Moratorium.

BERLIN, July 1.—(AP)—United States Ambassador Sackett tonight issued to the German press an official denial of reports printed here from Washington to the effect that should negotiations at Paris regarding the Hoover plan fail, the United States would offer to free all debtor nations from payments to the United States if they would waive reparations payments from Germany.

"No such proposal has been made by the American government to England, Italy or Germany," Mr. Sackett said. "The American state department authorizes denial of these reports. If any modification or different plan were at any time to be considered in connection with President Hoover's suspension suggestion it would, of course, be given first to France."

DETAILS OF REPORT

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 1.—According to reports in London tonight, a plan to isolate France in case she rejects the Hoover moratorium plan has been sultation with the British.

The scheme, according to statements made here, is that President Hoover will repeat his moratorium offer to all creditor nations except France. He has already been assured of its acceptance by these nations. France being thus left out, will insist on collecting her share of the German reparations, but the Germans will claim the right to a moratorium on the conditional payments, under the terms of the Young plan, and will make only the unconditional payments, amounting to about $100,000,000.

Will Loan Money to Germany.

This is almost exactly what France must pay to the United States and Great Britain under the debt funding agreements, and these two nations, on receiving the money from France, will immediately lend it to Germany, probably free of interest. France will gain nothing but complete isolation and lose the value of all payments from Germany.

At the same time she stands to lose much more. In the last few days Poland, Czecho-Slovakia, and Jugo-Slavia, which since the war have been financial and political satellites of France, have approached Great Britain and asked how they could be freed from French domination.

The method of liberation in their minds seems to be a British loan enabling them to pay off France, after which they would also sever political bonds.

Britain Refers Them to League.

These approaches have been made informally, so as not to go on record, but it is understood that British statesmen have suggested a loan may be much better arranged through the league of nations. The three powers, however, have declared they would rather deal with Great Britain direct, and it is said that the United States might come to the aid of Great Britain in raising the necessary funds.

It is understood that British statesmen have already warned France that if she turns down the moratorium she will be morally and politically isolated from Rumania Accepts Plan.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, July 1.—Italy's application of the Hoover moratorium plan was accomplished in fact today, but the Italian government was without responses from the United States, England or Germany, except for unofficial advices that its move had caused satisfaction in all three countries.

Premier Mussolini's government was concerned with the failure of France to come to an agreement with the United States, and in case the negotiations break down, it is reiterated here that Italy stands ready to aid President Hoover in any subsequent plan for extending aid to Germany without France.

In government circles, however, there is a growing feeling of uncertainty about the real purpose of the Hoover plan, and what really occasioned its sudden proposal. Suggestions are made in the press that the British government had a hand in it, and that it is another Anglo-Saxon deal.

EDITORIAL FROM TRIBUNE DRAWS SMOOT CRITICISM

Senator Denies 'Germany Pays for U. S. Show.'

Senator Reed Smoot, chairman of the senate finance committee, during a brief stop in Chicago last night while en route from Washington, D. C., to his home in Provo, Utah, discussed some of the aspects of the Hoover debt moratorium plan.

In the course of his discussion the senator commented on an editorial appearing in Tuesday morning's TRIBUNE under the title "Germany Pays for the American Show." Senator Smoot took exception to the following excerpt from that editorial, which he quoted:

"In collecting from Germany for the army which so long remained so needlessly on the Rhine the United States is doing something wrong and offensive to its own self-respect. It was feeding off a prostrate enemy when that enemy had done what the American government prescribed for it as a measure to gain the sympathy and cooperation of this democracy. It threw out its military autocracy and became a republic. Upon the republic the United States fastened the commissary of an army of occupation and the other costs of its upkeep. America stood aloof from every other imposition upon the defeated nation, but it took part in this picayunish one."

At Solicitation of Germany.

"There must have been some misunderstanding on the part of the author of that editorial," said Senator Smoot, "for the army of occupation was made up of American soldiers and left on the Rhine at the solicitation of both Germany and France. The promise accompanying that request was that the cost of the army of occupation should be paid to the United States in cash.

"That never was done, but when the Young plan was finally agreed to America accepted two and a half per cent of the reparations in payment for costs of the army of occupation which was to be paid in cash. I emphasize again that the army was left over there only at the express request of both Germany and France. Our government didn't want to leave any of our army there; our soldiers didn't want to stay. The army was wanted there as a buffer between naturally hostile peoples.

Settlement with France.

"In the final settlements of the advances made to the French government by the United States during and following the war the United States forgave 49 per cent of all the debt. And we also sold about two billion dollars' worth of supplies and properties to France for $407,000,000, and this amount, the payment of which fell due years ago, was included in the 51 per cent of the settlement and remains a part of the French debt to us payable over a period of 62 years."

ARREST ORDERED IN MURDER.

The arrest of Fred T. Hansen, a blacksmith of St. Charles on a charge of murder, was ordered yesterday by a coroner's jury investigating the death of William Dawgiallo, owner of the Horseshoe inn, a roadhouse near Elgin, after it had been testified that Hansen shot Dawgiallo following an altercation June 28.

CUT GOVERNMENT COST, EMMERSON PLEA IN CRISIS

Brittain Heads Group to Work Out Relief.

Gov. Emmerson placed himself on record three times yesterday for a cut in governmental expense. He proclaimed his attitude in a formal statement to his revenue committee of 43 men, which he assembled at the Stevens hotel yesterday morning.

First he asserted: "Some drastic efforts must be made to decrease the cost of government."

A little later in his speech the governor said with emphasis: "Those responsible for government must see to it that expenditures are reduced to a minimum so that the burden will be no greater than is required for efficiency."

Asks for Recommendations.

Finally, in assigning the task to his revenue committee, the governor made this statement: "During investigations of the tax situation, this conference should inquire into governmental expenditures and submit recommendations that may be considered in enacting legislation for curtailing them in instances where it appears that there has been a waste of public money. There is no reason why principles of good business should not apply to the transaction of the public's business."

The announced purpose of the conference, initiated by the governor, was to find "a practical solution of the revenue problem" of the local governments as well as governmental agencies downstate and to obtain an agreement on what remedial legislation is deemed best. The conference, after listening to the governor's ideas and suggestions, appointed a subcommittee to work out a program not only relating to tax reform but also to reducing governmental costs.

Names Committee of Eleven.

This subcommittee of eleven members met immediately and organized by electing Joseph K. Brittain as chairman. Then it was announced that it will meet tonight at the Union League club, when it is hoped to have a tentative outline of procedure agreed upon.

The personnel of that subcommittee, selected by the conference itself, is as follows:

Joseph K. Brittain, chairman of joint organization tax committee.
Samuel Insull, Commonwealth Edison company.
James R. Leavell, president Continental Illinois bank.
Victor Olander, secretary Illinois Federation of Labor.
Fred W. Sargent, president Chicago and North Western railroad.
William H. Sexton, corporation counsel of Chicago.
Earl C. Smith, president Illinois Agricultural association.
S. E. Thomason, publisher Daily Times.
Ray Wantz, Rockford manufacturer.

No Special Session Soon.

It is considered improbable that any special session of the legislature will be called before late September or October—and perhaps it will be later. The governor is said to believe that it would be impossible to get the legislators to consider bills during the hot summer at Springfield. In addition, it is anticipated that the Brittain committee will require three or more months to formulate a sound tax system with sufficient data on its probable effect to gain public support for its enactment into law.

The governor intentionally avoided, he explained, a definite expression of what he thought should be done. He said that he did not want to prejudice the conference, which is to express its opinion of the plan when the subcommittee works it out.

Realty Burden Too Heavy.

The only exception was the governor's view that real estate bears too large a part of the tax burden. After asserting that real estate pays 80 per cent of the taxes, Gov. Emmerson said: This tremendous burden is more than many real estate owners can bear. It amounts to actual confiscation of property, in many instances."

Quoting some of the published figures in THE TRIBUNE, the governor went on relative to local tax delinquencies as follows:

"There is a minimum of $170,000,000 in delinquent taxes now due. Of this amount $99,800,000 is uncollected on the 1929 taxes, $50,000,000 on the 1928 taxes, and $5,000,000 on the 1927 taxes. In addition, there is $15,738,000 of taxes, forfeiture fees, and penalties on real estate taxes."

Otherwise, Gov. Emmerson did not indicate what trend he desires the conference subcommittee to take. He was very definite, however, that something must be done to relieve the present situation. He urged not only a "feasible plan for the immediate emergency, but also for ultimate tax reform."

"The year's delay in tax collections," the governor said, "has resulted in depleting local treasuries, inability to meet pay rolls, the issuance of anticipatory warrants to the limit of the power of the banks to absorb them, delay in payment of large sums due the state and in default on bonded indebtedness.

"Added to the breaking down of the revenue system in Cook county," went on the governor, "is the enormous growth in local governmental expenditures. It is estimated that the increase in the city and school taxes in Chicago since 1912 is ten times greater than the increase in population. And these increases have borne heavily on real estate."

Urging the necessity for a remedy, the governor said: "The main problem is one of providing immediate relief in the best manner possible under the restrictions imposed upon us by the present constitution. It is imperative that this be done. Some semblance of order, some semblance of equality, in taxation, must be brought out of this chaos, if local and state governments are to continue to function.

"In formulating a plan for temporary relief, the need for permanent improvement should be borne in mind constantly. Any plan agreed upon by you gentlemen for immediate relief should be woven closely with a plan for complete revision of our taxing system as soon as constitutional obstacles now in the way can be removed.

"Every one agrees that something must be done, but no one has offered a plan upon which a majority can agree. Until such a plan is proposed, it would be folly to call a special session of the legislature, for nothing could be accomplished by it."

When a plan is evolved the governor said that he will coöperate with the conference to the limit of his power.

At the subcommittee's session in the Union league tonight it is planned to listen to Corpoartion Counsel Sexton, J. Louis Jacobs, county efficiency expert, and Hayden Bell, county tax attorney. They are expected to produce some trustworthy figures as well as some descriptive words of the present financial condition of the city and county.

Aldermen Make Request.

While the governor's conference was in session a join meeting of the council committees on state legislation and efficiency adopted a resolution asking the governor, in his call for a special session, to include these subjects:

1. Revision of the revenue laws of the state.
2. Financial relief for Chicago and other local and downstate governments.
3. A plan of requiring contractors and subcontractors engaged on public work to keep accounts in such manner as may be prescribed by public authority, and which will accurately reflect the cost and complete details relative to all receipts and disbursements and subject such accounts to public audit, and further provide for publicity in regard thereto.
4. Consolidation of the local governments.
5. A plan to relieve unemployment and give aid to the poor.
6. A plan to stabilize banks and correct faulty conditions.

The last idea came from Ald. Barnet Hodes [7th] and the fifth plan from Ald. James B. Waller [43d]. The first four were initiated by Ald. John A. Massen [48th]. The preamble to the resolution asserts that the "local governments are in desperate need of financial relief."

Ald. Massen's idea of relief is not more taxes but a cut in the expense. He said:

"We are very close to the point of diminishing returns in taxation. An increase in the tax burden would be disasterous. The current high cost of government imposes a burden on commerce, industry and finance which retards prosperity in normal times and is now impeding its return. It is imperative, therefore, that we cut the cost of government.

"The enactment of legislation simplifying the assessing and reviewing machinery, redistributing the tax burden and enlarging the tax base, funding the 1930 taxes and the outstanding tax anticipation warrants and funding the local government deficits may be desirable, but they will not produce any appreciable reduction in the high cost of government.

"Legislation such as this will prove but a temporary expedient. The situation calls for measures more drastic than these. Nor will any mere paring of the pay rolls do the job. There are other wastes of public funds just as malignant as payroll waste.

"Conspicuous among these is the waste incident to the high cost of public works and supplies. There is no data available for a determination of these wastes, but the disclosures by District Attorney Johnson demonstrate that they are tremendous."

TEACHERS WIN GOVERNOR'S HELP BY THEIR PARADE

Promises to Aid in Getting State Fund.

The school teachers who paraded down Michigan avenue yesterday, halted by policemen and rebuffed by hotel doormen, did not march in vain. By their demonstration they won the attention of Gov. Emmerson and obtained his promise to do all he can in support of their plea that state funds be used to pay Chicago school employes.

AGNES CLOHESY.

Miss Agnes Clohesy, president of the Chicago Elementary School Teachers' union, asked the governor to order the sale of state anticipation warrants to obtain $3,200,000 which is Chicago's share of the state distributive school fund for 1931. If obtained, that sum would pay approximately a third of the salaries due the city's school employes, giving them checks of from $35 to $150 apiece.

Gov. Emmerson, State Treasurer Barrett and State Auditor Nelson, following a conference on the proposal, said that they thought it could be carried out, provided they could get an opinion from Chapman and Cutler, bond attorneys, upholding the legality of selling tax warrants before the Cook county treasurer certifies the 1930 assessment.

The bond attorneys promised to render an opinion on the subject by this afternoon.

The parade had an inauspicious start. Miss Clohesy had invited all the teachers in Chicago to join in the demonstration but because of the heat less than 200 responded. The procession started from the Congress hotel, most of the marchers having been recruited from the convention there of the American Federation of Teachers.

The marchers had gone only a block when South Park Policeman Thomas Corr halted them. "Had they a permit to parade?" he asked. They had not. Then they couldn't march in the street, he ruled. The group broke formation and went down the sidewalk, its posters lowered, to the Stevens hotel.

At the doors of the hotel they were halted again, this time by uniformed doormen. Heated equally by their indignation and a blazing sun, the teachers demanded to know why they were barred from the building. An assistant manager disclosed that it was at the governor's request.

It was arranged, however, that Miss Clohesy, Kate A. Krausel of the Playground Teachers' association, and C. A. Davis, a delegate to the National Teachers' convention from San Francisco, should see Jack Abbey, secretary to the governor. He arranged the conference later with Gov. Emmerson, Auditor Nelson, and Treasurer Barrett.

Progress of the school board's plan to offer scrip to its employes and contractors in place of cash today awaits an opinion from Corporation Counsel Sexton. Charles E. Gilbert, secretary of the school board, yesterday forwarded to City Controller Szymczak the tax warrants on which the scrip would be based, requesting his signature and that of Mayor Cermak. They replied that they would not sign until the corporation counsel approves the scheme.

DEPRESSION DUE TO GREED OF BUSINESS, TEACHERS ARE TOLD

Delegates to the annual convention of the American Federation of Teachers attended a banquet in the Congress hotel last night which virtually brought the convention to an end. Routine business will be transacted today and tomorrow.

John P. Frey, representing President William Green of the American Federation of Labor, told the teachers that the real reason for the present depression was the failure of leaders in finance and industry to divide their profits with labor and agriculture. He declared that the present depression began in 1922.

Abraham Lefkowitz of New York, a vice president of the federation, deplored a movement afoot in some states to cut the salaries of teachers.

"A policy of salary reduction adopted by boards of education is bound to prove socially suicidal since it must lower the quality of teaching," he said.

NEW YARDSTICKS

Today there is a man in one of America's great electrical shops who is dealing familiarly with measurements little as the millionth part of an inch. Yet Mr. Einstein and his friends reach out into space for billions of accurately measured miles.

Science has accomplished more in our day than in all of the years that have gone before. To improve upon what has been done is to peg civilization farther up the heights of progress. The scientific mind is building a new and better world, on solid foundations.

But science is not the only thing that has progressed remarkably. The fine art of keeping a store has also made great strides upward. It has so refined its measurements of means and methods that it is hardly what it was a decade ago.

Modern precision methods in this store have not only enabled us to meet accurately the imperative demands of the day with a world-gleaned variety of timely merchandise but they have given us a price-advantage that is as unique as it is outstanding.

By the elimination of uncertain measurements of market possibilities much has been achieved. Great refinements in production and assembling systems have helped tremendously. But most important has been the careful revaluation of the American dollar, by which price-levels of the world's finest merchandise have here been scaled down to new low records.

The time has come when nicely measured expenditure for merchandise is a wise and safe investment.

7,245 EMPLOYES OF CITY PUT ON FIVE DAY WEEK

Mayor Orders 10% Cut in Expenditures.

Mayor Cermak yesterday ordered all city employés who are paid by the day placed on a five day week basis. He also instructed his department heads that they must effect at least a 10 per cent saving at the end of the year from their appropriations for all purposes other than salaries and wages.

With the plan for payless vacations now pending before the city council finance committee, it was estimated that the retrenchments ordered will save the city nearly $5,000,000 out of its $67,000,000 budget for 1931.

Only a Beginning.

These retrenchments, the mayor informed his subordinates in a letter, are only the beginning of a program of strict economy designed to reduce municipal expenditures within the limits of the expected tax collections. "There will be cause for congratulations," he stated, "if tax collections make it possible to realize on more than from 60 to 75 per cent of the appropriations set up in the budget."

The plan to make all city employés take two weeks' vacation without pay requires passage of an ordinance, now in the hands of the finance committee of the council. If passed, it will save the city an estimated $2,400,000 in salaries.

There are at present 7,245 city employés paid on a per diem basis. Their wages run from $5.50 a day for street sweepers and laborers, to $14 and $15 a day for skilled artisans, and the number employed varies throughout the year according to the amount of building and repair work being carried on. It is estimated roughly, however, that a five day week for these workers, enforced for the remaining six months of the year, will save the city $500,000.

See $2,050,000 Saving.

In a city budget of $67,000,000 for 1931, approximately $42,000,000 is set up for salaries and wages and $4,500,000 for bonds and interest. If department heads comply with the mayor's demand that they save 10 per cent of all other appropriations, the saving will be $2,050,000.

The three items from vacations, per diem wages and budgetary savings thus will total $4,950,000, it is estimated.

Trustees of the municipal employés' pension fund met yesterday and voted to purchase $800,000 worth of 1931 municipal tax anticipation warrants from the surplus of the pension fund.

Members of the Cook county board met yesterday and devoted most of their time to straightening out tangles growing out of the threatened insolvency of local governments which has grown out of the tax collection muddle.

The board ordered the refunding of $1,052,400 bonds at 5 per cent authorized by a recent legislative act. Proceeds of the sale of the bonds will pay the balance of the $1,868,400 default on county bonds, which took place June 1. James C. Russell, superintendent of public service, was instructed to advertise for bids.

Notice of Unpaid Bills.

The Photostatic Corporation of America served notice on the board that it had unpaid bills for photostatic paper furnished the county for reproducing records in the Circuit, Superior and Probate courts, and would furnish no more paper until the bills were paid. Thomas O. Wallace and Frank V. Zintak, clerks of the Circuit and Superior courts, respectively, and Probate Judge Horner informed the commissioners that since the supply of paper was necessary to the functioning of their courts, they would seek some legal way of paying the bills out of court fees.

Sitting as the forest preserve board, the commissioners ordered that all employés of the forest preserve district take two weeks' vacation without pay. The action was in line with a similar one taken Monday for all other county employés.

Using money collected as fees, County Treasurer McDonough paid $55,000 in interest and principal on county bonds which fell due yesterday.

Attorney Julius Rieger Admitted to Probation

Attorney Julius Rieger was placed on probation for five years yesterday by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson on condition that Rieger refrain from practicing law for that period.

GROUP TO SELECT CUTMORE'S SUCCESSOR WILL MEET TODAY

The first formal meeting of the advisory committee named by the board of assessors to select a successor to Harry S. Cutmore, ousted director of appraisals, is to be held this morning in the assessors' office. The announcement was made following an informal conference yesterday of six members of the committee with the assessors.

At the conference S. E. Thomason, newspaper publisher, informed the assessors he will be unable to serve on the committee because of his previous appointment to the governor's revenue conference. He suggested all meetings of the committee be public. At today's meeting the committee is to select a chairman and plan procedure.

Members of the committee are Mark Levy, Thomas Collins, Frank P. Murphy, Homer J. Buckley, Edward F. Dunne, Sidney Gorham, Bruce Johnstone, and August Gewecke. Applications for the post may be addressed to the committee in the county building, it was announced.

LONDON WILL SIP COOL BEER UNDER THE SHADY TREES

Liquor Will Be Sold in Public Parks.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 1.—Despite heated protests by the "drys," Londoners are to have their beer gardens in royal and other public parks. First Commissioner of Works George Lansbury vigorously defended the policy of providing liquor for millions a la continental style, at a stormy session, with dry advocates forming a deputation in the house of commons tonight.

The teetotallers bitterly attacked the minister's scheme, declaring that parliament should have been consulted before sanction was given. Lady Astor was foremost in the criticism, declaring that Mr. Lansbury was opening the door to the drink trade.

"You ought to be made to resign," she shouted, rising from her seat and withdrawing from the room. Commissioner Lansbury smiled indulgently at Lady Astor's outburst, remarking they could understand her fury but did not always understand her consistency.

"I am not repentant," he declared. "Not all the temperance people and all the clergy of the country will convince me against my opinion. If we allow the chancellor of the exchequer to get millions out of drink, it is the duty of the state to see that conditions under which it is consumed are made more wholesome." The minister added that he will continue advocating that it is better for a man to drink beer or whisky where his wife and children can be with him than in private bars from which they are shut out.

He pointed out that liquor was already sold in many places controlled by the office of works, such as the botanical gardens and the zoological gardens, and that the office of works was actually running a public house in the town of London.

Commissioner Lansbury further upset the drys by announcing that he proposed the establishment of a licensed restaurant in Kensington gardens in the heart of London's west end, provided parliamentary sanction was obtained.

"I shall personally advise the house of commons to grant facilities," he added as a parting shot.

RECORDER PROMISES $226,000 SAVING IN HIS OFFICE THIS YEAR

County Recorder Clayton F. Smith announced yesterday that his office will be operated this year at a saving of $226,000 below the appropriation allowed his predecessor in 1928, the year before he took office.

The recorder's office was the first one in the county building to institute payless vacations. Before the county board put the two week payless vacation plan into force the recorder called a meeting of his 400 employés, explained that financial stringency might make it necessary to lay off fifty of them, and obtained their consent to a general three week vacation without pay. That saved $60,000, he said.

The remainder of the saving, as he figured it, was the $166,739 difference between his appropriation this year and the 1928 appropriation for his predecessor.

ACCUSES BIDDERS OF PRICE DEAL ON SCHOOL SUPPLIES

President Lewis E. Myers of the board of education charged yesterday that contractors were getting together and agreeing on equal prices before submitting bids on supplies to the board of education.

His charge was made at a meeting of the committee on purchases and supplies when it was pointed out that identical bids had been made by a score of companies for a supply of basketballs, handballs, erasers, crayons and chamois skins.

"I do not wish to accuse anyone of illegal tactics," Mr. Myers said, "but someone or something is being jobbed. Whether it is the contractors, the manufacturers or ourselves I do not know, but I am in favor of calling the office of the United States' district attorney to investigate. It looks like restraint of trade."

The committee voted to reject all bids and readvertise, writing a letter to the contractors to explain the action.

Vehicle Tax Collections Show $178,135 Decrease

Vehicle tax collection for the first six months of 1931 fell $178,135 behind those for the corresponding period of last year, according to a statement issued yesterday by City Collector Kaindl. The collections to July 1, of this year totaled $4,898,857 as compared to $5,076,992 for the first six months of last year.

APARTMENT OWNER ROBBED.

Two bandits held up Charles Haas, owner of an apartment building at 237 Washington boulevard, Oak Park, yesterday and robbed him of $55.

SEEK DATA ON INCOME TAX FOR ASSESSORS' USE

Corporation Counsel Sexton was asked by the city council committee on economy yesterday for information relative to what steps could be taken to obtain federal income return statistics for use by the Cook county assessors in assessing personal property. The suggestion that the city try to obtain the income returns was advanced by Ald. James B. Waller [43d].

The committee also appointed a subcommittee to consider an ordinance drafted by Ald. John A. Massen [48th] which would compel all contractors working on city improvements to keep uniform accounts, and to keep duplicates of their accounts on file with the city controller.

DREISER ATTACKS "POWER TRUST" AND TELLS WHY

Author Defends Norris in Lengthy Statement.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 1.—[Special.]—Theodore Dreiser, author, today came to light in a new rôle, that of an expert on the power problem, with the publication of a letter from him to Senator George W. Norris, insurgent Republican of Nebraska, inclosing a letter to Paul S. Clapp, managing director of the National Electric Power association.

THEODORE DREISER.

Entering the debate between Senator Norris and Mr. Clapp over the "power trust," the former insisting on the latter denying, the existence of such an institution, Mr. Dreiser in a lengthy reply to Mr. Clapp's latest argument takes up the cudgels for the senator.

The genesis of the controversy was an article in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE last February setting forth Senator Norris' views and an answer written by Mr. Clapp at THE TRIBUNE'S request.

Mr. Dreiser calls attention to Mr. Clapp's statement that the federal trade commission "could not find any power trust."

Mr. Dreiser's Reply.

"What the commission found, however, I myself want to state, was an undue centralization of systems," Mr. Dreiser declared. "The five largest utility corporations control 52 per cent of the total electric power; the following three, another 12 per cent; and the next ten companies, an additional 22 per cent. This concentrates 86 per cent of the power in 18 groups, in many cases financially interlocked. Although these peaked holding companies, one owned by another, do not in any particular case own a majority of operating plants, they work infinitely harmful control. A company with less than $1,000,000 has controlled companies worth several hundred millions. The Standard Gas and Electric, with an investment of $7,000,000, commands the policies of other concerns valued at 200 million.

Contrary to Mr. Clapp's claim, Mr. Dreiser asserts that power and light rates are fixed not alone on the value of property actually used or useful in public service.

Charge Rate Padding.

"Thus," Mr. Dreiser writes, "the Northern Indiana Gas and Electric, controlled by the Commonwealth Power of New York made their rates to their customers cover a $42,000 per year engineering bill as well as an extra assessment for capital charges on the same amounts."

New York state law, says Mr. Dreiser, declares that unclassified valuations shall not be accredited. Despite this, he claims, 163 million dollars exists on the state's utilities books as unclassified, "and the people are made to pay rates in order that the companies may earn a return on it."

After citing other instances of what he alleges are watered values and unfair practices, Mr. Dreiser goes on to show that electric rates have not come in keeping with lowered costs of production and points to the lower rates of certain government owned utilities in Canada.

Claim Utility Buys Papers.

"But don't go away. There is more," he concludes. "For instance, Mr. Clapp, in reply to the charge that the utilities are buying up newspapers and therefore jeopardizing freedom of the press, says that this purchase of papers by the International Paper company is an attempt to enlarge its market for the sale of newsprint to its manufactures, and that only. But I personally question this. Let me call your attention to the fact that although only 25 per cent of its profits are from newsprint, 54 per cent are from the sale of electricity, according to the testimony of its president, A. W. Grantstein, the extent of the International Paper deals with newspapers amounts to an $8,000,000 investment. It is in fact, it owns 250,000 shares of preferred and 5,000 shares of common stock in the Chicago Daily News; holds $1,954,000 in notes for and owns 40 shares of common stock in the Brooklyn Daily Eagle [one of 17 large papers owned by Frank E. Gannett]; $40,000 worth of preferred stock and 1,250 shares of common in the Albany Evening News; and 5,214 shares of common stock costing $2,690,000 in the Boston Herald and Boston Traveler and in many more.

"But Mr. Clapp insists, however, that control of newspapers is against utility principles."

"Tut!"

Act to Conserve Water.

With the pressure at this low stage, Commissioner of Public Works A. A. Sprague requested the police to warn janitors against making garden hose fountains at all hours of the day and to arrest self-constituted firemen who were opening street hydrants to provide urchins with a shower bath.

The county hospital, with its thousands of patients bedridden and perspiring, had to call on Emmett Whealan, president of the county board, to meet an unexpected laundry bill out of his contingency fund.

The hospital laundry, Warden Michael Zimmer explained, was unable to launder the thousands of sheets needed to keep the beds fresh. Mr. Whealan authorized the warden to take bids from nearby commercial laundries to handle the excess wash.

LACK PATROL WAGONS

Complaints were made yesterday against delays in police assistance to heat victims, two of whom, it is charged, died where they collapsed while waiting for police ambulances.

On Tuesday Acting Commissioner John Alcock ordered withdrawn from service eleven patrols, leaving eight districts without patrol service, and reducing the machines of other districts from two to one. The withdrawal order was effective yesterday, and the patrols still in use were continually on the go, some having two and three calls at one time.

Fifty-one Deaths Reported.

At midnight last night, fifty-one deaths, directly and indirectly attributed to the heat, were on record at the coroner's office. Of this number, fifteen were over 65 years of age.

Among the victims was William Hein, 62 years old, of 6023 South Sacramento avenue. He was stricken at 48th street and Oakley avenue while at work. New city police were notified, but could send no patrol because of the withdrawal order which removed their wagon. The call was transferred to the stockyards district. An hour and a half later police had not yet arrived, and Hein died.

Another victim was Joseph Landa, 32 years old, who was prostrated in him home at 4325 South Honore street. A neighborhood physician notified police, but by the time a patrol arrived 45 minutes later, Landa was dead.

James Bell, 81 years old, of 2309 South Des Plaines street, collapsed at Lake and Des Plaines streets less than a block from the Des Plaines station. He laid there one and one-half hours. Finally an onlooker carried him to the police house. At the county hospital his condition was pronounced serious.

At 600 West Madison street Peter Benecoes, 65 years old, collapsed. Forty-five minutes later a police ambulance took him to the county hospital.

In the Marquette police district, an unidentified man, about 65 years old, was found suffering from the heat at 18th and Paulina streets. The patrol of the Marquette district was out at the time on a call in the Lawndale district, and the man waited half an hour before being taken to the county hospital. He died later.

Another victim, Frank Fone, 55 years old, of 1212 Washington boulevard, waited a half hour at 2445 South California avenue, for police aid. He also died at the hospital.

HEAT WAVE REDUCES SURPLUS OF MILK IN CHICAGO DISTRICT

Reports from dairy farms to the Pure Milk association yesterday indicated that the heat wave had reduced milk production in the Chicago area by 18 per cent. Previously a surplus of 33 per cent above the retail demand had been reported. The bottle trade, however, is still not sufficient to consume the production.

Both farmers and dealers are expressing concern over the possibility that Gov. Emmerson may sign house bill 1199, which would prohibit trailers on milk trucks after one year. Nearly all of Chicago's milk supply comes in trucks and trailers, and the dairy interests point out that the law would either force rail shipments at a higher cost or nearly double the cost of truck transportation.

Dairymen expressed fears that this increased transportation cost might be reflected in smaller milk checks to farmers or a raise in retail prices to the consumers.

"Trucks form the quickest and most economical method of bringing milk into the city from the nearby dairy farms," said A. M. Krahl of the Farmers' Milk association. "Farmers living nearby have this advantage over farmers more distant from Chicago in the competition for milk sales here."

POLICEMEN SHED COATS, COOL OFF ON ALCOCK ORDER

Street Car and "L" Men in Shirt Sleeves.

Some relief was afforded yesterday to heat suffering policemen and crews of elevated trains and street cars by orders permitting them to strip their coats and work in shirt sleeves. In most cases, railroad trainmen were still forced to wear their coats.

Acting Police Commissioner Alcock started his day by issuing a bulletin through the radio and teletype system informing the force that it could be comfortable if it desired.

"Because of the intense weather, policemen will be permitted to work in their shirt sleeves," the order read.

Other Police Shed Coats.

This made comfort unanimous among the police forces of the city, all three park boards—West, South, and Lincoln—having previously acknowledged the terrific weather with similar orders.

Commissioner Alcock made further concessions in the afternoon, supplementing the coat order by another abolishing puttees as a part of the official uniform if the policemen purchased straight trousers to wear in place of breeches. Dr. Elmer Mosley, department surgeon, reported many cases of infection and of varicose veins had been caused by the binding leather.

Supt. C. H. Evenson of the Chicago Surface Lines ordered his 10,000 motormen and conductors to discard their jackets in favor of shirts and black ties. A similar order at the Chicago Rapid Transit Lines office released 4,500 trainmen and platform guards from the confines of their heavy uniform coats.

Less fortunate were the crews of suburban trains. At the Illinois Central railroad, R. O. Fischer, assistant to the vice president, said that no request had come from the trainmen asking for "coats off" and he believed that such permission would not be given voluntarily.

Wear Light Coats.

"The men are wearing light alpaca coats," he said, "and it's cool riding up and down the line."

Over at the Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific offices, Assistant General Manager E. S. Rummel said he was perfectly willing that the men shed their coats if they chose.

B. E. Terpning, general superintendent of the Chicago & North Western railway, does not believe in this freedom. "We have reports that the weather now is cool at Omaha," he said, "and it will be here tomorrow. Our men will remain in uniform."

Policeman Thomas Malone Dies of Heat Prostration

Prostrated by the heat while on duty last night, Policeman Thomas Malone, 39 years old, of 4847 Jackson boulevard, died early this morning at St. Anthony's hospital. Malone, attached to the Fillmore street station, wandered in a daze to 18th street and Crawford avenue, in another police district, where he collapsed. He was a world war veteran and was gassed overseas. In 1925 he won extra compensation for shooting and capturing a bandit in a gun battle in which he himself was wounded.

DROWNS IN QUARRY POOL.

William Wojcik, 26 years old, of 5632 South Homan avenue, was drowned last night when he was seized with cramps while swimming in a water filled quarry a mile east of Lemont.

ADMIT RUSSIAN PULPWOOD CARGO —NOT CONVICT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 1.—[Special.]—Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Seymour Lowman announced today that a shipload of Russian pulpwood aboard the Steamer Minnequa at New York would be admitted into the United States despite the American ban against soviet convict labor goods. This cargo, consigned to the International Paper company of New York, was held up pending the hearing today.

SEYMOUR LOWMAN

Charge Not Proved.

In announcing the decision Mr. Lowman said that no evidence had been discovered indicating that the disputed cargo had been produced within the so-called convict labor area of the soviet republic—north of the 60th degree of latitude. Officials of the paper company and of the Amtorg Trading corporation, the soviet sales agency in the United States, testified at the hearing held before Mr. Lowman that the pulp wood in question was not produced by convict labor.

"The soviet industrial policy was not a subject of inquiry in this case," Mr. Lowman said. "The sole question was that of whether the cargo was produced by convict labor and therefore excluded under the tariff laws."

Contract Two Years Old.

Attorney C. O. Brown, counsel for the International Paper company, said the cargo of 2,869 cords was being delivered under a contract entered into two years ago. Mr. Brown denied that his company favored the importation of convict labor products.

Objection to the Minnequa cargo was registered by the American Federation of Labor, the National Lumber Manufacturers' association, and other organizations, on the ground that the pulp wood is a product either in whole or in part of convict labor.

M. S. Makodzub, vice president of the Amtorg corporation, testified that the pulp wood was produced in Ural, 2,000 miles from districts from which importation of lumber has been prohibited by the treasury.

WIFE GETS DIVORCE FROM HEAD OF COYNE ELECTRICAL SCHOOL

Mrs. Georgia Lewis was granted a divorce Tuesday from Harold C. Lewis, wealthy president of the Coyne Electrical school, 500 South Paulina street, in a hearing in the chambers of Circuit Judge Daniel P. Trude, it became known yesterday when papers in the case were filed.

Mrs. Lewas was awarded a property and insurance settlement exceeding $100,000 and alimony which eventually will amount to $25,000 a year, under the terms of a settlement made May 27, the day before she filed her divorce bill charging Lewis with cruelty.

Lewis agreed to complete payments on the home at 950 Columbian avenue, Oak Park, to which he gave Mrs. Lewis title, to complete the payments on her automobile, and to pay the premiums on a $75,000 life insurance policy of which she is the beneficiary.

She will receive $24,000 alimony at once, which payment is for two years, then $15,000 a year until the bonded indebtedness of the electrical school is paid off, and $25,000 a year thereafter. Mrs. Lewis was granted custody of the children, William, 7 years old, and Virginia, 2 years old.

I'M THE MAYOR OF WASHINGTON, SAYS MR. HOOVER

Washington, D. C., July 1.—(AP)—President Hoover today assumed a rôle which he seldom plays.

After posing with a group of members of the Delta Sigma Greek fraternity, he told the young men that he was in a position to be of assistance to them.

"I am mayor of Washington," he said, "and if you are not allowed to go everywhere you want to go here you let me know."

Soviet Expedition Finds Coal in Franz Joseph Land

MOSCOW, July 1.—(AP)—The soviet geological expedition in the arctic has discovered numerous coal deposits in Franz Joseph Land, a wireless message to the coal institute said today.

WILSON'S WIDOW IS CHEERED BY WARSAW CROWDS

WARSAW, July 1.—(AP)—Mrs. Woodrow Wilson arrived this evening for ceremonies in connection with the unveiling of a statue to the American war President at Posnan on July 4. With her was Bernard Baruch.

President Moscicki's adjutant and the president's son, with the entire staff of the American embassy, headed by Ambassador Willys, met them at the railway station and thrust roses into Mrs. Wilson's arms.

Passersby who recognised her in the streets raised cheers and her progress to the home of the president, where she will stay during her visit here, was accompanied by repeated cries of "Long live Mrs. Wilson."

Ignace Paderewski, former premier, today informed the president that he would be unable to participate in Saturday's ceremony because of the grave illness in Switzerland of Mme. Paderewski.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE GOVERNOR'S CONFERENCE GOES TO WORK.

The governor made an able presentation of the financial crisis confronting the state and especially the local governments of Illinois when he convened his conference of "representatives of the principal classes of taxpayers." Governmental costs are far too high, considered either absolutely or in relation to income. Tax receipts are running far behind expectations and have been doing so for a number of years. Debts have accumulated and insolvency is a fact. Immediate relief is imperative and may be followed by permanent relief based upon amendment of the revenue section of the constitution. As it is impossible to amend the revenue section before 1935 at the earliest, the immediate measures must fall within the present provisions of the constitution.

Those were his principal points. The conference thereupon selected an executive committee of eleven which is to prepare a program of legislation. The governor indicated that he will call a special session of the legislature to enact an emergency program if it can be agreed upon.

Lest there be any misunderstanding, it should be said at once that the members of the executive committee are not empowered to (and do not) speak for the industries and interests from which they are drawn. Their mandate is solely from the conference which appointed them. Though officials of the railroads, the banks, the utilities, labor, the farmers, the press, etc., are on the committee, the committee can in no sense bind these various interests to abide by their conclusions. Complete freedom of action and opinion is retained by every one who is not a member of the executive committee.

An additional task which the committee has undertaken is to examine the affairs of the local governments with a view to discovering where expenditures are unnecessary or excessive. That is perhaps the more difficult aspect of its work. In forcing a reduction of tax spending the members will inevitably meet the opposition of the politicians with their vested interest in waste. Graft and pay roll padding have been the means to political success and will not easily be surrendered. The committee will have to show extraordinary firmness of purpose and extraordinary shrewdness of judgment in separating the justified from the unjustified expenditures if it is to succeed.

Certainly it is no sinecure which confronts the eleven gentlemen selected. They are venturing into a field where a hundred indecisive battles have been fought. Great credit will be theirs if they succeed in their mission and conversely they will bear the onus of failure and the inevitable collapse of government services which will ensue from failure.

The gentlemen of the executive committee are to be congratulated upon their selection for the task in the same sense that men chosen for particularly hazardous ventures in war are to be congratulated. It is a recognition of their individual capabilities and resourcefulness. The citizens and taxpayers of Illinois and particularly of Cook county wish them all success in their endeavor.

PREPARING FOR ANOTHER CONFERENCE.

Wasn't it Mr. Ramsay MacDonald who told us a while ago that "as for parity, take it, to the full and overflowing"? We may not have the precise wording of that charming message, but the gist of it we do not forget. It seems to be otherwise with Mr. MacDonald. Parity we did not get at the proceedings in London for which Mr. MacDonald's visit to our shores was to put us in the correct mood. Parity we have not today. But Mr. MacDonald is now rebuking us for increasing our expenditures. How are we to have parity, "overflowing" or otherwise, if, being considerably below it, we do not build up to it?

Mr. MacDonald is now preparing us for another conference. His efforts before the London meeting are worthy of our recollection. The parity line is not the one to take on this occasion. All our pacifists and humanitarians will follow him on the new line. A portrait of Uncle Sam rattling the saber is in the making.

THE SCHOOL BOARD SITS TIGHT.

The trustees of the holdover board of education are proceeding to an issue of certificates, which the teachers will not take as pay, based upon tax anticipation warrants which the mayor will not sign and which the banks cannot and will not buy. This holdover board, representing an administration which left the financial wreckage, has been asked to resign, that being the one act of public service open to it. The old trustees will do everything but this. There are no apparent property rights in the positions. They are not supposed to be sustaining. The service is presumed to be a free will offering by disinterested citizens and the assumption would be that its acceptability to the head of the city government would be its first condition.

The holdover trustees by refusing to resign and give way to another administration of affairs which would permit a restoration of public confidence in school management offer their motives for speculation. They are responsible for it if the public wonders whether there are things hidden in the management which cannot stand the scrutiny of a new board. The old board is sitting tight, but on what?

NOMINATING GEN. SIR JOHN, G. C. O. B., ETC.

What the United States needs in the forthcoming negotiations over the debts and the later negotiations over disarmament is an American diplomatic agent who may be counted upon to represent the interests of the United States with singleness of purpose, a man who cannot be won over by social favor and who will not be detracted from his purpose by the blandishments of Europe's hospitality.

A careful search through the record of recent American diplomacy offers few names which can stand the test. However, there is one man who has been subjected to all the pressures which European diplomacy has devised and who stood up against them manfully and successfully. That was Gen. Pershing. He breakfasted, lunched, teaed, dined and week-ended with them all, and they didn't get his army away from him. In the process he received substantially every star, decoration, medal and title which was available. He is already Gen. Sir John to the British, and the French have nothing to offer him, with or without palms, which hasn't been hung around his neck already on a wide red ribbon. If he pinned all his decorations on his blouse they would cover it back as well as front like a coat of mail, and there would still be a few grand cordons left over which he would either have to fasten to the seat of his pants or leave on the bureau.

Gen. Pershing, it may be said, stood up like a stone wall because he knew that the man who commanded the American troops was going to get into the history books as the man who won the war, and he resolved to be that man. That only emphasizes the general's qualifications for the forthcoming diplomatic exchanges. He might be the one American envoy to grasp the idea that a reputation is to be made in American history not by playing the other fellow's game but by playing for an American victory.

CHEAP AND CHILDISH.

The new ambassador of the Spanish republic was presented the other day to the President of the American republic. Genevieve Forbes Herrick described the elaborate formalities in which this simple event was decorated. They were formalities offensive to any true standard of dignity appropriate in a democratic proceeding and, alike the rest of the pompous hokum prescribed in what is called "the protocol," must give most self-respecting Americans who read of it an acute pain in the neck. We hope some day an American President will treat the protocol as the mere piece of paper it is. Rules and regulations are necessary in official relations to avoid confusion and offense to foreigners accustomed to distinctions of rank. But this necessity is made to cover a mass of foolish pomp which in a democracy is in bad taste, is mere fustian. The might of the republic needs no such dressing up. The little minds that delight in all the petty rules of the protocol, in dress uniforms and parading ought not to be allowed to cheapen the official proceedings of our government with this childish tinsel, the fraudulent imitation of monarchical courts. There is a good form of republican officialdom, but it is that of simplicity and directness, dignity without borrowed decorations.

Editorial of the Day

THE BRITISH DOLE.

[Los Angeles Times.]

In its inception the British dole was an unemployment insurance plan of a type often advocated for this country, for which the funds were contributed by the workers and the employers, with the government merely paying the overhead of administration. It was carefully limited in its scope so that only those normally employed and who had contributed to the fund were entitled to receive benefit. But politics soon introduced a fatal defect into this scheme—a provision that, when funds ran short, the national treasury would make a sufficient loan to enable the plan to carry on. This led to the still worse expedient—adopted just after the war as a "temporary" and emergency relief measure—of putting every unemployed person on the pensions roll, whether or not he or she had made any contribution to the fund. The climax, so far, was the act of the Labor government in distributing unemployment relief cards to boys and girls when they attained the working age of 16 years, so that they could become pensioners of the system without ever attempting even to find work. The dole has thus become, in effect, a government subsidy on idleness.

The growth from the original conservative and defensible plan to the present dilemma, with the insurance fund owing the government hundreds of millions of pounds which it can never repay and the debt growing greater daily, with hundreds of thousands on the dole who have never worked and apparently never intend to, and with taxes mounting to a point where they are like a millstone around the neck of industry and prevent it from giving employment, has been a step by step evolution in which every step is now seen to have been inevitable, once the one just previous was taken.

British experience in this matter is a danger signal, a warning against all state or government supported employment insurance schemes, no matter how innocuous they may seem or how carefully safeguarded. Under political pressure the safeguards are worn away or torn away.

Three lessons from British experience seem to be plain. They are:

1. Unemployment insurance must be left in the hands of industry, to function on an actuarial basis, without state or government aid or interference. Only in this way can it be adjusted to the needs of each particular industry, which differ greatly.

2. Relief to the destitute must be extended as relief and not in the form of a government dole.

3. No government can undertake to guarantee employment or an income in lieu of a job.

The only real cure for unemployment is employment. Attempts to substitute something else for employment result in worse evils.

Whatever the United States does, it must avoid the dole as it would poison.

DIET FOR THE TEETH.

His experience at Gallipoli had led Dr. J. S. Fairchild, a British dentist, to regard pyorrhea as a mild or, at least, a modified, form of scurvy.

The soldiers engaged in that campaign had to live almost exclusively on preserved foods for a long time. Getting fresh green stuff was out of the question. Their commanders did not seem to have heard of the experiences of other British troops in Macedonia, who were saved from scurvy by sprouting their grain before they ate it. Or, maybe they knew of this experience but could find no way to follow the example. At any rate, a considerable proportion of the troops became scurvied.

Dr. Fairchild tells of one soldier whose mouth was in very bad condition. He was put on a diet of green vegetables and got well. He saw this man fifteen years afterward and found his teeth and gums in good condition.

His proof that green vegetables were a cure for scurvy was so good that he spread the mantle over pyorrhea and began using the same diet as a preventive and, in a sense, a cure for pyorrhea. The diet he uses is built around raw milk, eggs, whole wheat bread, fruits, and vegetables. The fruits and vegetables are mostly raw.

An American physician contributes a companion picture. His story relates to the care of the teeth of women during pregnancy. He builds his diets around whole milk, eggs, fruits, whole grain cereals and vegetables, with emphasis on green, leafy vegetables; and meat not oftener than once a day. His advice is that a part of the preparation for motherhood should consist in having the mouth examined and having the teeth cleaned and filled where required. After that, there should be periodic visits to the dentist. Home care of the mouth should be carried out conscientiously. Diet rules should be laid down in writing, or given in printed form.

The objective is to supply enough vitamins and minerals, both of which must be available in ample quantities, if trouble is to be avoided. On the other hand, since pregnant women rarely work hard the energy and fattening foods can be considerably reduced. Nor will there be great need for the repair foods.

GALLSTONES.

Mrs. J. W. writes: Is it possible to get rid of gallstones by any other means than an operation? I have tried dieting but I get only slight results.

REPLY.

It is not. Gallstones are a condition and not a theory, and they cannot be wished out. The symptoms of gallstones may be another matter. It is the shifting of gallstones that causes most of the symptoms. When the stones come to rest symptoms are likely to disappear. Thus, any one of a thousand circumstances, remedies, and what not may be credited with curing gallstones. Ninety per cent of such cures are coincidents rather than cures, even in the loose sense.

TURPENTINE POISON.

F. A. writes: Is the use of turpentine in water harmful to my health? I work in a glass warehouse and have to do the finishing. I use about two tablespoons in a small pail of water. In using it the fumes get into my mouth and everything I eat tastes of turpentine. I am 50 years old and in good health.

REPLY.

Turpentine is poisonous. It is classed as an occupational poison. I have no way of guessing whether it is harming you. You say you put some in a pail of water, but not what you do with it or how you are exposed.

PNEUMONIA AND SMOKERS.

B. A. writes: I had pneumonia last summer. I am a very heavy smoker.

1. Does smoking affect my lungs more than the average person who has not had previous sickness?

2. Would it be all right for me to go swimming this summer?

REPLY.

1. It should not.
2. Yes.

As a rule, pneumonia is an acute disease and, with it, bygones are bygones.

DANGER IS TRIVIAL.

Mrs. N. G. writes: Can one catch disease germs from a bathing suit?

REPLY.

NO MORE MUD HOLES.

Chicago, June 25.—[Friend of the People.]—Loomis street was dug up for the purpose of laying a new water main from Madison street south to Van Buren street. When the work was completed the pavement was replaced in a haphazard fashion and mounds of clay which has since turned to dust were left along the curbing. There are large holes in the street and, during rainy weather, the mud is ankle deep. Can't something be done to alleviate these terrible conditions?

The surplus back-fill of which the writer complained has been removed.

JOSEPH J. BUTLER,
Superintendent of Streets.

FINING BEGGARS.

Chicago, June 27.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Is it against the law to beg for something to eat? 2. If so, what is the penalty? S. L.

1. Begging is prohibited under section 2679 of the city code.
2. Fine of $100.

WATER PIPE REPAIRED.

Chicago, June 22.—[Friend of the People.]—A water main has been broken in the street at 79th, just north of Belmont avenue. It has been reported to the city water department but they have apparently paid no attention to it. A. B.

The north district water pipe extension division has repaired a broken eight inch pipe at the above location. This has apparently stopped all water leakage.

MYRON B. REYNOLDS,
Acting City Engineer.

CHILDREN ON THEIR OWN.

Chicago, June 27.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—When a minor leaves home without the consent of his parents, to what extent are the parents responsible for his actions? R. Y.

In general, parents are not liable for the torts of their children, whether the children are living at home or not. A parent may be liable for the necessary expenses of a minor, but such liability would not attach where the parent is continuously offering to furnish the child with all necessaries.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

"THERE IS A PLEASURE," sang Byron in Childe Harold, "in the pathless woods, there is a rapture on the lonely shore, there is society where none intrudes by the deep sea and music in its roar." Mr. Byron should have written around to spots in the Rockies, the White mountains, Canada, and Maine for information regarding a vacation spot fulfilling his lovely verse.

HE WOULD HAVE received hundreds of letters, circulars, and booklets telling him that any place he happened to ask about was the very one he had in mind, the place of his dreams; the spot where perfect rest, peace, and solitude could be found. Three golf links surround the hotel, 14 tennis courts, bridge whist on the piazza all day, luncheon, tea and dinner dances. Four jazz orchestras, a radio in every room, seventeen auto roads converging in front of the door, stock market reports received constantly, news bulletins posted every 10 minutes, daily concerts in the red room, talking pictures, four shows during the day in the blue room, music at all meals and the midnight buffet supper.

WHAT WE CAN'T understand is why some enterprising hotel doesn't have a salvo of cannon fired every half hour of the day and night. Otherwise, some of the guests might find the average country hotel a bit lonely.

I HAVE REMEMBERED THE MOON.

I have remembered the moon in a mauve sky sailing
Over the shadowed reaches; remembered the gay
Glad sound of music far off and the muted wailing
Of slow violins in a room at the end of the day.
I have remembered the honey-sweet essence of words
Spoken in parting; remembered the fire-light flare
That softened an hour of silence; remembered the birds
Singing at dawn and warm lights on quiet brown hair.
Out of all moments those most brief and most fleeting
Have limned their frail shadows along the wall of my mind;
It is not strange that I should remember our meeting
When I have remembered an echo caught in the wind.
It is not strange, but there is a hint of the sun
In the memory of beauty that now is over and done.

AND NOW TWO MORE FLYERS say they can beat Post and Gatty's record and will make the attempt to fly around the world in five days. And they probably will; or, if they don't, somebody else will. But when they do, what of it? Will the sum of human knowledge be increased? We'll bet that on the very hour when the flyers come back from circling the globe in five days four people will buy gold bricks from slickers on Michigan boulevard, seventeen people will buy stock in wildcat oil wells that have no existence, and thirty-nine people will call up thirty-nine other people on the telephone and say, "Guess who this is!" And thousands and thousands will believe that the debt moratorium will bring back prosperity in three weeks, two days, six hours, and fifteen minutes.

THE OSTRICH is not the only animal to stick its head in the sand to avoid seeing unpleasant things. The Louisville Optimist club has passed a resolution that the depression will end if people stop talking about it. They therefore passed a law to that effect and will punish any member using the awful word by fining him twenty-five cents. But, listen, ostriches: banning the use of the word depression makes a fine freak story for the newspapers this hot weather, and the story will be printed all over the country with the fact that you have declared that the word depression must not be used, and that every one of your members will be fined two bits every time he says depression. So, Optimist club, after counting the clippings (any clipping bureau will gladly furnish them at 5c each, adv.), how much will you have promoted your own dea by banning the word depression?

EUGENIA BANKHEAD, that was, has been wed five times now, which makes her name Eugenia Bankhead Hoyt Hoyt Butt Lee Smith. The "Hoyt Hoyt" is because she married Mr. Hoyt twice. THE DANCER.

Your arms are long litanies of prayer
That beseech me;
Your mouth, a red wound
Where the flood-tide of love
Bleeds out its pain.
Your eyes—like green lamps through dark gratings—
Call from their prison.
And to what shall I liken your footfall?
The shadow of mothwings in moonlight?
A drifting mist

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 2, 1915.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Whether the United States has just cause for holding Germany to "strict accountability" for the killing of eleven Americans in the destruction of the British steamer Armenian by a submarine is an undetermined question. Unofficial reports tended to establish justification for the act of the submarine and this indication afforded considerable relief to administration officials. The attack on the steamer was placed in a different light by testimony of survivors that the Armenian sought to escape the submarine.

LONDON.—The northward drive of the Austro-German armies from Galicia into Poland daily is becoming more formidable. The Russian lines in northern Galicia and southern Poland are being forced back by the Teutonic allies in an apparent effort to clear the way for a move on Warsaw. The Russian staff admits a continuation of the German offensive between the Bug and the Ypres rivers.

PARIS.—War office reports indicate that the attempts of the German forces to break the French lines and encircle the great fortress of Verdun have failed. It is reported that this attack was under the personal command of the Crown Prince Friedrich Wilhelm. The statement says that the Germans attacked on June 30 with great energy and reached the first trenches by use of heavy artillery and asphyxiating shells, but were stopped at the second line and driven back by counter attacks of infantry.

JULY 2, 1901.

CHICAGO.—Eleven boys and one man huddled in a shelter at the Robbins pier near the foot of Montrose boulevard, Lake View, were struck by a single bolt of lightning in the storm of yesterday. The man and ten of the boys were instantly killed. All had been fishing at the pier and had retreated under a zinc covered shed to escape the rain. Although the sudden thunderstorm brought a few hours of refreshing coolness, it augured no enduring relief for the heated city.

NEW YORK. — Ninety-six persons dead and 250 prostrated is the fearful record of today's heat here. Of those in the hospital it is feared scores cannot recover. The official temperature was 93. In Pittsburgh eighteen persons are dead; in Philadelphia, 15, and in Baltimore, fourteen.

CHICAGO.—A vigorous war is to be waged against the toy pistol by the police department between today and the Fourth of July in an effort to prevent, as far as possible, a repetition of last year's fatalities from lockjaw. Mayor Harrison ordered Chief of Police O'Neil to adopt radical methods for the suppression of the sale of toy pistols.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

JULY 2, 1881.

BERLIN.—The condition of Empress Augusta is serious, although she is doing as well as expected. Prayers are offered in all the churches of Coblenz for her speedy recovery. Emperor William has returned to Ems.

CHICAGO.—Justice Morrison's courtroom was the scene of a spirited setto in which Payne Fitz, a much advertised justice court lawyer and attorney for the notorious real estate agent, Edward A. Trask, received a sound thrashing at the hands of an irate female, Ellen Carroll, whom he had publicly insulted. She whipped out a length of skipping rope and soundly belabored him, after which she went for him with her fists.

ANN ARBOR, Mich.—The regents of the University of Michigan made arrangements to establish a school of political science. Its instructors will include President Angell, Judge Thomas M. Cooley, Profs. Adams, Dunster, Morris, Vaughan, and others.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A telegram was received here stating that Postmaster Palmer at Chicago had received a letter from Postmaster General James notifying him that Hubbard, superintendent of the carriers' department, must be reinstated unless charges of misconduct or incompetency could be established against him and that Senator Logan and William Penn Nixon are coming here regarding the matter.

AMERICAN MORALE.

Chicago, June 21.—The leading editorial, "American Morale," in this morning's TRIBUNE makes real Americans forgive and condone many of THE TRIBUNE'S asinine mistakes of the past. It should be read in every classroom throughout the nation, and on the approaching birthday of the nation it should be read right after the Declaration of Independence.

We are not decadent, as the editorial leads us to believe. Any one who knew Cantigny, Chateau Thierry, and the Meuse-Argonne offensive realizes that the same moral fiber and red blooded courage that made up the Perrys, Marions, Jacksons, Clarkes, Lewises, Boones, Crocketts, Houstons, Codys, Meaghers, Sheridans, Shermans, Grants, and other pioneers still exists in our present makeup.

Our trouble lies in lack of leadership and too many long haired men and short haired women.

ONLY A VETERAN.

THE STATE OF THE ARMY.

Chicago, June 22.—The Sunday editorial entitled "The State of the Army" contains statements pertinent to the National Guard which are not based on facts. The Guard has not "slipped back" in military efficiency, but instead has achieved remarkable progress toward accomplishing its peacetime mission to the extent that it is today a powerful factor in the scheme of national defense.

The national defense act of June, 1920, places the National Guard indirectly under the supervision of the federal government and designates it as the second component of the army of the United States. Its officers are instructed by regular army officers assigned to each regiment for that purpose by the war department. Its methods of training are identical with those of the regular army. The highest types of young American manhood form the front and rear ranks of its enlisted personnel. It can be relied upon to take the field in time of national emergency, a well trained, well disciplined fighting force ready to uphold its ideals and traditions and to add to its record of achievement.

KIRBY M. QUINN,
Captain, 202d Coast Artillery, Illinois National Guard.

MAYOR CURLEY'S COW.

Chicago, June 25.—You have my permission to reprint today's editorial on Mayor Curley's cow on the front page of an early issue of your paper, have Jawn McCutcheon dress it up with an appropriate cartoon, and then mail a marked copy to the following:

The President and each member of his cabinet.

To each senator.

To each member of the house.

In addition you might print about an extra million copies and use them for general distribution in spots where you think they would be most effective in arousing our reparations-minded government to action so that they will get the new postoffice built in Chicago by the time we have the World's Fair in 1933.

FRANK M. KRAWAN.

A CONTRAST.

Ottumwa, Ia., June 27.—I have been intensely interested in reading all the writings in your paper about Russia and her problems so wonderfully depicted by your correspondent, Henry Wales, fully describing his months of travel through that God-hating country. How different his truthful descriptions are when contrasted with those sent through the press by some egotistical United States congressmen, Brookhart of my state for one, who spent two weeks in Russia and came back telling us what an ideal place that country was in which to live.

C. R. S.

WHENCE THE LAW.

Manhattan, Kan., June 28.—Your editorial on "Farmers Make a Good Living" in the April 29 issue was excellent, but what I wanted to write about was the expression of the function of law that I heard stated by a prominent judge recently, which explains a good deal.

This man said that law came entirely from the jousting tournaments in the days of chivalry when each side selected a champion and the function of the judge was merely to see that the rules were followed. That has persisted to the present day, and the function of a judge and the law, as he stated, is only to see that the rules of the game are carried on by the contesting attorneys, and that right or justice has nothing whatever to do with the case.

BELGIAN TONGUES WAG; QUEEN GOES ON A BEER PARTY

Sits with Group of Men Who Smoke and Drink.

BY ANN SOMERS HOUSE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BRUSSELS, July 1.—When a queen sits next to a keg of beer and lets men keep their hats on and their pipes in their mouths in her royal presence,' is she acting queenly?

"Of course not. And it's perfectly shocking," the primmest of Brussels society is saying. For Queen Elisabeth did sit next to a keg of beer. And she did let men smoke and drink around her as though she were an ordinary mortal.

In fact, she was photographed that way. That snapshot, surreptitiously taken for one of Brussels' leading newspapers, has set Belgium's fashionables and "ultra-patriots" boiling with indignation.

What They Object To.

Not that they won't let the queen drink beer. As much as she cares to. That isn't the point. They even admit she has a perfect right, dignified, royal matron that she is, to travel with a group of men on a pleasure boat along Flanders' canals. But, they object, she oughtn't to go on such a jaunt with Flemings!

The bitter racial antagonism between the Latin blooded, French speaking Walloons and the Flemish-Germanic majority of Belgium's population flamed up when the queen set her foot on the yacht Waterhoen to spend a couple of hours in the company of Flemish authors, playwrights, painters, and art historians.

Problem Half Century Old.

Brussels feels it was a daring gesture on the part of the queen. For nearly half a century the country has been troubled by the racial problem. The Flemings, numerically in a majority, and speaking a language similar to Dutch, were governed by the French speaking, more educated minority.

Today they have acquired more education, more economic power, and more political influence. Some hotheads among them want Flanders to be a separate state, quite independent from the French speaking south of Belgium. They have gone as far as to hiss and boo Queen Elizabeth's and Crown Prince Leopold at Antwerp, Malines, and Louvain, because the royal family is the living symbol of all Belgian unity.

In that long battle between Flemings and Walloons Queen Elizabeth now has made what looks like a definite move in favor of the Flemings. Her gay pleasure jaunt on the quiet waters near Deynze, Flanders, amid pipe smoke and beer glasses and Flemish jokes, seems to many Belgians the most significant political gesture a river outing ever has been in Belgian history.

As a matter of fact, it was probably a move prompted only by the queen's desire for justice and fairness. King Albert and Queen Elizabeth have the difficult job of reigning over a divided population. They have always stood far above the racial strife of the Walloons and Flemings. They speak both French and Flemish, although neither is their mother tongue. Their native tongue is German, the queen being a Bavarian princess and King Albert a Coburg prince with a Hohenzollern mother.

But since French speaking Belgians have controlled the Belgian government in the past, the king and queen necessarily were more closely surrounded by them than by the Flemings. Some Flemings felt they were sort of stepchildren of Belgium's royalty.

PROHIBITION AN EVIL; LET'S ROOT IT OUT, PLEADS WADSWORTH

University, Va., July 1.—(AP)—A plea for repeal of the eighteenth amendment was made today at the institute of public affairs by James W. Wadsworth Jr., former United States senator from New York.

"The plain truth of the matter," said Mr. Wadsworth, "is that national prohibition is a failure. Not only has it failed to establish total abstinence as the generally prevailing rule of conduct, but it has brought upon us evils greater than those from which escape was ill...aded.

"It is a fundamental error or fault in the structure of our federal government. We have been in trouble ever since we inserted it in the constitution and we will not escape from this trouble until we take it out completely."

EX-SECRETARY ON TRIAL ON CHARGE OF $60,000 THEFT

Adolph Watts, formerly private secretary for Keith Dunham, president of an oxygen machinery company bearing his name located at 110 South Dearborn street, was placed on trial yesterday before Judge Joseph Burke in the Criminal court on charges of embezzling $60,000 from his employer.

Watts started to work for Dunham in 1924 and when discharged his salary was $60 a week. Investigation into Watts' affairs revealed, according to Assistant States Attorney C. Wayland Brooks, that Watts had deposited $74,000 in a bank and was the proprietor of the "Egyptian Palace," a resort where one might swim, drink or dine, located at 5925 Kilbourn avenue.

The alleged shortage in Watts' accounts was discovered by C. J. Haynes, vice president of the Dunham company.

According to Attorney Brooks, Watts confessed the theft and returned $11,000. At the hearing he pleaded not guilty, waiving a jury trial.

DEFICIT IS 903 MILLION; ADDED DEBT 463 MILLION

Treasury Discloses New Peace Time Totals.

Washington, D. C., July 1.—[Special.]—Dwindling revenues chargeable to the business depression, coupled with increased governmental expenditures, sent the treasury deficit soaring to a new peace time total of 903 millions during the 1931 fiscal year which closed yesterday, the treasury department disclosed today. The total gross increase in the outstanding public debt was 616 millions. As the general fund balance increased 153 millions, the net debt increase was 463 millions.

The loss of revenues during the last fiscal year was met by borrowing, a process which will be followed during the coming year, according to all present indications at the treasury. Although another big deficit is due to pile up during the current year as a result of probably still smaller governmental receipts, there is no present intention on the part of the treasury to ask for any increase in taxes which would affect receipts this year.

The total ordinary receipts amounted to $3,317,000,000, which represents a decline of 861 millions from 1930. Expenditures chargeable against ordinary receipts aggregated $4,220,000,000, an increase of 226 millions over the previous year. The fiscal year 1931 closed with the total gross public debt at $16,801,000,000 as compared with $16,185,000,000 on June 30, 1930.

Net Balance, 472 Millions.

The net balance in the general fund was 472 millions on June 30, 1931, or 153 millions more than at the end of the preceding fiscal year.

An official treasury statement issued by Acting Secretary Ogden L. Mills stated that the decline in expenditures reflected for the most part the effects of the depression on certain major sources of federal revenue—that is, income taxes and custom receipts. Mr. Mills said also that the increase in expenditures was due largely to increased expenditures for agricultural and other relief, for additional benefits to war veterans and for the financing of accelerated government construction activities.

Major decreases in expenditures were registered by the treasury department, the navy department and the shipping board. Largely due to passage of the London naval treaty, navy expenditures dropped $21,000,000. The treasury's expenditures dropped $59,000,000 while the shipping board showed a decrease of $14,000,000.

Where Expenses Went.

In outlining the cause for increased expenditures Mr. Mills said:

"The preliminary information now available concerning the details of expenditures shows the following principal items of increase: For the war department, an increase of $35,000,000, representing chiefly the cost of construction activities for the most part in connection with rivers and harbors; flood control, the army housing program, and increased outlay for the air corps; for the department of agriculture, an increase of 119 million dollars, reflecting largely additional outlays for federal aid highway construction and for emergency relief in drought stricken areas; for the federal farm board, for additional net loans under the agricultural marketing act in the amount of $41,000,000; an increase in the expenditures of the department of commerce of $7,000,000; an increase of $54,000,000 in the postal deficiency, and the advance appropriation in 1931 of 112 million dollars for the adjusted service certificates fund which ordinarily would have been appropriated in 1932.

"Expenditures of the veterans' administration included an increase of about $53,000,000 as a result largely of liberalized provisions for military and naval compensation to war veterans."

Income and Customs Lower.

Acting Secretary Mills pointed out that the decreases in income taxes and customs were much greater than for miscellaneous taxes. The aggregate amount of customs and internal revenue receipts during the year was $2,808,000,000, or 818 millions less than for 1930. Income tax receipts totaled $1,860,000,000, which was 551 millions less than during the 1930 fiscal year.

MR. MARSHALL FINDS STRANGE MOTOR BOAT DISTURBING HIS REST

During the hot wave Benjamin H. Marshall, wealthy architect, has been getting the full benefit of whatever cool night breezes blew in from the lake by sleeping on the roof of his residence, which is at the south end of Wilmette harbor.

At 3 o'clock yesterday morning Mr. Marshall was aroused by the chugging of a motor boat in Wilmette harbor. He looked out into the harbor and saw the craft, occupied by two men, headed for the open.

The architect went back to sleep, but as the craft passed the Wilmette coast guard station, Capt. Otto W. Fricke sighted it, and bellowed, "Put on your lights." His call was ignored. Later the boat scraped bottom near the shore of the Great Lakes Naval station harbor and the occupants waded to land. A Great Lakes crew found the boat disabled and sent in a report on its registry.

It was about this time that Mr. Marshall was aroused from sleep a second time. He was informed that the boat he saw leaving Wilmette harbor at 3 a. m. was his own and it was being stolen.

NEWPORT, Isle of Wight, July 1.—(AP)—Lord Terrington, who was sentenced to four years' penal servitude in 1928 on his conviction of a $350,000 fraud, was released from Parkhurst prison today. He had been ill in the prison hospital most of the time. As former Yorkshire solicitor, he was found guilty of converting funds and valuables belonging to his creditors.

LOYAL ARMY WINS SKIRMISH WITH PERUVIAN REBELS

Cuzco Chiefs Would Take Over Government.

LIMA, Peru, July 1.—(AP)—The junta government announced tonight that loyal troops from the garrison at Arequipa had defeated a detachment of Cuzco rebels at Paucarcoya, about twelve miles from Puno.

The engagement was the first since two regiments of infantry rebelled at Cusco and demanded revision of the electoral laws, and appeared to be of a minor nature.

Move to Conciliate Rebels.

The provisional government prohibited all public demonstrations in the country while it pushed forward efforts to bring about peace by conciliation. The junta's decree declared a state of siege still existed and said that any infractions of this law would be severely suppressed.

Meanwhile, representatives of the Lima government have been sent by airplane to the regions of the revolt and will endeavor to deal with the insurgents.

May Increase Demands.

ARICA, Chile, July 1.—(AP)—Reports from Cuzco, Peru, said that the provisional junta which was established there today by military revolters was considering sending a demand that the Lima government resign "for the good of the country."

Leaders of the rebel movement contended this would prevent bloodshed, although they were said to have declared they were ready to meet Lima forces in battle if necessary.

Leaders of the unofficial Cuzco junta asserted they were ready to take over the central government and denied any intention of establishing a separate state. They also denied communists had any part in their movement.

Col. Godos Called Head.

Col. Aurelio Garcia Godos, who with Col. Cabrera and Capt. Aristides Pachas constitute the new junta, is regarded here as the real leader of the revolt, although he is not the nominal head.

Meanwhile, the Lima government is described as determined to put down the uprising in Cuzco and Puno. Seven hundred soldiers have been sent to Mollendo on the cruiser Grau.

These troops formerly were soldiers of President Luis M. Sanchez Cerro, who was deposed, but are now serving under the Lima junta.

200,000 Chinese Troops Open Battle Against Reds

NANCHANG, China., July 1.—(AP)—The government offensive against Kiangsi communists and bandits opened today when 200,000 men attacked on a 130 mile front. The communists, who are firmly established in hilly country, have had plenty of time to organize their defenses.

$1,079,369 PAID OUT IN 6 MONTHS BY CANAL BOARD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 1.—[Special.]—During the period between Dec. 1, 1930, and June 1, 1931, the Chicago sanitary district spent $1,079,369 for actual construction work in carrying out its sewage treatment program, the district informed the United States Supreme court today in its semi-annual report required under the court's decree of April, 1930.

T. J. BOWLER.

The inclusion of this sum made the total spent for completed work to date $96,231,594, T. J. Bowler, president of the board, stated in the report, and the program contemplates the expenditure of $173,326,691 in "future work after June 1, 1931."

Reporting on the actual water diversion, which was the basis of the suit instituted against the district by Wisconsin, Minnesota, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Michigan, New York, and other states, it was shown that between Jan. 1 and June 15 the average net diversion had been 6,220 cubic feet per second instead of the 6,500 cubic feet per second allowed under the war department permit embodying the findings of the court.

Other Projects Planned.

Among the future work, the board stated, will be the south side project costing $70,552,123. If Gov. Emmerson approves the $30,000,000 bond issue recently validated by the legislature, according to the report, $1,600,000 is to be spent on the north side project, $11,000,000 on the west side project, $20,300,000 on the Calumet project, and $3,100,000 on the southwest side project.

The new west side sewage plant, the court was informed, should be in operation July 20, and the contract for the sewer to intercept loop district sewage is expected to be ready for advertising by next September.

FALSE CLAIMANT TO CRABTREE ESTATE IS REFUSED CLEMENCY

Boston, Mass., July 1.—(AP)—Mrs. Ida M. Blankenburg of Tulsa, Okla., discredited claimant to the Lotta Crabtree estate, must serve the six month term imposed upon her in the state courts for contempt as far as Federal Circuit Court Judge George H. Bingham is concerned, the woman's attorney, John J. Cummings, announced today. Cummings said his efforts to interest the senior judge of the Circuit Court of Appeals had been unavailing.

Mrs. Blankenburg carried her case to federal court after her recent surrender in the state Superior court to serve a sentence of six months imposed at the time of the litigation over the estate. She had claimed to be the daughter of the famous actress, but her testimony was denounced from the bench and she was cited for contempt.

MACHADO OFFERS CUBAN REFORMS; ELECTION IN '32

HAVANA, July 1.—(AP)—President Machado and his Liberal-Popular leaders today made public their platform for the future. The President announced at the same time that henceforth he would govern "with the Liberal-Popular coalition."

The program promised constitutional reforms as indicated by public opinion, and guaranteed presidential elections in 1932.

JUSTICE FARMER QUITS ILLINOIS SUPREME COURT

Springfield, Ill., July 1.—[Special.]—Justice William M. Farmer, the "grand old man" of the Illinois Supreme court, officially retired from the bench today when his resignation of a month ago took effect. He has a career of a quarter century on the Supreme court, thirty-four years as a judge of various courts, or a full half century in public service.

WM. M. FARMER.

Political speculation is now as to his successor in e Second district. The special election is to be held Monday, Aug. 31. The Democrats will hold their convention at Vandalia July 7, and the Republicans will meet July 10 at Alton.

The district is Democratic. Four contestants are running for the Democratic nomination. They are Judge Norman L. Jones of Carrollton, Judge Franklin R. Dove of Shelbyville, Judge A. Clay Williams of Pittsfield, and Judge Wilbur A. Trares of Edwardsville. Judge Jones, as Democratic candidate for governor in 1924, polled 1,021,000 votes in the face of the Coolidge landslide, getting almost twice as many votes as Davis for President. Politicians rate him as a leading candidate, although there is a belief that Judge Dove will lead on the first ballot, which the district leaders do not deem will be a deciding one.

Four candidates are mentioned for the Republican nomination. They are Judge Jesse R. Brown of Madison county, June Smith of Centralia, Senator A. S. Cuthbertson of Bunker Hill, and Walter M. Provine of Taylorville, former U. S. district attorney. Judge Brown is considered to be leading.

Business Will Pick Up When You Pick It Up!

BUSINESS has a habit of falling off without any help.

But business never picks itself up.

Business picks up only when some man, eternally and intensely interested in business, picks it up—for himself and his business.

This is the theme and the thesis most interestingly written out, specified and prescribed—in Nation's Business—out today—by two of the greatest minds in American business—the two greatest minds in their respective, allied and cooperative lines—salesmanship and advertising—Norval A. Hawkins, Theodore F. MacManus.

You'll be told that America needs a plan—an "economic plan", a "5-year plan", a "10-year plan"—if prosperity ever again is to return to us.

You'll be told that our present industrial system is paralyzed, that it calls "if it does not shriek" for complete reordering. You'll be told that individual freedom and individual initiative, the heritage of our past, has been outmoded.

The "magnificent experiment" of Russia is pointed to. "National economic councils", "boards of strategy and planning", "syndicates of marketing and agriculture"—these, and other bureaucratic and high-sounding means of regularizing effort, and bringing it under centralized control, are urged.

Now—to dissipate this welter of strange words, the frenzied fictions that have shrouded this depression, comes a common-sensible appeal—a workable 12-point program—a truly American program—which can be executed in a truly American way!

LAST ASSEMBLY APPROPRIATED $315,069,598

Set New Record; Emmerson Wields Ax.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., July 1.—[Special.]—A new record for appropriations, with a total of $315,069,598 for the next two years, was set by the 57th general assembly which closed shop yesterday. The previous high water mark was in 1925 when the amount was $285,907,382.

Gov. Emmerson has already lopped off more than two million dollars, and more blue penciling is in sight. The great increase has come in the appropriations from special funds, more especially from the growth in the gas tax receipts.

The figures came out today for the first time, on the heels of an announcement by State Treasurer Barrett's office that $500,000 was received from Cook county today. The statement said Cook county has now paid in 39 millions of the 1929 tax out of 47 millions due, and at the statehouse it was taken to indicate that state finances were in far more cheerful shape than they appeared four months ago.

Appropriations $89,168,052.

Appropriations by the assembly made out of the general revenue were $89,168,052, as compared with $88,115,- of two years ago. By the time the governor has finished his pruning the total is expected to fall below the 1929 figure.

The amount appropriated out of special funds is $225,901,546. This compares with $184,150,000 two years ago.

The aggregate appropriations this time are $42,804,000 greater than in 1929, when the regular session appropriated $272,265,416. In explanation of this Homer Tice [Rep., Greenview], house chairman of the money bags, says that 13 millions of the increase is a reappropriation of school tax for 1929-30 to be distributed when collected, and that another million is a final reappropriation.

The eleven code departments, he figures, draw four million dollars less than two years ago. The Tice tables show that the great increase arises out of the gasoline tax fund. From this 59 million dollars is appropriated this year as against 51 millions two years ago. The one cent county allotments and refunds from the motor fuel tax this time are $31,000,000 as against $21,000,000 two years ago.

Highway construction draws 57 million dollars from the motor fuel tax this year, the Tice figures indicate, as against 30 millions two years ago.

Opportunity for Retrenchment.

Legislative leaders, looking over the growth of state expenditures, maintain there is much opportunity for retrenchment, and that this is an important phase of the revenue question. Fifteen years ago the biennal appropriations by the 1917 assembly ran only $50,649,000, which was a record up to that time. Now they run close to a third of a billion dollars. The great increase, of course, has come through highway development and the covering of Illinois with its system of hard surfaced roads. Many statehouse analysts, however, maintain that other departments might curtail their activities without injury, and with profit to the tax situation. Senator Earl B. Searcy [Rep., Springfield] tonight said:

"Revenue reform should be directed towards retrenchment of expenditures rather than to the development of new sources of tax money. Some departments have been off on an orgy of spending. They never seem to think of the increased burden on the taxpayer. What is needed is a man with an ax to go through the departments, bureaus, and commissions and lop off the decorations. The best revenue reform can be accomplished with an ax."

PROBE ATTEMPT TO DYNAMITE AND BURN BUILDING

An investigation was under way last night by Fire Attorney Thomas J. Sheehan into what is believed to have been a plot to destroy the vacant five story building at 1300 North Wood street by fire and dynamite early in the day.

Firemen found small fires in three different places on the second floor and extinguished them before much loss had been done. They also came upon a crude dynamite contrivance and two empty cans which, said Mr. Sheehan, smelled of gasoline. The bomb would have killed at least twenty-five firemen and crashed the building had it exploded, declared the fire attorney after conferring with Lieut. Make Mills, bomb expert.

The building has been vacant for two years. A northwest side bank now holds the title to the structure, and bank officials were at a loss to suggest any motive for its incendiary destruction.

CART ½ TON OF SILVER TO PAY DEBT; SPURN IT

Holyoke, Mass., July 1.—[Special.]—Choosing to abide by what it conceives to be its right under a pre-civil war contract, the American Writing Paper Company, Inc., this morning had carted to the office of the Holyoke Water Power company half a ton of bar silver as the annual payment for eight of its 16 water rights leased from the power company.

The silver was promptly rejected by the power company upon advice of its counsel and litigation is expected to decide whether the silver must be accepted.

Comply with Contract.

The paper company, which has sought concessions in the use of power, alleges that the power company's policy was to adhere rigidly to the contracts. The paper company's officials discovered that when the contracts for power rights were drawn it was stipulated that payments should be made in silver of the standard value and fineness of coinage of 1859 or its equivalent in gold at the same rate.

Since the power company was rigid in its contracts, the paper company decided to reciprocate by tendering the annual lease payment in silver, obtained from the Chase National bank of New York instead of by check.

Stood to Save $3,000.

As silver was worth about $1 a troy ounce when the contract was made and is now worth about 28 cents, the paper company stood to save $3,000 by the transaction.

However, there was a general intimation that if the power company would modify the suit the paper company might also see fit to return to a check payment system.

The silver has been taken back to the paper company's vaults and may be sold on the market if the plan started by the company pans out as it hopes.

Wife of Indiana Governor Rallies from Operation

Michigan City, Ind., July 1.—(AP)—Mrs. Harry G. Leslie, wife of Indiana's governor, was reported in favorable condition today following an emergency operation for appendicitis early this morning. The physician, Dr. H. B. Arnett, was brought here by airplane from Lafayette, his son, Richard Arnett, an Indianapolis aviator, piloting the ship.

PROTEST 'MERCHANT OF VENICE' IN SCHOOL AS UNFAIR TO JEWS

Syracuse, N. Y., July 1.—(AP)—The board of education has before it a plea for the removal of Shakespeare's "Merchant of Venice" from the pupils' reading list.

Shylock, "with his craving a pound of flesh due him by the merchant Antonio's forfeiture under a bond; Shylock called 'Jew' and cutthroat dog; Shylock crying out, 'I hate him, for he is a Christian,'" says the petition signed by the good will committee, an interdenominational group, "has been responsible for an unfair and malicious conception of Jews."

The petition was signed by Louis A. Keating, James A. Shea, and T. Aaron Levy as co-chairmen of the committee.

Said Dr. G. Carl Alverson, superintendent of schools, today:

"'The Merchant of Venice' is not a required reading in the high school English course. The book is an elective reading. In my many years of teaching 'The Merchant of Venice,' and as superintendent of schools I have never before heard a complaint about the book from either pupils or parents."

The superintendent's position, explained by him today, is that the board of education must take any action that results from the petition.

POLICEMAN DIES AFTER SHOOTING; SLAYER IS HELD

Traffic Policeman James Casey, 34 years old, 4463 Lake Park avenue, died yesterday morning at the Jackson Park hospital after having been shot five times on Tuesday night when he went to the assistance of a girl who was annoyed by a masher. The assailant, Coy Thompson, 32 years old, whose home was near Benton, Ky., and who escaped from jail in Mayfield, Ky., two months ago, was held to the grand jury later in the day on a charge of murder.

Thompson testified at the inquest that he had been drinking on Tuesday evening and did not remember what had happened. Miss Frances Bosky, 4349 Greenwood avenue, a waitress, identified him as the man who annoyed her and then shot Policeman Casey. She said she had complained to Casey after Thompson accosted her when she left her place of employment near 43d street and Oakenwald avenue. She told Casey that Thompson had a gun.

Casey took one revolver from Thompson, according to the testimony, and started to take him to a patrol box. Thompson then drew another pistol and shot the policeman.

ATTACK INDIANA J. P. LAW IN WAR ON SPEED TRAPS

Motor Club Opens Fight on Fee System.

BY HAL FOUST.

For the announced purpose of breaking up a nest of speed traps in northern Indiana, the Chicago Motor club yesterday attacked the constitutionality of the office of justice of peace in the Hoosier state. A legal battle that probably will be carried to the highest courts will open this morning before Judge Maurice Crites of the Lake county [Ind.] Superior court.

The motor club is directing its attack against the Indiana statute providing that the justice of peace receives a fee in a case only when there is a conviction. The club protests that the prospect of a fee might influence a justice in his decision.

Cite U. S. Court Decision.

As a test case, the club's special attorneys, the firm of McAleer, Dorsey, Clark and Travis of Hammond, yesterday filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus in behalf of Lester Harding of Hammond, who earlier in the day was fined $1 plus $13.70 costs by Justice of the Peace Harry Minas of Crown Point. Harding was convicted on a charge of reckless driving.

The petition for the writ, which was made returnable at 10 o'clock this morning, sets up that the justice of the peace was not qualified to pass on the case in view of a decision of the United States Supreme court, Tumey vs. Ohio, which held that a presiding judge with fees as a motive to convict was not an impartial judge.

"No matter what the evidence was against him [the defendant]," reads an excerp from the federal tribunal's opinion, "he had the right to have an impartial judge. He reasonably raised the objection and was entitled to halt the trial because of the disqualification of the judge which existed because of his official motive to convict and to graduate the fine to help the financial needs of the village."

Prey Upon Motorists, Claim.

"In Indiana," said Joseph Cavanaugh, secretary of the motor club, "drivers are being preyed upon, according to our reports, by officials seeking fees. No one gets a fee when there is not a conviction, and there are few acquittals.

"In Illinois villages around Chicago the situation is no better. But a technicality, a dormant statute that authorizes a justice of the peace to claim a fee from the township or county in the event of an acquittal would be against an attack in Illinois."

The $13.50 costs assessed, but not as yet collected, against Harding yesterday would be divided as follows, according to the legal department of the motor club: Five dollars to the justice of the peace, $5 to the prosecuting attorney, and $3.70 to the constable.

ROBBERS BIND COUPLE.

Three bandits bound and gagged Max Hayes and his wife, Rea, yesterday in their hosiery and lingerie shop at 3102 West Madison street, and robbed them of $45.

KILLER WALKS IN POLICE STATION AND SURRENDERS

On June 3 Herman Marcus, owner of the Rumanian gardens at 3301 West West Roosevelt road, was shot and killed over a card game. His slayer was known only as "Mr. New York."

Last night a man walked up to Desk Sergt. Sidney Sullivan in the Fillmore street station. "I'm the man you're looking for," he announced. "What man?" queried Sergt. Sullivan. "The man who killed Marcus," was the response.

Sergt. Sullivan immediately arrested the confessed slayer. He identified himself as Samuel Unikel, 39 years old, 1832 South Springfield avenue. His conscience bothered him, he explained, and he had to surrender. Unikel said he was a gambler by profession and had served two years in Sing Sing for picking a pocket. He killed Marcus, he said, because the card game was crooked.

HELD ON MURDER CHARGE.

Edward O'Hara, 31 years old, 6134 South Racine avenue, admitted to a coroner's jury yesterday that he had beaten his wife, May. He was held to the grand jury on a murder charge.

DENIES PLEA FOR INJUNCTION TO HALT TAX WORK

Supeior Judge Denis E. Sullivan yesterday denied a petition for an injunction to restrain the board of assessors from turning over 1930 assessment rolls to the board of review and to restrain the latter board from spending money on corection or revision work. The injunction was asked by 35 taxpayers, represented by the law firm of Watkins, Ten Hoor & Gilbert, who alleged they had been denied relief by the assessors and the board of review and in the County court. Judge Sullivan held proof in the bill to be insufficient and allowed ten days for the filing of an amended bill.

Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward refused to dissolve a temporary injunction restaining the collection of taxes under the reassessment on two parcels of property owned here by the American Mutual Liability company of Massachusetts. The company won the injunction three weeks ago, alleging real estate taxes to be excessive in proportion to personal property taxes and charging the board of review with failure to conduct proper hearings on tax complaints.

County Attorney Hayden N. Bell argued that the injunction was discriminatory and would lead to chaos in the financial situation of local governments. The judge allowed 20 days for the county to file an answer.

SHOP HELD UP SECOND TIME.

Bandits made their second visit in three days yesterday to the Pandora Dress shop, 4803 Sheridan road. Four men took $201 after holding up Miss Ivy Parker, manager of the shop, two clerks and a woman customer. On Monday two other gunmen robbed the shop of $324.

The Railway Plant of a Great Empire

A Message from L. A. Downs, President Illinois Central System.

In providing railway service for a great inland empire the Illinois Central System uses properties which represent a total investment of around 745 million dollars.

These properties include 1,800 locomotives, 65,000 freight cars, 1,950 passenger cars, 2,430 units of miscellaneous equipment, 12,000 miles of tracks, 160,000 acres of land and thousands of stations, warehouses, shops, enginehouses, storehouses and other buildings.

Improvements are constantly being made in these properties to the end that the service for which they are used may at all times be prompt, efficient and fully adequate to the needs of this great empire.

Service which meets these exacting requirements enables a railroad to win and retain the good will of the public.

Constructive criticism and suggestions are invited.

Chicago, July 1, 1931.

This is the second of a series of sketches descriptive of this railroad. The first told of its territory. Others will tell of its owners, its personnel and its patrons.

ELUSIVE FLUTE OF GOLD COAST TRAILED TO LAIR

Mystery of East Delaware Place Solved.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

In the 200 block in East Delaware place, where lofty nine room and three bath apartment buildings shoulder one another, those neighbors who haven't met for the summer appeared yesterday to have found a topic of common interest—a real neighborly bond.

The first hint of this situation came in a mild little want ad in the personal column of yesterday's TRIBUNE. It was:

"Will the flute player in the 200 East Delaware block kindly cease and oblige neighbors?"

In midafternoon, which was figured as one logical time for flute playing, a trip was made into the 200 block, in the heart of the gold coast, and neighbor ladies were disturbed from soap to dispense information about the flute player.

Gets on Her Nerves.

"No one knows who he is," said Mrs. Elizabeth Sullivan, wife of an attorney, whose ninth floor apartment at 240 East Delaware place faces the exclusive 237 East Delaware place building. "But I think that he must be right opposite me, on the ninth floor in 237.

"Now, I think I'm pretty good-natured. I don't mind radios. I don't mind the parties of the young people in this building. I can stand ordinary noise. But a flute does sort of get on one's nerves. But I suppose it's some boy with a new toy, and so I don't complain."

A red-haired woman on the second floor in 240 East Delaware place, who didn't want her identity made public, said she was fond of the flute and had had an uncle who could play the flute beautifully.

"I'm musical myself, and it isn't the flute, it's the discords that are loud on my nerves," she said. "Sometimes I've thought the little piping sound came from this building, but now I'm convinced it's from across the street. It's very nice waking at 9 o'clock to 'My Country, 'Tis of Thee,' except that his notes are all sour. However, anything is better than 'Home, Sweet Home.'"

Doesn't Play All the Time.

Mrs. Frank Blaine, on the fourth floor of 240 East Delaware place, felt differently. "Men have to have their little hobbies," she said, "and if flute playing is all he does I think he should be allowed to. And he doesn't play all day long. For instance, he's not playing right now."

In the imposing 223 Delaware Place building a man noted with interest that he had heard the playing as early as 9 a. m. and as late as 11 p. m. He was inclined to think it came from the north side of the street. In 222 Delaware place the doorman said a little shamefacedly that at times he had suspected the sound of the flute had come from his own building. He was now quite sure it came from the south side of the street, however. In his building there was a pianist, also an opera singer, he said, but, he felt reasonably sure, no flute player.

Can't Locate Sound.

Even the day clerk at 240 East Delaware place, Oscar Hatcher, who said he could think of little else all day, could not locate the elusive sound of the flute.

"If I knew," he said tersely, "that man would not be playing the flute now."

True, the thin, woody notes of the flute had begun. Standing in the middle of the street, scanning the formal fronts of the buildings, the plaintive little notes of "Coming Through the Rye" could be heard, but where they originated could not be learned.

A man, mopping his face, stepped out of a car and turned in at 237 East Delaware place. When he entered he was heard to ask a fellow resident who stood in the lobby:

"Who is it that's playing that flute?"

Prefers It to Drum.

"By Jove, you know," he replied. "I think it's some one in this building. But I don't mind it. There used to be a chap here who played the snare drums as his hobby."

"It's odd," remarked the other, "but it sounds as if it came from the third or fourth floor sometimes. But it couldn't be the Edwardses [Kenneth P. Edwards, grain broker]. They're in their Winnetka home anyway, aren't they?"

"Neither could it be the doctor on the third floor, you know," was the answering comment.

"Well, hardly," was the reply. "Any one in the building, I should say, before the doctor. I suppose the doctor is irritated by it more than any of us. Imagine the doctor playing a flute," and laughing, they stepped into the elevator.

As the apartment of Dr. Arthur R. Elliott on the third floor of No. 237 was approached, it did seem that the long drawn out notes of the flute swelled in volume. The servant's door was knocked upon, and a maid replied.

Traced to Source.

"Is that the doctor playing that flute?" she was asked.

"It is," she said militantly and closed the door.

Dr. Elliott is the head of the Chicago Society of Internal Medicine and a former president of the medical board of St. Luke's hospital. He is a professor of medicine at Rush Medical college. Dr. Elliott is 62 years old. An unnamed "distinguished citizen of Chicago" in 1923 gave $50,000 to Queen's university in Canada in honor of Dr. Elliott, who was educated there.

GOV. BRUCKER ACTS TO GIVE ISLAND TO U. S. FOR NATIONAL PARK

Lansing, Mich., July 1.—[Special.]—Gov. Wilber M. Brucker today announced the appointment of members of the Isle Royale commission, authorized by the recent legislature, to make arrangements for transfer of this Lake Superior island to the federal government for use as a National park.

The last congress passed the Cramton-Vandenberg act providing for designation of the park when the state completes the transfer.

The other members are, Edsel Ford, Detroit; Harry H. Harper, Lansing; William H. Wallace, Saginaw, and William Alden Smith, Grand Rapids, former U. S. Senator.

Isle Royale is covered with virgin forest and has one of the few moose herds still existing in the United States.

U. S. DRYS SWOOP DOWN ON 19 RENO OASES; ARREST 37

But Liquor Flows Again After They Depart.

Reno, Nev., July 1.—(AP)—Doors to Reno speakeasies were guarded closely tonight following surprise raids by federal prohibition agents who invaded 19 night clubs and bootleg establishments and made 37 arrests last night.

Several of the places raided were known to be doing "business as usual" again today, but only old customers were successful in gaining admittance.

40 Drys Kept Busy.

Col. George Seaver of San Francisco, who led more than forty agents in the drive to dry up this "biggest little city in the world," announced himself highly pleased with the results of his "little surprise party," although "naturally sorry we did not get all of the bootleg places."

Three prominent resorts were to have been included in last night's program, but there was a slip-up somewhere, Seaver said. At least two score other places known here as speakeasies were unmolested by the agents, who evidently were after only the better known resorts.

Raid Carefully Planned.

The raids had been carefully planned. For several days undercover agents had been coming into the city and making liquor purchases. Eleven o'clock was "zero hour" and at that time more than forty agents, some inside the establishments and others outside, started mopping up.

Police headquarters was soon crowded with prisoners and their attorneys. As fast as they could make bail bond of $2,000 those arrested were released. Today not a single one remained in jail.

Mellow, mild tobaccos that need no parching

ANY tobacco expert will tell you that parching would ruin the flavor of the choice Turkish and mellow Domestic tobaccos of which Camel cigarettes are blended.

Heating to that extent is an emergency measure resorted to only as an attempt to take part of the bite and burn and sting out of harsh, strong tobaccos.

We do everything to bring you Camels in factory-fresh condition, preserving for your enjoyment the natural moisture together with the rich, rare flavor and aroma of those choice tobaccos.

That's why Camel smokers hold so persistently to Camels. They simply can't enjoy the stale, flat smoke from dried-out, moisture-robbed tobacco.

You see, every Camel package is now a humidor that excludes dust and germs and guarantees factory-fresh Camels to every smoker.

If you are not a Camel smoker, switch over for just one day. After you have discovered how mild, how cool they are to your throat, then leave them for stale hot smokes—if you can.

Don't remove the moisture-proof Cellophane from your package of Camels after you open it. The Humidor Pack is protection against sweat, dust and germs. It delivers fresh Camels and keeps them right until you smoke the last one

JURY IN POLICE SLAYING TRIAL IS DEADLOCKED

Crippled Comrade Testifies in Murder Case.

After deliberating for nearly eight hours, the jury which will determine the fate of Harry Yetter, 26 years old, on a charge of murdering Policeman John J. Guiltanane, was still deadlocked at 1 o'clock this morning. On orders of Judge Peter M. Schwaba of the Criminal court, the jurors were sent to bed at that hour and instructed to resume deliberations at 9 o'clock this morning. The jury was given the case at 5:23 o'clock yesterday.

ANTHONY WISTORT

Guiltanane was killed when he and his partner, Policeman Anthony Wistort, arrested two men in front of the Morgan Park Motor Sales company, 2345 West 111th street, on July 30, 1930. Wistort was shot, and his legs were paralyzed. He was carried into court yesterday in a wheel chair.

Tells of Arrest.

According to Wistort he and Guiltanane, together with Policeman Fred Jurgens, apprehended Yetter and a companion known as William Neverowsky as the pair were backing an automobile out of the motor company's garage. The two were suspected of participating in several robberies.

"A pistol was found in the men's cars," Wistort testified. "Yetter turned and ran. Guiltanane fired several shots over his head and brought Yetter to a standstill. Then he and Neverowsky were placed in the squad car in which we had been riding. Jurgens was sent to telephone for the patrol wagon and Guiltanane turned to enter the garage for further investigation. I was standing about six feet from the car in which the two men were sitting."

"Bullets Struck Me."

"Suddenly there was a burst of gun fire and bullets struck me. I fell and didn't remember much afterward."

These were the shots which crippled Wistort and killed Guiltanane. The state contends that they were fired by the prisoners sitting in the squad car. The two escaped and Neverowsky was not recaptured, but Yetter was taken later in the same day at a south side hotel.

Yetter, the prosecutors say, was carrying the revolver in a leg holster which was overlooked when he was searched by the police.

Yetter took the stand and denied firing on the policemen. He said that the policemen had begun shooting at him and Neverowsky as they sat in the police car and had hit each other. He was the only defense witness.

Villagers Halt Funeral to Catch the Murderer

NUREMBERG, Germany, July 1.—(AP)—The funeral in the nearby village of Pollanten of four children slain Monday night by their father almost ended in a lynching today when mourners discovered the murderer, who had fled after the crime, watching the burial from a nearby hill. Practically the entire population stormed the hill and captured the man. He was rescued and jailed by police.

GOVERNOR DENIES ART NEWMAN AND PERRY CLEMENCY

Springfield, Ill., July 1.—(AP)—Art Newman, southern Illinois gangster, and Ira D. Perry Jr., Chicago, both sentenced to life imprisonment for murder, were denied executive clemency today by Gov. Emmerson, as were 32 other criminals.

Newman was convicted in Franklin county and later was transferred to Joliet penitentiary after threats had been made against his life by gangsters. Perry, convicted of killing a Chicago jeweler, has made several applications for clemency to the board of pardons and paroles.

Other state prisoners who were denied clemency included: Max Krakow, Cook, conspiracy, six months and $500 fine, held in Cook county jail; Bert King, Cook, obtaining money by false pretenses, one year and $100 fine, held in house of correction.

BARBER JAKE'S PALS ON TRIAL; THEY BLAME HIM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 1.—John [Jake the Barber] Factor, now under arrest in Chicago, was blamed today for alleged fraudulent stock tips in the defunct Broad Street Press by Herbert John Spellen, one of the defendants on trial in Old Bailey court on the charge of defrauding the public through the financial journal. His co-defendants are Frederick Newberry and Burnett L. Elman.

Spellen said Factor controlled the paper and that the others were merely carrying out instructions. He said he knew Factor under at least ten names, including Davis, Walker, Wise and Guest. He declared that Factor repeatedly changed the company's name as well as his own.

The prosecution charges that more than $5,000,000 was fraudulently obtained through the Broad Street Press, and that Factor got the bulk of it.

Exonerate Policeman of Charge of Intoxication

Policeman Harlow F. Zauner of the Fillmore street station was exonerated by the city civil service commission yesterday of charges of intoxication and conduct unbecoming a police officer when it was shown that he had acted on the complaint of a citizen in arresting a suspected automobile thief.

Youth, Arrested as Thief, Identified as Auto Killer

Edward Flannery, 18 years old, 4649 West Adams street, was arrested yesterday as an automobile thief. Within a few hours he had been identified as the driver of the vampire car which on June 15 fatally injured Daniel Zempansky, 70 years old, 3209 West Polk street.

CRUISE to the heart of Old French-Canada. We take you by rail to Toronto, Queen City of Canada, where your foreign adventure begins. You set sail on a luxurious steamer, one of the world's largest fresh water fleet. You will visit, en route, Montreal—the metropolis, and the fortress city of Quebec, Gibraltar of North America.

You will cruise among the Thousand Islands—set like a thousand jewels in azure blue waters, experience the thrills of shooting the great St. Lawrence Rapids. Near Quebec you will pay your respects at the miracle shrine of Ste. Anne de Beaupré and hear the thunder of Montmorency Falls, higher than Niagara.

Beyond Quebec the high Laurentians follow the St. Lawrence and you cruise in the shadow of these ancient mountains. The steamer puts in at fashionable Murray Bay, and quaint and lovely Tadoussac, Canada's oldest settlement. The glory of the Saguenay River, seen at sunset and again at dawn, is a spectacle to impress the most widely travelled. The wild grandeur of Trinity Bay, guarded by the tremendous capes, Trinity and Eternity—the ship's siren reverberating like giant laughter among the eternal hills—gives you a touch of the loneliness, austerity and beauty of the silent places.

A spirit of gaiety prevails for the entire journey, and there is not a dull moment on ship or shore. You dance every evening to the music of a lively orchestra. Delicious meals satisfy ravenous appetites. You will vote this the best vacation ever.

Remember, every expense on this enjoyable cruise has been foreseen and included in the figure quoted above, as well as stop-overs at important hotels en route. A courteous escort relieves you of every travel worry.

Publicity-Made, Mythical Hero Rides to Fame

Then Heat Wilts You Read This One.

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

THE funniest, rip-roaringest, cleverest, most amusing hot weather book I've yet had the good fortune to bump into is the one that made its appearance two days ago, "Oh Glory!" by Harford Powell Jr. [Bobbs Merrill]. It's a perfectly grand story and the reader who fails to wear a broad grin as he goes from chapter to chapter is just one of those odd freaks of nature, a human being without a funny bone.

HARFORD POWELL. [Bachrach Photo.]

In the first place, the author has an absolutely fresh, spontaneous way of saying things. His conversations are real conversations, and they sparkle and glint with humor and fun. There's not a dismal moment in "Oh Glory!" In the second place, Mr. Powell has given an original idea for a theme and he makes the most of it. [Yes, I know there is nothing new under the sun, but have you read this novel?] Have you ever heard of a person named Harvey J. Buck, who was born in the Cave club in Boston at midnight of Dec. 23, 1927, when there was no woman in the room?

It all happened like this: Young Charles Low, a tutor at Harvard, fell in love with Joan Underwood, daughter of the prominent and wealthy Robert Underwood, architect. Robert was a member of an old, exclusive and somewhat stodgy club called the Cave. As long as his fortune lasts things are all right for Charles and Joan, but when he loses it in the Palm Beach real estate crash, the future grows dark.

Robert resigns from the Cave. It is Christmas eve and the annual feast meeting of the year is going on. Joan is not there. Braddock Kent, Fisher Oakes, the famous writer; John Phillip, the internationally known portrait painter, and Paul Armitage, millionaire, miss their old friend, and marvel how proud he is, try to find some subtle way to help him. Money is still not accept. What can be done?

Young Charles has, meantime, given up his teaching career for the more profitable job of publicity and has opened an office in Boston. And his friends is stoking the furnace and cooking the meals for her father out in Chestnut hill. She hates to see Charles give up his work at Harvard and remarks that at least he ought to be working "for some really big man, not just a lot of hotels and florists and nuisfiness." She tells him she wishes he could find somebody like Abraham Lincoln.

What a grand gold mine for an up and coming publicity man a figure like Abe's would make! Oh glory! The members of the Cave club get busy and the first thing you know, Harvey J. Buck springs full armed from their temples, as it were. Harvey is the great American citizen, a future senator, a future President. He ceases to be a figment of the imagination. He exists as an actuality, with Washington and the well known dome looming up in the foreground. He's a man.

First, one of the Cave club members puts aside $5,000 monthly for publicity for Harvey. This, of course, goes to young Charles Low and his employer. Then, the gifted members of the group act as godfathers, as it were, each donating a marvelous present to Harvey J. Buck, a present that will help him to grow in the eyes of the great American public.

Charles, all innocence, starts telling the world about him. Each day there is a small item in the paper about Mr. Buck's generosity in contributing to the Chinese famine relief fund, about his prowess as an explorer [he wandered to within six miles of the pole while out hunting ptarmigan, one time], about his views on this, that, and the other public question. The first thing you know, Mr. Buck is asked to appear on the list of patrons for one charity after another; he's asked to speak at public gatherings, to talk over the air. And this last he does, thanks to a proxy in the person of an announcer.

He comes out in the press for "federal aid to the unemployed, for Sunday sport, for adjustment of prohibition and repeal of the federal income tax, for old age insurance, and for a shorter work day and work week." He stands for "the old time American republicanism," for the direct election of senators and judges, for relief for the farmer, for protection for "our feathered friends," for modern education, and what have you?

In short, Harvey J. Buck is a whale of a big American, combining as he does all the virtues of every politician that ever won a vote from bolognev-eating citizenry. Just try to hold back a man like that from the senate! Readers, you'll chortle over Harvey.

Once created, the problem becomes: What to do with this marvelous statesman; how to get rid of him when his usefulness is ended? Or, can the world ever be rid of him? The end of the tale is as astonishing and as side-splitting as the beginning, and equally unexpected.

Warn Teachers Evil Writing Perils Children

N. E. A. Speakers Attack Ultra Modern Books.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 1.—(AP)—The National Education association convention was told here today that the greatest danger to 10,000,000 abnormal and subnormal children is "vulgar and indecent books and periodicals."

Edwin C. Broome, Philadelphia educator, made the statement in discussing means by which school principals can make effective the recommendations of the White House conference on child welfare.

"No measures," he said, "except the elimination of the traffic in indecent publications will avail. The control of that vice, like the control of dope peddling, is a responsibility upon police and the courts and should be courageously met."

Broome visualized the radio as having "tremendous educative possibilities," but added, "we shall not begin to realize those possibilities until perhaps as a condition of receiving a license, every broadcasting station shall be required to devote a definite preparation of its schedule to educative programs free from advertising."

The schools, he said, cannot be expected to counteract entirely the harmful influences of improper motion pictures, radio features or dancing in harmful surroundings "any more than the school can be expected to prevent the use of all slang in conversation."

Speaking on much the same theme, Milo H. Stuart declared the old paper backed detective tale which boys used to scan on the sly is "Sunday school reading," compared to some of the magazines and novels of today.

"Outside of school tremendous forces are at work to destroy the character of youth," he insisted. "Card games are played to excess and for money and dances held at hours which used to be relegated to sleep for all honest people. Suggestive motion picture shows and vile theaters, newspapers which feature details of scandal and crime and books dress up old sexual sins in new clothing. "If we were hunting an alibi it would be easy to show it is entirely impossible for the public schools to build character as fast as these forces can tear it down. But we are not interested in why we cannot build character, but how we can."

U. S. Illiteracy Decreasing.

Washington, D. C., July 1.—(AP)—Illiteracy is decreasing in the United States at the rate of about 1.7 per cent every ten years.

The census bureau announced today that 1930 figures showed 4.3 per cent of the population ten years of age and over to be illiterate. In 1920 it was 6 per cent; 1910, 7.7 per cent; 1900, 10.7 per cent; 1890, 13.3 per cent; 1880, 17 per cent, and 1870, 20 per cent.

Illiterates over ten years old were reported by the bureau to number 4,283,749 in 1930, a decrease of 648,156 during the last ten years. The percentage of illiteracy in the various states ranged from a minimum of eight-tenths of one per cent in Iowa to 14.9 per cent in South Carolina. There was a decrease in illiteracy percentages in every state.

Hospital Tests Branding Babies by Violet Rays

New York, July 1.—[Special.]—Artificial sunburn may replace tags and footprinting as a means of identifying new born babes, if experiments being conducted at the Shore Road hospital, Brooklyn, prove successful. The new method, two experiments in which were made today, consists of branding new babies with their family names through the use of a stencil device and ultraviolet rays.

BEG YOUR PARDON!

In THE TRIBUNE of last Saturday the name of Lowell B. Mason was mentioned in connection with the burning and sinking of the motor cruiser Aloha. The reference follows: "The identities of the passengers on the cruiser were not learned. One report, however, included the name of Lowell B. Mason of Oak Park, former state senator. Neither he nor his family could be reached early this morning, but it was said that they had left for the dunes on Tuesday." Mr. Mason was not a passenger on the Aloha.

The name of Jerome V. Treusch, 1028 Loyola avenue, should have been included in the list of scholarship winners from Chicago high schools which appeared in THE TRIBUNE of last Sunday. Mr. Treusch won a scholarship to Northwestern university from Senn High school. The omission was in the list of names furnished by the schools.

Movie Gossip from Hollywood

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., July 1.—[Special.]—If John D. Rockefeller O. K.'s a story woven about his youth, life, and the rise of the Standard Oil which Lucien Hubbard, Warner Brothers executive, is preparing, George Arliss will play the billionaire in a new talkie titled "Rockefeller." Arliss is said at the studio to be very eager to personify John D. but the hitch may come in a difference of opinion between the movie magnates and the oil leader as to what is good stuff to appear on the screen.

They style it "the coming battle of the century" here in referring to the filming of "Greeks Had a Word for It," the battle being between Ina Claire and Lowell Sherman to see which can crowd the other from in front of the camera. Sherman's directing the picture, as well as starring in it, but a mere director, like a mere husband, may find Miss Claire indifferent to his ideas of his importance.

W. S. Vandyke, the director who went to the South seas and made "The Pagan" a hit, then went to Africa and made "Trader Horn," a still bigger hit, is asking the courts here to construe his contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer. In January, 1927, Vandyke signed a five year contract under which he was to draw $600 a week, but while making "The Pagan" and "Trader Horn" the studio raised him to $1,000 a week. Recently the studio cut his stipend to $600 again, and Vandkye now is yelling for the $1,000.

Mrs. Charlotte Herman Earle, ex-wife of Ferdinand "Affinity" Earle, and a New Jersey society bud when she eloped with the fascinating artist, has now turned concert pianist. She is giving concerts at Hollywood Woman's club tomorrow. Mrs. Earle adds to her income here by leasing the Highland avenue estate, which was her "dream home" during happier times with the artist, who now is in Paris and married again, to be used by the Hollywood Progressive Private school.

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is another company to fall under the spell of the sea now that 90 degree weather has fastened its summer grip on us. Wally Beery, Noah's brother, gets a touch of ocean life in M.-G.-M.'s "Hell's Divers," a navy aviation picture, which also features Conrad Nagel, John Miljan, Clark Gable, Marjorie Rambeau and Reed Howes and Cliff Edwards. Part of this picture is being made at sea and part at naval aviation field at San Diego, and aboard the plane carrier Saratoga. George Hill is the director. M.-G.-M. will make "Pig Boats" later. Paramount's contribution to the surf films is "Come on Marines."

After being critically ill for three days, the eight months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Montgomery, is reported recovering.

Weizmann Asks Jews to Seek Arab Good Will Officially Quits as Head of Zionist Movement.

BASLE, Switzerland, July 1.—(AP)—Dr. Chaim Weizmann, for thirteen years head of the Zionist movement, formally relinquished that post today at the second session of the Zionist congress. His resignation was submitted last October when the British white paper on Palestine was published.

Dr. Weizmann spoke for two and a half hours, presenting his report as head of the movement, outlining his difficulties in the last ten years, but declaring that Zionism will reach its goal.

The Jewish Telegraphic agency said the congress was thrown into an uproar at the conclusion of his speech when Zionist revisionists voiced vigorous disapproval of what Dr. Weizmann had said. His friends, however, surrounded him on the rostrum, pressing their congratulations upon him.

Menahem Mendel Ussishkin, world president of the Jewish National Fund, was one of those who took issue with Dr. Weizmann, denying that the National Fund might have acquired more land in Palestine. The fund, he said, had carried out all the great land purchases in the Emek and Haifa districts against the opposition of the Zionist executive. Pogroms will never prevent the Jews from going to Palestine, he said.

Dr. Weizmann received a tremendous ovation as he began to speak. He dwelt at some length on the program of the future in Palestine, describing a plan for settlement of at least 50,000 Jewish families there, for the raising of a Jewish loan for Palestine, and for the establishment of a department for Arab relations within the Zionist executive.

"The position of the Jewish communities in all parts of the world has undergone a change for the worse, Dr. Weizmann declared. "We have been more gravely affected than any one else by the world-wide economic depression. Our work of reconstruction in Palestine has been slowed down to a dangerous degree."

After referring to the white paper of 1930 and the Simpson report, Dr. Weizmann declared Prime Minister MacDonald's letter to him interpreted the white paper, righted the wrong done by the white paper and emphatically reaffirmed the Balfour declaration and the mandate. He urged that the Jews should be encouraged to study the Arab language, history, and literature.

As to relations between the Arabs and Jews in Palestine, he said further: "One thing seems to be clear—the Arabs must be convinced by word and deed that whatever the future numerical relationship of the two nations, we on our part contemplate no political domination. But they must also remember that we never shall submit to any political domination.

"Provided the mandate is both recognized and respected, we would welcome an agreement between the two kindred races on a basis of political parity. . . ."

BORI AND CHAMLEE SING "LA BOHEME" IN DELIGHTFUL WAY

BY EDWARD MOORE.

It may have been that the first three acts of "La Boheme," simulating winter weather as they did, made the Ravinia audience forget the recent thermometrical unpleasantness. At any rate a superb cast rollicked through the piece in the highest sort of spirits, and the audience responded as no audience has done since the season started.

It was a cast to hunt up adjectives about. Lucrezia Bori as Mimi and Mario Chamlee as Rodolfo set standards that will last a long time before any other soprano and tenor overturn them. They were gay, they were mannerly, and their singing was something charming. Their gayety was reflected by the other musketeers of the arts, Mario Basiola as Marcello, Desire Defrere as Schaunard, and Virgilio Lazzari as Colline. And since there was another spot for brightness, it was supplied by Margery Maxwell, who is probably the best Musetta on the stage today.

The next time that they present "La Boheme" at Ravinia, pay particular attention to the second act. The interplay among the principals and between principals and chorus, the lively action throughout on the stage, the merry pace set by Gennaro Papi on the conductor's stand, make it just about a perfect bit of operatic art.

The American Conservatory of Music began a summer series of faculty recitals at Kimball hall yesterday afternoon and the series was initiated by Mrs. Louise Hattstaedt Winter, soprano, and Rudolph Reuter, pianist. Among Mrs. Winter's many gifts for the recital platform is the fact that each year she is better than she was the year before, and yesterday she displayed excellent voice and first class technical interpretation, plus a notable bit of illuminating personality. Mr. Reuter presented works from a number of composers, among them Bach, Chopin, and Brahms, with the same authoritative manner that has given him his present standing among Chicago concert attendants.

THE STAGE

HARLEY L. CLARKE, president of the Chicago Civic Shakespeare society, announces a change of policy for Fritz Leiber's company next season. With the engagement of William Faversham, Tyrone Power, Helen Menken, and Pedro de Cordoba as associates, the organization will assume an "all star" aspect.

The plan includes a shorter season in Chicago, with ambitious productions of at least four of the major dramas of Shakespeare. The engagement will begin in September. A tour and a New York engagement will follow.

"Hamlet" will be staged by Mr. Leiber in the title rôle, Miss Menken as Ophelia, Mr. Power as the Ghost and Mr. Faversham [probably] as the King. The other plays in the repertory have not yet been chosen. "Julius Caesar" should be among them, for the rôle of Marc Antony figured in the long and brilliant career of Mr. Faversham as a star. Tyrone Power's return to the company seems to promise "Othello." "Macbeth" and "The Merchant of Venice" are other possibilities.

George Vivian, who has been associated with Ben Greet's Shakespearean tours for years, will become the stage director. Max Faetkenheuer remains as business manager.

"The addition of other names to the company," says Mr. Clarke's bulletin, "will be announced in a short time. These will include several other players of fame."

A season of operetta revivals in Chicago is promised by an announcement from the Messrs. Shubert. It will follow the tradition of the revivals of comic opera hits which were given at the Majestic theater in the winter of 1930.

Jolson's theater, New York, will be the headquarters of this venture. The operas will be staged there for fortnight engagements, and then will be sent on tour, especially to Philadelphia, Boston and Chicago. In each of these cities a permanent chorus group will be formed, and only the principal players will travel. Several comic operas by Victor Herbert are on the production schedule.

Milton Aborn, impresario of the current Gilbert and Sullivan revivals in New York, plans to send a company on tour next season with a repertory of these stage classics. He also announces a decision to extend his regime of revivals at the Erlanger theater, New York, through the summer and well into the winter. When the Gilbert and Sullivan library has been exhausted, he will stage such old favorites as "The Red Mill," "Sweethearts," "Naughty Marietta," "The Geisha," "Erminie," "Robin Hood," "The Merry Widow," "The Firefly," "The Chocolate Soldier," and "The Bohemian Girl." SALLY PICKS 100 CHILDREN TODAY FOR CHARLIE CHAN PARTY

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Have all the letters from Charlie Chan enthusiasts reached my office this morning? I hope so because this is the day on which I will read them and select the hundred boys and girls who will accompany me to the Oriental theater on next Thursday to see "The Black Camel," an exciting mystery play.

In addition to the picture, which is sure to be marvelous, there will be an interesting stage show. Frankie Masters, whom you'll all fond of, I know, will be featured with his orchestra in a stage production called "Sea Breezes." Doesn't that have a cool and inviting sound? Then there will be some comedians—Terrill and Fawcett, and the Darling Twins, and a novelty act which is sure to delight you in which Roff and Dogs will go though their paces, and finally the Lambert ballet.

To me that sounds like a most complete and enticing program and I think we're quite fortunate to have planned our party at the Oriental during a week where there's such a splendid show.

This is a day of great import for all my young friends for it marks the first party of the season. This afternoon will find one hundred of us at White City park enjoying the coolness and thrill of the high, exciting rides! If your name appeared in the winning list last Sunday you should have received your invitation and you know all the particulars for meeting. If you cannot come for some reason or other please call me at THE TRIBUNE.

Guarantors Cover Half of That, Insull Explains.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

A loss of $1,079,473.06 was reported yesterday by the Chicago Civic Opera company in its thirteen weeks of operations in the Civic Opera house last fall and winter.

This figure is by far the greatest loss the Civic Opera company has had to face in its nine years of existence. It is comparable only to the final season of the organization's legal predecessor, the Chicago Opera association, that hectic season when Mary Garden was its general director. It is estimated to be nearly twice as much as the amount subscribed by the company's guarantors, the amount lacking, however, being paid from other sources.

In exact figures, the cost of the operatic season of 1930-'31 was $2,873,434.21. The total income, including $1,394,918.79 from the sale of opera tickets, was $1,493,961.

These and other facts and figures were revealed in a statement issued yesterday by Samuel Insull to the guarantors of the company. In explanation of conditions Mr. Insull said:

"The attendance during the Chicago season was considerably less than that for the preceding season, and the decrease in attendance was only partly accounted for by the fact that only eighty-nine performances were given during the 1930-'31 season as against 101 performances during the preceding season.

"According to the records of the company 208,077 people attended the 1930-'31 performances in Chicago, as against 306,018 for the 1929-'30 season. The average attendance for the eighty-nine performances in 1930-'31 was 2,338, and for the 101 performances of the 1929-'30 season 3,030. The receipts for the 1930-31 season totaled $1,394,918.79, as against $1,230,224.67 for the preceding season.

"As a result of these conditions the company sustained a loss on the Chicago season considerably in excess of the payments made by the guarantors. The difference between the loss and the payments made by the guarantors was made up by advances from the Chicago Music Foundation."

Later in his report Mr. Insull explained that the Chicago Music Foundation was a perpetual trust organized a little more than two years ago to assemble a fund the income from which was to be used in helping to defray the expenses of producing grand opera in Chicago, in educating and training people in the musical art, and in doing other things to make Chicago an operatic and musical center.

"As stated in last year's report," he added, "the foundation now owns all the common stock of 20 Wacker Drive Building corporation, the corporation owning the 20 North Wacker Drive building in which the Chicago Civic Opera house is located, and it owns a substantial amount of the preferred stock of the building corporation, which has been donated to it by public spirited citizens. Gifts and bequests of additional preferred stock and also of money and securities of all kinds are now being solicited by the foundation and everything is being done to increase the assets of the foundation as rapidly as possible."

All these figure apply to the season here in Chicago and do not include the fifty-three performances given on tour after the company left the Civic Opera house late in January. Mr. Insull admitted that owing to general business depression the tour also sustained a loss, but he stated that this loss would be borne by subscriptions and would not fall upon the guarantors to whom his report was addressed.

But though the red ink side of the ledger is not calculated to promote optimism, the company is going ahead with its preparations for the 1931-'32 season as earnestly as though it had met nothing but fair weather. Mr. Insull cities the appointment of Herbert Witherspoon as vice president in charge of opera, which already has been made public, also the appointment of Herbert M. Johnson as vice president in charge of business, to be business manager of the company and to have charge of the tour in place of Clark A. Shaw, resigned.

The new season of the company will open in Chicago on Nov. 2, 1931. The roster of the company is not fully made up, but it is certain, says Mr. Insull, that the following principal artists will appear:

CONTRALTOS—Maria Claessens, Coe Glade, Maria Olszewska, Sonia Sharnova, Cyrena Van Gordon.

BARITONES—Rudolph Bockelmann, Cesare Formichi, Eduard Habich, Hans Hermann Nissen, Giacomo Rimini, Robert Ringling, John Charles Thomas, Vanni-Marcoux.

BASSOS—Chase Baromeo, Edouard Cotreuil, Alexander Kipnis, Virgilio Lazzari.

The conductors will be Emil Cooper, Charles Lauwers, Roberto Moranzoni, Egon Pollak, and Frank St. Leger, all of whom were with the company during the last season. The resignation of Giorgio Polacco would seem to have been a permanent one. Isaac Van Grove, a member of the company several seasons ago, has been engaged as another conductor, and the stage director, Dr. Otto Erhardt, has been reengaged.

Makeup Graduates Into Realm of Art, Opines Antoinette

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

This gay summer of ours, with its brilliant range of dress shades, beach costumes, bathing suits, etcetera, is said to reflect above everything else femininity's desire to go still more feminine. Anyway, what has happened is that women have had to go over their cosmetic articles, discard shades of lipstick and rouge, and replace them with what might be called "better supporting" colors.

I tell you this business of makeup becomes more and more a job, or an art, or an ally, or whatever you want to call it. Anyway, it's more something than it used to be when our powder problem, for instance, was a simple A. B. C.: white, flesh and rachel.

The bright tones in summer frocks have a definite effect on the artificial bloom on the cheek, though said bloom may have gone well with the brown or navy spring suit.

Now, there are greens, yellows, oranges and coral dress shades that need a makeup in which there is a definite orange tint. There are certain delicate shades in dress materials that call not for a delicate lipstick coloring and cheek tone, but for a decided makeup to preserve one against a blah appearance, a dull, uninteresting personality effect.

A rule has grown out of this makeup and dress color study that might be looked into, yet I do not think it can be accepted by every one. The truth is, you just cannot give rules about makeup. You have to do your own experimenting. The rule is a darker powder for daytime and a paler one for evening.

I know a stunning blond who simply reverses that order and, for her, the effect is infinitely more striking. She goes in for white evening things, and being blond, feels the need of what she calls a bit of character in her makeup to relieve what might be a pale blond monotony. Where there is a yellow undertone in the frock, an orange shaded makeup is most likely to harmonize.

Work and Friends Are Cure for Aching Heart, Claims Doris

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Men have those heartaches, too!

Here's "Lonely Troubadour" pleading for some heart balm to relieve the pain of separation from the girl of five years' steady companionship. She's gone. For good, too, leaving behind only thoughts and an unquenchable desire for the good old days when she said she cared.

"I've put myself back into circulation," says L. T. "I make friends and I keep them, but the past never dies. I lie awake hours trying to sleep. The first thing in the morning thoughts of the girl set me back right where I was the night before."

"I'm no child—no lovesick puppy. I'm 27. So is the girl whose absence is unbearable. What IS the cure?"

Here's something you might try, although its not recommended as a surefire relief. Think about the other poor devils in the same state of heart disorder as yourself; of other men [and women] that fate has tried with a trial that surely is hard to take. There's no ache quite like that of the discarded one. Pride is hurt; vanity is touched. And the heart certainly does experience a real depression.

Perhaps the thought that others have gone through the same thing, or are going through the same thing might help, although it isn't the most courageous way on earth of standing up under a licking. Then, begin figuring how these other fellows pulled themselves up and out from under their bad spell. Suddenly you may perceive that indulgence in self pity isn't going to get you anywhere. That other men have accomplished the impossible [forgetting] by plunging into some absorbing activity. That they have regained some of their old fight with a plunge into sports. Anyway, one just can't go on mooning. The world won't let us.

There's always the tried old recipe for a real heart balm. What one girl has caused another may cure—if you give her half a chance. That means no comparisons; no undue references to the dear departed; no brooding over the lost love. Nothing can restore the ego and its rejuvenated heart effect like a new girl who is sure you are a wonder.

Weather Wilts Garden Show at Barrington

BY THALIA

The Barrington Garden club has decided not to have a garden and flower show this year. Their shows always have been lovely and successful, though small, but the day of the show last year was just so hot that the women on the various committees thought they wouldn't want to do it again for a while.

Instead there's to be an "open day" a week from Saturday, the 11th, and eight of Barrington's pretty gardens are to be visitable between the hours of 11 in the morning and 5 in the afternoon. The members whose places will be open include Mrs. James E. MacMurray, Mrs. H. Willis Hart, Mrs. Alexander Reichmann, Mrs. John W. Esmond, Mrs. Samuel R. Cardwell, Mrs. Herbert Johnson, Mrs. Marvin E. Miner Jr., and Mrs. John B. Macauley.

Mrs. MacMurray's annuals are generally considered the most beautiful around Barrington, and she has some lovely phlox. Mrs. Hart has a gem of a rose garden, and Mrs. Reichmann specializes in roses and has all sorts of different kinds.

The Esmonds have a sunken garden, and there dahlias are particularly abundant and fine, and the Miners' garden is on one side of their swimming pool. The rock garden on the Cardwell estate, Oak Knolls, overlooks the private riding ring, which is the scene of many lively neighborhood gymkhanas, horseshows, and jumping contests during the summer months. Mrs. Lafayette Markle is president of the garden club this year, and is in charge of the arrangements for the open day, and Mrs. Edwin A. Kipp is assisting.

Santa Barbara News Includes Items of Some Chicagoans.

The Ishams are to visit for a time in Lake Forest and then motor west by way of the Canadian Rockies, Banff, and Jasper Park. Miss Elston sailed for Europe last week to be gone all summer. . .

Mr. and Mrs. J. Newton Perrys Take House at Harbor Point; Other News.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Newton Perrys have taken a house at Harbor Point, Mich., for the summer, and Mrs. Perry and the children have departed thence. Mrs. Perry has been hobbling about on a cane recently, because of a foot injury. . .

Mr. and Mrs. J. Allen Newton of 70 East Pearson street announce the birth of a son on Tuesday at St. Luke's hospital. The child is to be named J. Allen Newton Jr. Mrs. Newton was Miss Gertrude Lucey before her marriage.

Commentary—Miss Elinor Durbin, Dr. Fletcher M. Durbins' daughter, is home today from the east. Since graduation at Vassar she has been visiting at Woods Hole, Mass., and was maid of honor for the wedding of Miss Mary Ann West and Robert Ward last Saturday . . . Mrs. Edward L. Hersey Jr. and her small daughter departed yesterday to join her father, J. Sidney Burnet at his summer place at Harbor Point. She will be up there all summer, and Mr. Hersey will join her for week-ends . . . Mr. and Mrs. John Elliott Jenkins are to spend the Fourth week end as guests of Joseph E. Otis Jr., at his place at Harbor Springs [the Jenkinses are not going up to their lodge in Laona in northern Wisconsin this summer] . . . the Henry Norcotts are having a Fourth of July house party at Lawsonia . . .

P. S.—Mr. and Mrs. William P. Nelson of Santa Barbara [and formerly, Chicago] sailed on Monday night on the Bremen for Europe. . . . Nancy Poppenhusen of Evanston, Ruth Elizabeth and Florence Louise Owen of Lake Forest, and Diana Tagmose are among the Chicago daughters who are going to Lake Windermere ranch camp in the Canadian Rockies, south of Banff, for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Palmer Tell of Daughter's Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wentworth Palmer announce the marriage of their daughter, Helen Murray, to Joseph Ferguson King Jr. which took place at the Palmers' summer place, Indian Cove at Desbarats, Canada, on June the 20th. It was intended to have the wedding out of doors, but rain spoiled that idea, and the living room was prettily decorated with wild roses and wild iris with a background of pines and ferns. Mr. King and his bride went to the Manitoulin islands for their wedding trip, and they are to sail on Aug. 28 to spend a year of graduate study at the University of Edinburgh, and then a year of study in Germany.

JUNE BRIDE

MRS. JOHN W. ROHR.

The marriage of Miss Agnes Regina Madden daughter of Mrs. Catherine Madden of 6600 Newgard avenue, to John W. Rohr of 1125 Lunt avenue, took place at 10 o'clock yesterday morning in St. Ignatius church. The Rev. Eugene Harrigan, president of St. Charles college at Cotonsville, Md., officiated at the ceremony. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, William F. Madden. Her sister, Miss Mary Madden was maid of honor, and another brother, Patrick Madden, served as best man for the groom.

Illinois Ready to Plan Exhibits at World's Fair

With the approval of Gov. Emmerson of an appropriation of $350,000 for Illinois exhibit at the 1933 Century of Progress, officials in charge of that exposition yesterday began laying plans for the Hall of States. That building, is to be located on Northerly island, which is off 7th street, south of the Adler planetarium.

One structure will house all the exhibits of the states and territories, it was announced. In that connection, officials revealed that 38 states already have taken definite steps towards providing for exhibits, while five more have promised immediate action. Only five states have not responded.

Gov. Emmerson is empowered in the appropriation act to appoint a commission to supervise the expenditure of the $350,000. He will name the members of six state senators, six state representatives, and six members at large within a few weeks.

While that commission will decide details, a general outline of the Illinois exhibition was presented yesterday at the offices of the Century of Progress exposition. One exhibit will depict the growth of agriculture in this state, another will describe the state's attractions for tourists.

Illinois' history from the time that it was a prairie roamed by Indians also will be shown. The exhibit will have social and economic phases. One display will strive to show how the taxpayers' money is spent.

The officials expressed gratification at the action of China in voting an appropriation of $100,000 to cover the cost of Chinese participation in the exposition.

Cotton Suit Dress Is Smart for Street Wear

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Whether it's the effect of the tropical scenery and animals surrounding the popular French Colonial exposition, I don't know; but, anyway, Paris couturiers have prepared for a boiling summer. They are making street suits of linen, cotton, voile and such like cool and airy fabrics, and they are making little thin dresses that give the effect of being suits, though really they are in one piece.

Such a frock from Lucile, Ltd., is sketched today. M. Rossi, the talented creator of this house, makes it in white cotton voile, coin spotted in several shades of blue — sapphire, celestial blue, and navy—and I'd have you notice that both these style points, the shaded coin spots and their color, are favored by the greatest fashion experts at the moment.

The skirt of this frock is made full by low stitched box plaits in front, while in back it is perfectly plain and is in one piece with the bodice, as you can see by the small figure at the left.

In front the waist forms a bolero open over a chemise front of white organdy. There's a ruffled organdy collar and the lower sleeves are white organdy also. These white organdy touches are made dainty by fagotting, fine hand run tucks and tiny ruffles.

Seattle, Wash., July 1.—(AP)—The question of birth control was placed today before the convention of the merged Congregational and Christian churches, getting the overwhelming approval of a seminar on "The Family and Youth."

Only two members of a group of 110 delegates, with a number not voting, had disapproved the report. With President W. A. Harper of Elon college, North Carolina, as chairman, the seminar debated the question openly yesterday.

In the discussion President Harper declared that Pope Pius XI., in his encyclical on marriage last winter, contradicted himself by first stating opposition to any form of birth control and then saying a particular kind of birth control, continence within the marriage relationship, was permissible.

The majority report of the findings committee was presented by the Rev. George Hylton, Medford, Mass., and Mrs. Lawrence A. Wilson, Stockton, Cal., both married and parents, in favor of birth control.

15,877 Students Is Record at University of Michigan

Ann Arbor, Mich., July 1.—[Special.]—Enrollment at the University of Michigan during the last fiscal year, which includes both the regular term and the 1930 summer session, reached a record of 15,877. That was announced today. While the total includes 394 students in a new classification, the non credit extension group, it exceeds the previous record total of 15,154 by far more than that number. Women enrolled in the regular term, 1930-31, exclusive of the summer school, totalled 2,872, and men 7,235.

THE CLICK OF THE GATE

By Alice Campbell

SYNOPSIS.

Clare, young daughter of Iris de Bertincourt, is kidnaped and held for ransom. Iris has been separated for years from her dissolute husband, Marcel. They are cousins and the possible heirs of their tyrannical aunt, the Comtesse de Castelmauron. Iris planned to divorce Marcel and marry Maj. Alan Charnwood. After a long and dangerous search Charnwood and his friend, Tommy Rostetter, a journalist, find out that it was Clare's father who instigated the kidnaping, with a pair of criminals, Yetta and Pietro, the actual abductors, the motive being the monetary reward. Alan and Tommy engage in a battle with Marcel and his partners in crime in a deserted quarry near their hideout just as they are about to do away with a boy known as the half witted son of the couple to prevent his disclosing information detrimental to them. Marcel is killed. The couple escape. The supposed boy is rescued and discovered to be Clare, who is in a state of exhaustion. She is taken to the infirmary of a local physician. Iris and her friend, Helen Roderick, arrive.

INSTALLMENT LXIV.

SUPPRESSING A FATHER'S VILLAINY.

Helen was waiting for Charnwood.

"Why do you ask?" he parried, awkwardly.

"Only that this evening something strange occurred. That private detective called, and as neither the comtesse nor Iris could see him, I had to. It seems that Suzanne Marly, of all people, had been to the police and made a statement."

"What did she say?"

"That last night—last night, mind—she came home from the theater to find Marcel forcing her jewel safe. That there was a row and he tried to strangle her. It's hideous, unthinkable! O, major, do you think there can be anything in this?"

"I should say it was substantially correct."

She shrank back as though he had struck her.

"I've got to know," she said. "Tell me the worst."

"Very well. De Bertincourt is dead. He was shot through the head three hours ago."

She leaned against the wall, her face ashen, and listened to his bald account. When he had finished she was silent for some seconds.

"He spent that Tuesday evening with me," she whispered at last, "talking about the sanctity of the home and how he had played the fool with his life. I wondered why he kept looking at his watch. Now I know. Evidently he used me to bolster up his alibi—used me, too, all along, to obtain information about Iris' affairs. I see it plainly, though I swear to you I didn't suspect him at the time."

"Was it you who told him about the divorce?"

"I—I'm afraid so," she admitted, flushing a dingy red. Iris never said anything to me, but after meeting you I guessed."

"But you didn't tell him I was in town at the actual date of the kidnaping?"

"How could I? I didn't know it myself. Don't you recall how surprised I was to see you?"

He nodded, reflecting that, owing to that simple circumstance, the whole carefully laid plot had fallen down. But for the fact that his farewell visit had been kept secret he would have lost Iris for good, while she, for her part, would have remained bound for life to a mercenary and heartless libertine.

"Promise me never to let Iris know my part in this," she implored earnestly. "It would kill me to have her judge me harshly."

"She wouldn't do that. But I promise, all the same. Now go and look after her—and leave me to break the news about her husband."

He returned to the surgery and sat smoking and turning things over in his mind. The house was very quiet. Tommy, in his underwear and covered by a striped blanket, slumbered placidly on the doctor's hard couch.

"Dead!" she gasped incredulously.

The clock had struck two when Iris opened the door. A single glance showed Charnwood that all the cruel despair had been wiped from her face, leaving it young, softened, at peace.

"Has she regained consciousness?" he whispered.

"No—but her pulse is stronger. She's been muttering queer things, but the doctor says it's quite natural she should be delirious for a bit. Who's that?" she demanded, catching sight of the sleeping man.

"That is our blessed benefactor, Tommy Rostetter," he told her. "It is to him you owe Clare's life."

"To him? What about you?" she flashed back, jealously.

"I," he said, "am a mulish simpleton. You might as well know it now as later. I have luck, but few brains."

For answer she laid her cheek against his bandaged shoulder, then, standing on tiptoe, kissed the strip of plaster over his temple.

"Let me hear about these," she said, quietly, "then I can decide."

He motioned her to sit down. "You must have some food first," he declared, and fetched the tray which the servant had left ready in the kitchen. "Here, let me pour you a cup of coffee."

She ate and drank as though starved. Then, as soon as she was sufficiently steadied, he let her have the story, keeping back only such details as might needlessly distress her.

"Dead!" she gasped, incredulously. "He's dead! I can't take it in! And but for the merest chance it would have been you!"

"Both of us. It was a fairly close shave."

"But Clare—how could he hope to explain?" She looked at him bewildered, then stifled a cry. "O, you don't mean there would have been nothing to explain? That he'd have killed her, too?"

He pressed her hand quickly. "There, try to put it out of your mind. I would not have told you, only later, when those scoundrels are tried, the truth is bound to come out."

Here was something she had not yet thought of. Fresh horror sprang into her eyes as she saw what would have to be faced.

"Then Clare will have to know! O, Alan, don't you see what that means? It may affect her entire future!"

"She must not be allowed to know. You'll have to take her out of the country till the affair's forgotten, and keep the newspapers from her. She'll ask questions, of course, but we can find a way of satisfying her curiosity. Perhaps," he added, recalling the doctor's interpretation of events, "we might let her suppose her father was killed trying to save her."

Their eyes met. Iris drew a deep breath.

"I'd far rather she believed that," she said, slowly, "than to know what really happened. Yes, you are right—if only we can manage it." However, her face was troubled, and she only half attended when he spoke of the motive for the crime.

"Apparently your aunt, having found him out in some disgraceful action, had ruthlessly cut him off. Later, when she was ill, I suppose, she relented toward him to the extent of saying she would leave her money to the two of you on the condition that he reformed and persuaded you to return. That was all very well; but there was the danger of her dying suddenly before she made the new will, and meanwhile he evidently got wind of the fact that you intended to divorce him. Already he had tried harmless ruses, such as cultivating Clare and getting her to act as intermediary; but now, with defeat staring him in the face, he had to resort to drastic measures."

She roused a little as he set forth her dead husband's scheme in all its diabolical simplicity—how he had struck at the very foundation of her being by depriving her of her child, knowing that only by placing Clare in danger could he reduce her to that state of despair in which she would promise anything.

"There's one bit I still fail to understand," Iris said, as she rose to return to Clare's bedside. "How was it I heard nothing when she was taken away? Shall we ever know that, I wonder?"

"Not," he replied, "unless she herself explains it. We shall have to wait, that's all."

When Charnwood returned from seeing Iris back to the infirmary he found Tommy wide awake and struggling into his half dried garments.

"Where are you off to?" he cried, astonished.

"Paris," grunted the other, bending to put on his muddy shoes. "To think I was such a fool as to let Maupin clear out without cautioning him what to say! I only tumbled to the situation when I heard you two talking just now."

"You mean about Clare's learning the truth?"

"Just that. You can't prosecute a dead man, so why stir up a nasty mess for his family? Certain rottenness is better buried."

"But how?"

Fastening a filthy collar, Tommy grinned. "What's the good," he asked, "of following an iniquitous trade if you don't make use of its most elementary tricks?"

With these words he seized a roll from the tray and vanished.

Lock Sewing Machines.

"The Young People's Civic association in this neighborhood is starting a summer class in sewing for girls of school age. We will need two or three sewing machines, which we cannot buy. I wonder if there is any chance of securing them through your column.

If you seldom use your sewing machine and would like to see it put to good use, here is a worthy applicant for it. The class should be able to accomplish much during the summer vacation if it has the proper equipment.

Sizzling Day Breaks Record for Ice Fund

Generous persons helped to make yesterday THE TRIBUNE Free Ice Fund's record day of this season. Laurel wreaths may be scarce, but each and every one who contributed merits a few leaves, at least. There were thirty-nine donors in all, who never will know, probably, the amount of misery their gifts alleviated. Only the suffering families cooped in undersized, stuffy rooms these past awful days could tell them that.

Special commendation goes, however, to the Goodfellows' club of the Insurance Company of North America. They sent a check for $100. It seems expedient at this point to toss a well deserved bouquet to this organization. During the stress of last winter, when THE TRIBUNE Goodfellow Bureau was assuming the care of many needy families, this group turned over $600 a month to the fund, caring for five families.

There was a check for $50 from the Hales & Hunter company, dealers in grain and produce; there was a $5 check from C. S. Davis & Co., tin plate manufacturers, and annual supporters of the Free Ice Fund. In this season, when the fund got off to a very lame start indeed, such boosts are more than cheering.

Children are as cheerful donors as adults. As witness the $2 gift yesterday of the Busy Bee club, a newly organized group of six small girls, comprising Joyce Taylor, Helen Lampert, Helen Banach, Janet Williams, Eurilla Harrin, and Ruth Penny.

Three separate gifts of $25 each were received from individuals, and another contributor divided $42 equally between the Free Ice and the Camp Algonquin funds. Gifts yesterday were:

WOMEN'S AND MISSES' DRESS.

This dainty new model is made of one of the new printed silk crêpes, and it is a fascinating dress to make as well as to wear. A peplum frill is placed about the hips, but in such a manner as not to interfere with its slenderness. A frill also finishes the cape collar, cut in a deep V at the front and finished with a demure bow. Crêpe de chine, plain or printed, and chiffon are lovely materials to choose from.

The pattern, 3006, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years, and 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3½ yards of 39 inch material with ⅝ yards of 35 inch contrasting and 6 yards of ribbon or binding.

Food Talk

Orange juice is one of our most popular fruit juices. It is sweet enough to be pleasant and tart enough to be stimulating to the appetite. It may be given to a small baby, to growing children, and adults never become too old to drink it. It is a refreshing breakfast or luncheon beverage for either hot or cold days. As a base for punch it is one of the best of the fruit juices. It makes a delicious sauce to serve with baked apples, apple dumplings or cherry cobbler.

Orange juice is excellent for milk sherbet or orange ice. It also is a valuable addition to banana ice cream. It makes a good acid constituent for French dressing. It provides a good, juicy medium in which to float melon balls in a fruit cocktail. Tapioca cooked in it and gelatin dissolved in it make refreshing summer time deserts. It combines well with both dried and fresh apricots. Pectin may be added to it to make jelly that is a perfect accompaniment for baked ham or roast pork. Thickened with lemon juice and flour it makes an excellent filling for cake of either the white or yellow variety. Orange juice may be used to make delicious pie. Combined with milk it results in a beverage that is both bracing and highly nutritious. These are some of the most important uses. There is one use to which it is put to which I object strenuously, and that is when it is used with castor oil. Many children lose their appreciation forever for this important food by having had to take it along with the oil.

Orange juice is one of the most important vitamin C sources and it is one of the most pleasant sources. The usual handicap, however, is that oranges are too expensive. But that complaint has not been made this year for they have been cheaper than they have been in years.

For a breakfast beverage the juice should be thoroughly chilled. It is best to chill the oranges before extracting their juice. If the juice is chilled after it is extracted it loses some of its fine edge. If an ice box is at hand the chilling of the fruit is easily and inexpensively done.

The way orange juice is reamed has much to do with the amount one gets out of the orange. An electric reamer is excellent. But this is not always a practical implement. It is impractical to squeeze the orange juice out with a lemon reamer. An orange reamer which is considerably larger permits a greater quantity of juice to be pressed out than is possible with the lemon reamer.

BOSTON CHOCOLATE CREAM PIE.

1 cup cake flour.
1 cup fine granulated sugar.
5 eggs.
3 tbsp. boiling water.
¼ tsp. salt.
¾ tsp. cream of tartar.

Assemble the ingredients. Light the oven; set it at 300 degrees F. Do not oil the baking pans. Sift the flour, then measure. Resift with half the sugar. Separate the eggs. Beat yolks with rotary beater about 2 minutes, or until they are so stiff that the beater is difficult to turn. Add the sugar in four portions. After each addition beat until mixture thickens. Let the mixture cool. Sift the salt and cream of tartar over surface of egg whites. Beat until stiff, but not until they have lost their shiny appearance. Again beat yolk mixture until very stiff. Add flour-sugar mixture in about 5 portions. Stir with a wooden spoon until dry ingredients are dampened, then beat a few seconds. Repeat until all the flour and sugar are used.

Fold the egg whites and vanilla into the yolk mixture carefully. Turn the batter into the pan immediately. Bake for about 1 hour. Turn upside down and cool in tins.

When cool, remove from the tins, split the cake into two layers, and put the following mixture between the layers:

CHOCOLATE FILLING.

¾ cup sugar.
¼ cup flour.
¼ tsp. salt.
1 cup boiling water.
1 cup milk.
3 egg yolks.
1 tbsp. butter.

Melt the chocolate over hot water. Add the sugar that has been thoroughly mixed with flour and salt. Blend well. Add the boiling water and milk. Cook in a double boiler 25 minutes, stirring occasionally. Pour chocolate mixture gradually over well beaten egg yolks, beating vigorously to prevent curdling. Return to double boiler and cook 2 minutes longer. Add the butter and flavoring, cool slightly and spread between the layers of the cake. Cut the cake in wedgeshaped pieces and serve with whipped cream.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

His Interest Wanes.

"Dear Miss Blake: My sweetheart never sees me any more. A friend said he still loves a former girl friend.

"RUTHIE."

Whatever the cause—the former girl friend or some new interest—his negligence is proof that you no longer hold the same attraction for him.

Difference in Nationality.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am in love with a boy who says he loves me with a boy who says he loves me. What shall I do?

LYDIA."

I don't think a difference in nationalities should be an obstacle in love, if you find yourselves suited to each other with similar interests and tastes.

Why Hesitate?

"Dear Miss Blake: My former friend has asked me to go out with him again. I still care for him. Shall I go?

KITTY."

Children Require Plenty of Rest During Active Summer Days

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

In those parts of the country, where daylight saving time is used, the mothers usually set their clocks ahead with a groan. With the babies and young children it doesn't matter so much, because they go to bed by daylight with sun time. But when the children are older, and nightgowns and pajamas are called out as the next costume of the hour though it is still broad daylight, even the best natured children in the world are apt to voice a protest. Daytime seems like playtime, and you feel like a Simon Legree when you enforce your schedule. Yet you have to do it, or you'll find that an hour or two will get knocked off the children's sleep each night if you give in to their entreaties.

We were saying yesterday that if you want the end of summer to find the children in better health than the beginning there are several things you have to be on the alert about. One of the most important of these is sleep. It can hardly be overemphasized. Children can't grow properly without sufficient rest. They can't be sweep tempered and buoyant without enough sleep. They can't gain weight if they are fatigued.

When nutrition experts have gone over a child and his care and find everything all right about his schedule, and still he doesn't gain—then, they cast an eagle eye on the item, "Rest." Does he have a rest period during the day? [This regardless of age]. Then, give him one or two periods, they say. It works, too.

In the summer see that your children have plenty of sleep at night and rest during the day.

Those parents who desire to obtain for their own use and their children a vocabulary of the correct names for parts and functions of the body will find such a reference in the ned edition of the "Sex Education Booklet" which wil be sent on receipt of stamped self-addressed envelope.

HAVE YOU LEARNED THE value OF A DASH OF sugar IN MEAT cookery?

You add salt to meat to overcome flatness. When sugar is also added the meat flavor is wonderfully developed.

A SKILFUL cook told us that she used sugar as a seasoning in seventy-five per cent of the meat dishes she prepared.

Many of these dishes are familiar to all. They include pot-roasts, braised lamb, meat loaf, beef stew, corned beef and smoked ham. In boiling corned beef and ham you may add a half to a whole cup of sugar to the water—in seasoning the other dishes, "a dash of sugar to a pinch of salt" is a good basic rule.

A dash of sugar will also work wonders in seasoning fresh or canned vegetables, soups or salad dressings. Flavor and season with sugar, The Sugar Institute.

MISS ROBERTSON DIES; 2D WOMAN IN CONGRESS

Long Taught Indians in Oklahoma.

Muskogee, Okla., July 1.—(AP)—Miss Alice M. Robertson, 77, the nation's second congresswoman, died at a hospital here today of cancer of the jaw.

She was known to all Oklahoma officialdom and her friends as "Miss Alice." She had been confined to her bed since Feb. 13.

Miss Alice was elected Nov. 2, 1920, and represented Oklahoma for one term. She was defeated for a second term in 1922.

Picturesque Character.

A picturesque character, she devoted virtually her entire life to teaching Oklahoma Indians the ways of white men, raising finances for founding schools and spreading a gospel of kindness in early Oklahoma.

A native of the "Sooner" state, she was born Jan. 2, 1854, at Tullahassee Mission, Wakoner county, Oklahoma territory, a descendent of a long line of ministers and missionaries.

Was Washington Employé.

After attending school at Elmira college, in New York, she worked for a while in the Indian offices at Washington, then returned to her native state to resume her work among the Red men. She taught the Creek tribe at Okmulgee and raised funds for a new Indian school.

Miss Robertson was the first domestic science teacher in the state. In 1900 she became school supervisor for Creek schools.

Her political career began in 1904, when President Roosevelt appointed her postmaster at Muskogee, a position she held until 1912. Becoming interested in business, she operated a cafeteria here and headed a business women's club. Her cafeteria became famous while she was campaigning for congress in 1920.

Prospered for a Time.

For a while fortune smiled kindly on the former congresswoman who built a large residence here and became prominent for her hospitality. When her health failed she entertained parties at her home, "Sawokla," to obtain money on which to live. When her home and a valuable collection of relics burned, she moved to a house in Muskogee.

She is survived by two sisters, Mrs. N. B. Moore, Haskel, Okla., and Mrs. Grace Merriman, Santa Barbara, Cal., and a brother, Sam Robertson, also of Santa Barbara.

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

ADELAIDE DAVIS, DIVORCED WEEK AGO, DROWNED

Falls from Boat in Massachusetts Lake.

Peabody, Mass., July 1.—[Special.]—Adelaide P. Davis, who was divorced in Florida a week ago from Howard Clarke Davis, millionaire Boston broker, was drowned this morning in Suntaug lake at West Peabody. She fell from a boat while exchanging places with Richard H. Bennett, a New York accountant.

Fail to Revive Her.

James Armstrong, a caretaker of the Davis estate, which is nearby, heard screams and, rushing to the shore of the lake, saw Bennet clinging to the overturned boat and supporting Mrs. Davis. Members of the fire department worked on Mrs. Davis for almost two hours but were unable to revive her. A coroner's physician pronounced the drowning an accident.

Bennett told police that he had come here to look over Mrs. Davis' financial matters, saying that she planned to leave for Ireland next week.

Widow of A. S. Pierce.

Before her marriage to the Boston broker Mrs. Davis was the widow of A. S. Pierce, a large owner in the American Radiator company, from whom she inherited a $4,000,000 estate. Mr. Davis was sued for divorce by his first wife, Aida L. Davis, in 1918, the second Mrs. Davis, who was then Mrs. Pierce, being named as responsible for the marital difficulties.

Mrs. Pierce and Davis, who is a former Dartmouth football star, were married in 1921. In the divorce proceedings which were brought at Miami, Fla., on Feb. 23, Mrs. Davis charged cruel and abusive treatment.

OPEN PATENT POOL IN RADIO FIELD HINTED

Washington, D. C., July 1.—(AP)—The justice department announced today that the defendants in the anti-trust suit against the Radio corporation of America and other companies would "consider favorably" creating an open patent pool in the radio and allied fields.

A statement by the dapartment said that at the conferences it developed "that regardless of the legality or illegality of their contracts, the principal defendants were ready to change them so as to make them unobjectionable in the view of the department."

Others involved in the suit included the General Electric company, Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, and American Telephone and Telegraph company.

The R. C. A. was recently adjudged guilty of violating the anti-trust laws through its patents on vacuum tubes. The Supreme court refused to review the case.

It was said at the department the creation of an open patent pool would allow use of these tube patents by the public generally upon terms to be fixed by independent trustees.

ASTOR TRUSTEES WIN 16 MILLION SUIT FROM U. S.

New York, July 1.—(AP)—Trustees for the estate of the late Viscount William Waldorf Astor today won from the federal government a judgment of $10,000,000 paid for inheritance taxes, and interest of about $6,000,000. The decision was handed down in federal District court.

The action was based on a deed of trust executed in 1919 by which the viscount transferred holdings of $46,000,000 in New York to the Farmers Loan and Trust company as trustees. After payment of $300,000 annually to himself, he provided that the remainder should be divided between his two sons, William Waldorf Astor Jr. and John Jacob Astor.

The government contended the deed of trust was drawn in anticipation of death, and in an attempt to defeat the inheritance tax laws.

In passing judgment the court called attention to a recent decision by the Supreme court that, to support a claim for taxes, the government must prove the thought of death was an impelling factor in setting up a trust.

'I'm Afraid to Go Home' Composer Found Dead

Buffalo, N. Y., July 1.—(AP)—The body of Coleman F. Goetz, 41, composer of the one time popular song "I'm Afraid to Go Home in the Dark," was found in a public bathhouse here today. The body was taken to the morgue pending further investigation of the cause of death.

COURT SLIP MADE IN 1929 MAY FREE THIEF FROM CELL

An alleged technical error made in 1929 when Carl J. Bates was sentenced by the late Judge Frank Comerford to ten years in the Joliet penitentiary, may lead to the prisoner's release. This was indicated yesterday by Judge Joseph B. David in the Criminal court after he had heard a petition for the liberation of Bates on a writ of habeas corpus. The defendant was sentenced for embezzlement after he had been indicted and tried for larceny.

The charge was that Bates had stolen four sewing machines, the total value amounting to $204, which is only $5 over the amount for which an offender may be put on probation.

Bates' record, which was read in court, showed that he had been convicted of forgery, larceny and operating a confidence game on several occasions. Action on the writ was continued until today after Judge David had said that the judgment and commitment papers appeared faulty.

LABOR SYSTEM IN INDIA ATTACKED BY COMMISSION

Report Demands Drastic Factory Reforms.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 1.—More than 300 recommendations designed to ameliorate the deplorable conditions of the great mass of Indian labor, which are comparable to the early days of the industrial revolution, are contained in an exhaustive report by the royal commission of labor in India, which will be published tomorrow.

The report is based on two years' work in British India by a commission of six Englishmen and six Indians, headed by John Henry Whitley, former speaker of the house of commons. Extensive research has been done in every branch of labor, including textiles, mines and plantations, affecting more than 1,500,000 workers.

Advocates Labor Council.

The report deals with working hours, methods of employment, child labor, health, housing, unions, and trade disputes, as well as important considerations not usually studied in connection with labor, but which are extremely important in India, such as indebtedness and migration. The execution of the recommendations depends upon the Indian government rather than the British.

One of the most important proposals is the formation of an Indian industrial council, to include representatives of labor and employers, which would recommend improvements, advise the government concerning its labor policy, examine proposed legislation and collect statistics. Another proposal is to cut the maximum working week from 60 to 54 hours, with minor exceptions for seasonal factories. Children's hours would be cut to five hours a day, and none under 14 years would be permitted to work in the mines.

Attack Extortion System.

The greatest need in Indian factories, the commission says, is personnel officers to protect the workers from labor jobbers now exploiting them. The commission would also end the universal system of bribery, under which an applicant cannot get a job without paying the foreman an "entrance fee" and often weekly payments thereafter. This system actually encourages a labor turnover which is always extremely high, because the foremen want more entrance fees. Women officers are also recommended, because thousands of women are employed, many of them bringing their children into the factories with them.

The commission points out that the great bulk of labor is illiterate, and thus easy prey for bribery and other exploitation. It recommends that the entire system of contracting labor by jobbers be abolished, with personnel officers taking over all the hiring. The report also proposes the abolition of one of the biggest blots on India labor, the binding over of children for debts of their parents. Children thus bound over are often not more than five years old.

Workers All in Debt.

The problem of indebtedness, peculiar to India, is also dealt with. Most Indian laborers are always in debt, owing to their small salaries. When they need money for marriage feasts and other ceremonies, money lenders charge as high as 50 per cent interest. The illiterate worker is without prospect of being debt free, since half of his earnings are garnisheed by usurers, and hence they have no incentive to work. The commission recommends the abolition of the attachment of wages for debts, as well as the abolition of prison terms for debts, which is still practiced. Debts are regarded as the greatest cause of inefficiency and the lack of morale among Indian workers.

Workers Go to Cities.

Since thousands of workers migrate from the villages to industrial cities, the commission recommends that care be taken not to destroy the home ties of laborers, and that permission for repatriation be given at regular intervals.

Housing needs form a field for the greatest improvement, since often a half dozen families live in one room. A government supported housing scheme is recommended.

FILE FIRST BILL UNDER NEW LAW ON DIVORCE HERE

The first divorce bill under the new state law making desertion for one year instead of two years grounds for a decree was filed yesterday in the Circuit court by Attorney Harry X. Cole.

He filed it before Judge Daniel P. Trude on behalf of Auguste P. Warnesson, owner of the theatrical company bearing his name at 62 West Washington street. The action was in the form of a cross bill to the bill of Mrs. Mae Warnesson for separate maintenance.

The law on which the husband's cross bill was based went into effect yesterday.

TAYLOR HITS INTO TRIPLE PLAY IN FOURTH

Cuyler and English Tossed Out.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., July 1.—Chuck Klein this afternoon took up his wild rampage against the Cubs where he left off Monday. Chuck drove in two runs with a triple and scored in the first inning; he singled and scored in the fifth; doubled with the bases full to drive in two runs, and put another in scoring position in the sixth, and topped it off with his No. 21 homer in the eighth. The homer was his 100th hit of the year.

CHUCK KLEIN.

The foregoing was all that the Indianapolis steel worker contributed to a 11 to 6 licking the Phillies gave the Cubs in the third of the series this afternoon. But there were other things worthy of mention, such as the fact that in the fourth Cuyler, English and D. Taylor, three of the fastest men on the Wrigley payroll, were the victims of a triple play. Cuyler had opened with his second single and English had walked. Then Taylor lined to Mallon, who threw to Friberg to double English off first. Friberg threw to Bartell before Cuyler could get back to second.

Wilson Hits Homer No. 16.

Whatever solace was derived from this afternoon's humiliation was the work of Hack Wilson. Hack made his 16th homer and two singles. But Hack wasn't very happy, seeing as it was 100 or better on the playing field, as he is in fact, that Manager Hornsby hasn't even start himself.

The heat did not cool the zeal of Russ Ariett, baseball's greatest benchwarmer. He returned to the lineup after eight days' absence, due to a crushed thumb.

Klein's great day not only enabled him to protect his position as leading home run hitter of the majors, but caused him to supplant his teammate, Hack Davis, as the leading hitter in the National league. Davis, who has been hitless for two days against the Cubs, sagged from a leading .367 to .363, whereas Klein rose from .366 to .371. He also leads the league in runs batted in and several other things.

Lead Robins Only Half Game.

The day's doings tightened up the league standings throughout the first division. The Cubs remained in third place, but only a half game ahead of the fourth place Robins. They contained 5½ games back of the leading Cardinals and dropped three games back of the second place Giants.

The eastern trip ends tomorrow with Smith cast to retrieve some dignity for the Cubs. Benge probably will go for the Phillies.

The Cubs' record in the east has been 2 wins out of 5 games against Brooklyn; 2 wins out of 3 games against New York; 1 win and 1 tie out of 5 games against Boston, and 1 win in 3 games to date against the Phillies, a total of six wins and one tie in 16 games played.

Phils Lead in First, 3-1.

The end of the first inning saw the Phillies in possession of a 3 to 1 lead. The Cubs made their run on a walk to Taylor, a single by Cuyler, a double by English and a single by Hack Wilson.

Maybe It Was Too Hot

Sox Lose 2d Straight to Boston, 5-3

BY IRVING VAUGHN.

Jim Moore and the White Sox bats were of little consequence yesterday. The ex-Southern leaguer did right nobly for quite a stretch, but in the seventh inning he wilted completely and enough runs scored to assure the Boston Red Sox their second straight triumph here. The score was 5 to 3.

The only commendable feature about the Chicagoans' efforts was that they died hard. During eight innings they were so impotent against Jack Russell they gathered only three hits, two of them scratches. But in the ninth they engendered a fleeting hope that they might retrieve the decision when they hammered out four hits. But a double play was sandwiched in and that ruined everything.

Simons Aids Red Sox.

Boston's first run occurred in the second inning with the able assistance of Mel Simons. Webb opened with a single. Simons grabbed the ball on the bounce, but it must have been hot. He promptly dropped it and Webb hustled to second. Miller scored him with a single to right.

A hit linked with a pass enabled the visitors to make it 2 to 0 in the fourth. Miller walked after one was out and went to third while Simons was recovering Pickering's single to left. Then Simons scored on Bartell's single to center.

ACE TAKES KING! LEVINSKY LOSES AT HIS OWN GAME

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The Ace took the King again last night.

Ace Hudkins, one time challenger for the middleweight title, hammered King Levinsky into submission in ten rounds at Mills stadium. Four thousand five hundred, the largest outdoor crowd this season, watched the battle. The receipts were estimated at $7,500.

Levinsky and Hudkins fought all the way. Twice the Nebraska slugger put Levinsky on the floor with a right hand attack for which the King had no defense. But each time, in the fourth round, and again in the fifth round, Levinsky got up and carried on.

Loses to Puncher for First Time.

Ten months ago Levinsky stopped Leo Lomski at the Chicago stadium. Overnight the west side puncher became the nation's heavyweight sensation. A few weeks later he knocked out Tom Kirby. Then he won a decision over Jimmy Slattery. That was Levinsky's career, a career which brought him from Chicago's neighborhood arenas where he fought for a few dollars to a match for which he received $11,000.

Since then Levinsky has been beaten many times. But he had lost to clever boxers, all of whom had feared the King's K. O. punch. But last night a puncher met a puncher and Levinsky, for the first time was beaten at his own style of game. Hudkins stood up to his younger opponent, traded blows and added a few dozen that the King couldn't match.

The King Takes It.

Levinsky took it. There had been many who said he couldn't. Outscored repeatedly in the first two rounds, he pressed in to receive a draw in the third. Hudkins, still confident and still fresh, caught Levinsky with a right swing to the jaw midway in the fourth session. Levinsky staggered and fell, partly dazed. At the count of eight he came up and fought on to the bell.

Again in the fifth round Hudkins connected squarely with that looping right. Once more the King sprawled face downward. At nine he got up, caught the arms of his opponent and held until his head cleared.

All this Levinsky weathered. He didn't quit. The sixth round was won by the King by sheer aggressiveness and after he had taken all that Hudkins had to offer.

Levinsky Wins Last Two.

Schmeling Leaves Camp to Merry Morticians Today

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Conneaut Lake Park, Pa., July 1.—The boys are preparing to go away from this place, and the sense of the congregation is that if they never see Conneaut Lake Park, Pa., again, still the visit here is likely to live in the memory of all present as the most fantastic in all human experience.

Here is a small impoverished settlement of dingy summer hotels and cottages, with the paint peeling off and the front stoops sagging, with sway backed roofs of tin or curling shingles, with startling architectural excrescences crowding the generous trees for room, and with empty cars dragging themselves over a creaking roller coaster along 100 yards of all but deserted midway.

Dancers in Eerie Setting.

It was here that Joe Jacobs, the manager of Max Schmeling, set up a training camp for his prize fighter, and here, during the final days of Schmeling's exercises, that some regional association of morticians moved in with all the intimate wares and implements of their grisly trade to exchange professional secrets and get cockeyed in the conventional manner of Americans attending conventions.

By night, amid the yawning bronze vaults, the shrouds, the dickey front burial suits for departed mates, and don't he look natural powder, the morticians and their ladies discoursed their dance macabre to the music of the local fiddle and saxophone quintet.

Toward dawn, long after the orchestra had quit, the morticians were still howling through the halls in pajamas hanging wreaths on the door knobs of their friends in gruesome humor. From one wing of the hotel the capsule pipe organ, an electrical device, sobbed "Nearer, My God, to Thee" as the tenors, the altos, and the bullfrog zum-zums jazzed it up in alcoholic harmony.

Sleeping's Too Much Work.

Nobody slept. The papier maché walls had soaked up the heat of the day and were now discharging it on the clammy forms of less festive inmates at Conneaut lake for rest and recreation, who had gone to bed in the raw.

Yet, the morticians had saved a very difficult situation for the members of the fourth estate, because Schmeling's training has been carried on strictly according to the old familiar formula of so many rounds on the bags and so many rounds of boxing and calisthenics, and the young man's personality is no more picturesque than a bar of soap. He speaks with a slight German brogue but not in dialect. He is fit and healthy and tanned. A mulatto brown, but he is not an amusing character and more inclined to solitude than to the robust pranks which used to make Jack Dempsey's camps so easy to write about.

His manager, Mr. Jacobs, has been seriously embarrassed twice in the last 24 hours by visits from old friends who might have had the tact to remain away. First of these was little Augie, a New York gambler of a certain reputation, and when Mr. Jacobs first saw him, his countenance darkened slightly, though he then greeted him with what cordiality he could manage. To meet little Augie in a herring parlor on Broadway is one matter, but to receive little Augie at Schmeling's training camp not long before a championship fight with a half a dozen reporters pulling suspicious smirks is quite another.

"Well," Mr. Jacobs exploded, though none of the reporters had said anything, but had just given him those looks. "Well, what's wrong with that? A fellow I know in New York comes to pay me a visit and ask me how's Max? What am I supposed to do, run him off?"

Boo Boo Hoff Arrives.

And, as if little Augie's coming hadn't been sufficient, who should show up but himself, the celebrated sinister character of Philadelphia, Max [Boo Boo] Hoff, the same whose eleventh day hour compact with Uncle Will Gibson and Gene Tunney at Philadelphia cast the first doubt on Mr. Tunney's vaunted sweetness.

It would have been better for Mr. Jacobs' peace of mind if his friends had sent their good wishes by mail, but it was nice of them to come, for their presence imparted that desirable tinge of stealth without which any heavyweight championship fight somehow is not authentic.

Max Through, but Not Morticians.

Now Schmeling is through. He leaves by motor tomorrow for Cleveland, only 90 miles away. His natural endowment and his training have made him one of those magnificent physical specimens that set other men to hankering for youth and another chance to go straight.

But the merry morticians are not through. Those who had finally dropped unconscious at dawn were beginning to moan for restoratives and look under their beds for their heads, anticipating the grand banquet and ball of this evening, for which last night's fun amid the caskets had been merely a round of training.

STRIBLING SHUNS GOLF BECAUSE MA THINKS IT'S BAD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Geauga Lake, O., July 1.—Young Stribling, now in the tapering off stage of his preparation for Champion Max Schmeling Friday night, has played no golf for nearly a week. Several times recently this reporter had queried "How's the old golf game?" and has received the reply, "Not so good." As W. L. is an enthusiastic devotee and was on the links often during his early training, it seemed there must be a reason. Therefore we sought Ma, our confidante in such matters. There was a reason.

Ma readily admitted she had asked the challenger to play no more until after the battle. Naturally that prompted the question why. Ma was just as ready with her answer.

Golf's Okay—for Golfers.

"Golf is so different from boxing, I didn't think it would be good for him," she replied. "Boxing requires speed and action. Golf is a slow, deliberate game. It's good for the legs, but I don't think it's good for the hands and eyes.

"I know they talk about timing of golf strokes, but look how carefully they make every shot. Then that putting. They look at the hole, then they look at the ball, then they look at the hole again and then they tap the ball slowly and gently. Why, if W. L. did that in the ring and took all that time, the fight would be over and my boy wouldn't be the winner, which he will be Friday night. So I asked him not to play golf and he always does what I ask."

Now can you imagine that—this arraignment of golf as poor training by a mother who laughed and regarded it a boyish prank when the challenger for the world's heavyweight title borrowed a plane almost on the eve of the most important of his 300 fights and took a three hour flight over the training camp of his rival, sailing so low as to shout greetings?

Experts Differ, as Usual.

Promoter Dick Dunn was still nervous today over the exploit, in which any slight mishap would have wrecked all plans for his boxing bout for which $150,000 already has been spent. Opinion among newspaper men differed on the purpose, if any, of the flight. Some regarded it as a bit of publicity. Others saw an effort to produce a psychological effect upon Schmeling, whose phlegmatic disposi-

Cancel Fall Racing Meet at Lexington

Lexington, Ky., July 1.—(AP)—Lexington's fall race meeting has been canceled because of business conditions, Thomas S. Scott, vice president and general manager of the Kentucky association, announced tonight.

At the same time Col. Matt J. Winn, executive director of Churchill Downs, said at Latonia that cancellation of the fall meeting at the Louisville track was being considered by the directors of the American Turf association for the same reason.

Should both these tracks not operate this fall, important stakes will be transferred to Latonia. The Kentucky association, operator of the Lexington track, has arranged to run the Breeders' Futurity, feature of Lexington's fall meeting, at the northern Kentucky track. This two year old fixture is worth $5,000 added.

The most important race at the Churchill Downs fall meeting is the Kentucky Jocky Club stakes, won last year by Twenty Grand, winner of this year's Kentucky Derby. It is a $15,000 added stake for juveniles.

Phantom Legion Is Close Third.

BY FRENCH LANE.
[OTHER RACE NEWS ON PAGE 31.]

Pair By Pair, racing in the yellow and black jacket of Mrs. John Hertz, won the renewal of the Hyde Park stakes, run at Arlington Park yesterday with a gross value of $24,700.

He won by a neck from Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney's The Bull. A half length back of the two leaders and challenging desperately all the way down the stretch came Phantom Legion, owned by William Ziegler Jr. of New York, in third place.

E. STEFFEN.

The Hyde Park stakes was the richest 2 year old race run outside of New York in many seasons. It attracted every good 2 year old colt east and west that has come out so far this year, and the brilliant victory of Pair By Pair indicated that the Hertz luck on the turf has not deserted them. He may not be another Reigh Count or an Anita Peabody, but he was good enough in a truly run race to beat the best colts of his age from all over the country.

Beats Country's Best.

Pair by Pair, a son of Noah-Friseur, had won the first race of his career as the Arlington season opened on Monday. This was an event for 2 year olds which never had won a race. He won impressively, yet a horse just graduating out of the maiden ranks couldn't be given much consideration in the Hyde Park field.

The stake attracted the largest crowd of the Arlington season, about 18,000 being on hand to see the 3 year olds run.

The colts started from the barrier as there were not enough stalls in the Bahr gate to accommodate such a big field. Starter Dickerson got them away in perfect alignment but soon after the start things began to happen.

Osculator Stumbles.

Osculator, the eastern champion, stumbled right after Dickerson gave them the word and was practically eliminated. A few seconds later Proteus, running in close quarters, was jumped on and cut down and he was as good as out of the battle.

In the meantime Anubis, a field horse racing for Mrs. Katherine Elkins Hitt, went out to make the pace. Pair By Pair was two lengths back of him and running stoutly along in third place was Brave and Bold. The Bull, fourth, was rapidly pulling up with the leaders.

As the field hit the turn Pair by Pair squeezed through next to the rail and galloped into the lead. The Bull had moved up past the others and was closely lapped on Pair by Pair. They came charging down the stretch in that order. Pair by Pair didn't have a moment's breathing spell, for The Bull was always right after him, but the Hertz colt was game enough to hold his lead and went driving past the finish line a neck in front.

He ran the 5½ furlongs in 1:06, a second off the track record. He seemed to have won on his class and on the good riding of Steffen as much as he did on his speed.

In the mutuels Pair by Pair paid $40.16 to win, $9.78 to place, and $8.86 to show. The Bull paid $7.68 to place and $5.08 to show. Phantom Legion was an extreme long shot, and paid $20.26 to show.

AS ARISTOCRATS OF THE TURF THRILLED THRONGS AT ARLINGTON

The field takes the first jump in the two mile steeplechase at Arlington Park yesterday afternoon before the hurdles and ditches began to thin the horses out and jolt the riders off. Captain Hook won the race, with Queen's Pal second, and Tod Sloan third. Madrigannah was the only other horse to finish. [TRIBUNE Photos.]

John D. Hertz, with the field glasses, and Charles McCullough watch Mrs. Hertz's Pair by Pair win the $25,000 Hyde Park stakes, the feature race of the afternoon, by a neck from Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney's The Bull. Phantom Legion was third.

Pair by Pair streaks across the finish line, a winner by a neck, in the Hyde Park. Right beside him is The Bull, with Phantom Legion only a half a length behind, still struggling to overtake them. Bunched together, only two lengths behind the leaders, are Va Carriendo, Marmion, and Osculator.

RIVER'S WORST RAPIDS BEATEN BY BOY SCOUTS

Water Carnival Marks Day on Flambeau.

BY BOB BECKER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Flambeau River, Wis., July 1.—Two stretches of fast water any Wisconsin canoeist can look forward to, magnificent stands of beautiful forest, which press close to the river's edge, a camping site away from all roads and signs of civilization and an evening session with the wall eyed pike.

This is the program the Chicago Boy Scouts reveled in today on this Flambeau river trip sponsored by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. At noon these husky lads from more than a dozen Scout troops in Chicago and suburbs had shaken the quiet of this wilderness river because the morning ran called for a no-quarter fight with the justly famous Porcupine rapids.

Scouts Come Through.

Kneeling in their canoes to get all their strength behind the paddles, the boys licked both water and boulders, but they must have scared every deer within five miles by their yelling and cheering as canoe after canoe shot through the rapids to the quiet water below.

Tonight's camp is only a few hundred feet from the junction of the south fork of the Flambeau with this, the main stream. There is a spring to furnish drinking water and the fishermen in the crowd have designs on the wall eyed pike which are supposed to loaf in a deep pool where the two rivers join.

It was a hot day even up here in the north country but it saw the Scouts busy from morning until evening because the day was devoted to a sports carnival. In the morning the swimmers took to the water to decide who were the best water dogs in the party. Then, following a good lunch in the shade of the balsams and maples which tower over the camp site, Vincent Smith of the Lincoln Park Boat club staged a series of canoe races. With this program calling for bathing suits and taking most of the day, the Scouts kept cool without trouble.

Waukegan Boy Wins.

Robert Heydecker of Waukegan, Ill., splashed his way to victory in three swimming events to take individual honors in the morning's program. Heydecker showed a powerful series of strokes to win in the 50 yard free style, the 50 yard breast stroke and the 200 yard free style. Fred Huysen took two firsts in the 20 yard free style up stream and the 10 yard under water plunge. Don Michelson was first in the 50 yard back stroke event and Otto Geyler won the 50 yard accuracy swim. Kenneth Bergeson, Hollister Jackson, Harper Boyd, Meredith Fairchild, Roy Masek, Hugh Fowler, Ken Murphy, and Otto Oldenburg also broke into the win column by scoring seconds and thirds in various events.

In the afternoon the Scouts leaned on their paddles with all their might as they fought the swift Flambeau current in a series of canoe races. Bergeson, Oldenburg, and Weir placed one, two, three in the single blade event, but the doubles brought out some new high powered canoeists. Krelling and Corbett surprised their rivals by taking first in a race from one bank of the river to the other. Jack Weir and Roy Masek were close behind the winners and Jackson and Mead were third.

THE KING TAKES AN ENFORCED REST

but he was tiring. As a result Levinsky went on to take the ninth and tenth rounds. The final fighting was one sided. Hudkins held on and waited while Levinsky, nearly as worn out, could not land a finishing blow.

The bout was one of the best in recent months. And the supporting card of six fights equaled the windup. All were five round affairs and only two of them went the limit.

Joe Corbett, a youthful heavyweight from Beverly Hills, apparently was overmatched against the veteran Andy Shanks from Grand Rapids, Mich. Shanks had him on the verge of a knockout until Corbett struck his first blow late in the first round and Shanks went down for the count.

Two Other Knockouts.

Al Engel, also of Grand Rapids, stopped Don Warden, Chicago welterweight, in one round, and Soldier Bennett of Fort Sheridan, Ill., knocked out Marion Matuszak of Chicago in the first.

Earl Folk, Janesville, Wis., heavyweight, won from Knute Dane of Chicago on a foul in the second round. Folk went to his knees in the second from a right to the jaw, but Dane struck him again as he knelt.

Tom Patrick of Los Angeles, a light heavyweight, whipped Buck Easterling of Wichita, Kas., in five rounds. In the opening engagement Billy Gale, who fought in the Golden Gloves tournament, outpointed John Morris, Chicago Negro, in five rounds.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

YOUNG STRIBLING.

CLEVELAND, O., July 1.—[Special.]—Young Stribling, or Strib, as he is called by his wife; W. L. by Pa and Ma when it is not "my boy" with Ma, was born in Bainbridge, Ga., on Dec. 26, 1904. He therefore is 26½ years old at the time of the most important fight of his eventful career.

Stribling has been familiar with boxing almost since infancy. When he was 6 years old and his brother Herbert, known as "Baby Stribling," was 4 years old they were the finale of the vaudeville act of "The Four Novelty Grahams," in which W. L. and Baby engaged in a set-to with the gloves. In this act W. L. took a knockout punch from his smaller opponent, which pleased the crowd, for the Striblings always have been good showmen.

This vaudeville team toured the United States, South America, Europe and Asia until W. L. was 12 years old, when the parents thought it time for the youngsters to have regular schooling instead of the sporadic education they were obtaining from tutors when not en tour.

In Macon, Ga., High school, W. L. was an accomplished basketball player and one of his greatest disappointments was when he was ruled ineligible for high school competition because Pa decided it was time for him to enter a professional ring career. Strangely enough, Ma Stribling, who superintends all his training camps and sees all his fights, would not permit W. L. to play football because she thought it was too rough.

Pa's decision that his older son should be a pugilist is ascribed to an occasion back in 1904 when he saw Jim Jeffries score a quick knockout of an opponent, also noting the worldly affluence which seemingly had accrued to the champion.

So at 16 years old Young Stribling, commonly denominated "The Georgia Schoolboy," engaged in his first pro bout against a chap named Kid Domb at Atlanta. Strib won. The purse was solely their railroad fare to and from Macon. Followed a victory over a veteran named Kid Nappie and Young Stribling was in the small purse money class.

Through the various weights, as he grew older, and against many opponents, for Pa, always believed action was the best way of keeping in condition and acquiring experience, the Georgian proceeded until he was a national figure. At times disappointing bouts followed brilliant knockouts until some chose to denominate Young Stribling as an in-and-outer.

He was so clever that point decision often was the easiest way to win despite his punch.

Stribling's ring history is so familiar to fans that repetition is not necessary. Of nearly 300 bouts, 127 have been won by knockouts. His most notable battle, except the present, was against Jack Sharkey at Miami in the winter of 1929. There he staggered the Bostonian in the fourth round and seemed on the way to victory, but did not follow up his advantage and eventually lost the decision in ten rounds. In his behalf it was claimed an injured shoulder ligament made him unable to use his right hand after the fifth round.

Subsequently Stribling met Primo Carnera, 60 pounds heavier, twice in Europe, each bout ending with a called foul and honors even. Strib's chance at Schmeling developed from his one round knockout of Otto Von Porat in Chicago, and his two round knockout of Phil Scott, the English canvas kisser. His ten round victory over Tuffy Griffith at Chicago last December was not so satisfactory to the spectators, but his mastery of the situation was apparent all the time.

In personal appearance Stribling is a handsome chap, without the usual nose and ear disfigurements of a fighter of ten years' standing. He looks like a great football tackle, although he never played football.

Boxing critics think he has the weapons to defeat Schmeling, but wonder how he will act within the scoring zone, to use a football expression.

HELP! HELP!

tion, in this writer's opinion, would not be affected thereby. Others diagnosed the outbreak, with probably the correct solution, as just a releasing of nervous energy from the tedium of training.

Stribling for days has been in condition to enter the ring. His workout last night, and the unexpected extra public performance tonight, were mild in the extreme. Sparring partners made practically no effort to hit Strib, while he was just dancing around to test his timing and judgment of distance. At the end of the workout in the excessive heat Strib weighed 184½ pounds, a pound or two lighter than he wishes to enter the ring against Max.

Family to Hide Out.

Tomorrow the Striblings will desert their Geauga Lake cottage for a secret hideout, known only to a few intimates and newspaper men. This is to escape handshakers and autograph seekers.

Promoter Dick Dunn still estimates the gate receipts at $600,000, basing his figures on a comparatively heavy late box office sale from Ohioans motoring to Cleveland for the affair. So we asked: "If the box office was closed right now and you did not sell another ticket, how much money would you have?"

"Between $300,000 and $350,000," was the answer.

This figure comprises about $190,000 said to be in the till of the general ticket office at Civic auditorium. Another $125,000 is said to be covered by sales of tickets by W. F. Carey, Pa Stribling, reservations from other cities, and branch ticket offices.

144 START PLAY TODAY FOR JONES' U. S. OPEN CROWN

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Toledo, O., July 1.—The United States open tournament, the world's greatest golf show, will open at the Inverness club here tomorrow with a cast of 144, representing one of the best fields that has ever competed in an open meet, engaging in 18 holes of medal play. Another 18 holes will be played Thursday, with the low 60 scorers in the first two rounds shooting in the 36 hole final Saturday.

And in the gallery which will follow the field over the sun withered agriculture of the famous old Inverness course will be a young Atlanta barrister named Robert T. Jones Jr., the champion of them all. Bobby will be the first American open champion failing to defend his title since 1913, when Jock McDermott didn't appear at Brookline.

Four Ex-champions Entered.

But in the field of 144 will be four former open champions—Walter Hagen, winner in 1914 and 1919; Gene Sarazen, the 1922 victor; Tommy Armour, the Scottish-American war veteran who captured the title in a playoff with Harry Cooper in 1927, and Johnny Farrell, who accomplished the impossible in 1928 when he defeated Jones at Olympia Fields.

This quartet will not be alone in this year's championship strife. There are too many golfers here who have just missed out by a stroke in previous opens to make the ex-champions' chances certain. MacDonald Smith, who was on Jones' heels throughout the American and British open tournaments last year, will be very much in evidence, as will Horton Smith, Leo Diegel, Harry Cooper, Al Espinosa and Joe Turnesa.

From Great Britain comes the Ryder cup team, consisting of Archie Compston, George Duncan, Abe Mitchell, Fred Robson, Ernest Whitcombe, Bert Hodson, Arthur Havers, Bill Davies and Sid Esterbrook. Their captain, Charles Whitcombe, withdrew this morning as the result of an ailing knee. And with them will be the insurgent Henry Cotton and his brother Leslie; Aubrey Boomer, native Briton who works as a professional near Paris, and Percy Alliss, another Englishman, who is employed at Wannsee, Germany.

Argentine Golfers Withdraw.

France will be represented by Auguste Boyer, while the Philippine Islands will have their first delegate to an American open in Larry Montes of Manila.

The field was reduced to 144 and some of the international color subtracted with the withdrawal of four Argentine golfers, including Jose Jurado, runner-up in the British open meet this year.

Very few practice rounds were completed today. Reggie Myles, Ashland, O., professional, braved the full distance, however, and turned up with a surprising 69, two under par. Abe Mitchell and George Duncan played along to about the ninth green this morning, and the latter suggested that if the present heat continues he might not take part in the tournament.

Old Ball Leads, 41 to 11, in Poll at Two Golf Courses

There was great jubilation in the campaign headquarters of the old golf ball last night as the returns from two more precincts came in during the poll on the old and the new balls being conducted by THE TRIBUNE in conjunction with the Chicago Daily Fee Golf association. For the combined figures from these two daily fee courses, Evergreen and Techny Fields, revealed 41 votes for the old against 11 for the new.

Despite this new addition to the already swelling plurality rolled up by the ball which the United States Golf association discarded on Jan. 1, the new ball's adherents found solace in the fact that it is running neck and neck with the old in the matter of approach shots and putting. This peculiarity is still the mystery of the poll—golfers who demand the return of the old ball admit they like the shot to the green or the putt, or both, with the lighter and larger ball now in use.

Results of Day's Poll.

TECHNY FIELDS.

Want old ball back	12
Want to keep new ball	6
Like shot to green with new ball	10
Don't like it	8
Like putt with new ball	10
Don't like it	8

EVERGREEN.

Want old ball back	29
Want to keep new ball	5
Like shot to green with new ball	20
Don't like it	14
Like putt with new ball	20
Don't like it	14

The new ball won the argument on the approaches and putts, the combined figures showing 30 players who prefer the shot to the green with the pellet now in use, as opposed to 22 who don't care for it. The same figures turned up in the putting department.

Comments by Golfers.

The old ball is best for all around play. The new ball is better when the wind is with you, but it is not better for putting, for it hangs on the lip of the cup too often.—Edward Clancy, 6333 South Kilpatrick avenue.

"Makes a Swell Alibi."

One golfer refused to indicate whether he wanted the new ball to go or stay, contenting himself with the statement, "It makes a swell alibi."

The present division of the poll is being taken only at the daily fee courses, where voting blanks may be obtained. Balloting of the private courses and the public links will begin shortly.

Voters are urged to answer each of the statements included in the blank, or their votes will not be counted. The six statements on the blank follow:

2. My average drive with the new ball is.....yards.
3. My average drive with the old ball was.....yards.
4. I [like] or [do not like] the shot to the green with the new ball.
5. I [like] or [do not like] to putt with the new ball.
6. I [would like] or [would not like] to see the old ball come back.

Evans Breaks Par in Meet at Kildeer

Chick Evans negotiated the simmering fairways and greens of Kildeer Country club in 34—36—70, one under par, yesterday to lead the Edgewater team to an 18 to 9 victory over Indian Hill in the third match of the season of the Northwest golf league.

His performance equalled the amateur course record held by Dick Martin of Briergate, former Big Ten golf champion. Chick shot par golf on the first two holes and turned in a birdie 4 on the third. He was one over par on the sixth but had a birdie 3 on the eighth to reach the turn in 34, one under par. He had two more birdies on the homeward nine, but was one over par figures on the 12th and 16th. His card:

In	355	334	554	36—70

Ridgemoor retained its five point lead in the league standing by upsetting Kildeer, 18 to 9. Medinah trounced Park Ridge, 14½ to 12½, while Rolling Green was losing, 15 to 12, to Sunset Ridge.

The team standings and their points so far this season are:

Ridgemoor	55	Park Ridge	37½
Edgewater	50	Medinah	33½
Sunset Ridge	49	Rolling Green	32
Indian Hill	41	Kildeer	26

Chick Evans, Edgewater	70
Jack Westland, Sunset Ridge	73
Otto Wendell, Medinah	78
Leslie Gordon, Indian Hill	78
C. Christopher, Park Ridge	78
E. Jaeger, Ridgemoor	78
Howard Walthan, Sunset Ridge	78

A place on the team which will represent Chicago at the National Public Links tournament at St. Paul, Aug. 4, will be the goal of leading daily fee golfers who will compete in the first qualifying round at Evergreen today. A second qualifying round will be played at Mid City July 10.

Chicago's team of six members will be picked from the 20 low scorers in the two qualifying rounds of 36 holes each. Four members of the team will compete for the national public links team title while all six members will be eligible for the individual championship.

Nearly 100 golfers are expected to compete for a position on the Chicago team, according to W. B. Langford, chairman of the event. Entries will be accepted at the first tee until 12:30 o'clock. Prizes will be offered for first, tenth, twentieth and thirtieth places in today's competition.

Two hundred legionnaires of the 4th district of the American Legion will compete in the annual golf tournament of the district at Cherry Hill next Wednesday. A dozen prizes will be awarded for handicap medal play for 18 holes. Every legion post in the district is expected to enter a four man team, which will compete for the post team championship.

Shields and Wood Reach Finals in Wimbledon Meet

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WIMBLEDON, England, July 1.—Two upstart young Yankees made a championship stand this afternoon with a brand of tennis Wimbledon has not seen so far this year, and now there will be another all-American final.

The two newcomers to the championship final are Syd Wood of New York and Frank Shields of Oklahoma. Wood beat Fred Perry, the only Britton in the semi-finals, by 4-6, 6-2, 6-4, and 6-2. But his feat was hardly half that of Shields, who defeated Jean Borotra of France. It was the most gripping match the center court has seen this season, and was won by the American by 7-5, 3-6, 6-4, and 6-4 at the conclusion of long exchanges of all strokes champions are able to bring off their rackets.

Wood is 19 and Shields 20 years old.

Shields' Service Wins.

Shields beat Wimbledon's most popular performer on the strength of his service and his good backhand, but he had to cover every inch of the court against the rallies of the bounding Basque, who thrice held the championship. Against Shields' service aces there was Borotra's old foot faults, and against the Frenchman's swift attacks at the net, there were the American's passing shots and lobs which did not always come off. Smashes failed Borotra in the end, however, and they were even at the baselines. This is the third time Shields has beaten Borotra.

Wood looked like a winner from the start. He took the first four games just as quickly as he lost the next six. The temperamental Perry grew overconfident and Wood allowed him only the first and fifth games of the next set. Perry found himself no match for Wood's service drives in the second set and resorted to tricks to stop the volleys.

Wood Overcomes Lead.

Trailing 3-4, Wood took the next three games. Only two games were deuced in the last set, Wood winning four straight, the rest went from service.

The performance of Wood and Shields gives the United States the brightest Davis cup hopes in years. George Lott and Johnny Van Ryn, the doubles pair who are going to Paris, beat Gregory Mangin, the American who came to Wimbledon to prove he should have been selected, and Pierre Landy of France, 6-0, 6-2 and 7-5.

AUTO POLO PART OF RACE PROGRAM AT ROBY JULY 12

Auto polo will be included in the second American Automobile association race meet at the Roby-Chicago speedway on July 12. The American team of Pittsburgh will play a full-time match with the Canadian polo-ists on the straightaway in front of the stands.

The action in auto polo is largely due to the fact that the cars are so constructed they can collide at top speed without much damage. The driver is fastened in his seat, and is protected by an overhead trolley arrangement.

Four Games Booked for Mills This Week-End

Manager Bill Harley has scheduled a busy week-end for his Mills baseball team. They will play a double header with the Kansas City Monarchs on Saturday and a twin bill with Grover Cleveland's House of David club on Sunday.

AMERICAN CREWS ROW IN HENLEY REGATTA TODAY

Today's program was entirely English competition, but the regatta tomorrow will take on an international flavor, with American and German crews participating in the grand challenge and Thames Challenge cups.

Harvard's third varsity, out for its last practice today, was spared any strenuous work, devoting itself entirely to practicing starts. The distance of a mile and 550 yards places emphasis on the getaway.

SOX RALLY, BUT NOT ENOUGH; BOSTON WINS, 5-3

Moore started to melt in the seventh when, with one out, Reynolds fumbled Sweeny's single, putting the runner on third. Rhyne's single scored him. Webb doubled to left, putting Rhyne on third. Miller was purposely passed. Pickering then filed to right and Rhyne scored. Webb scored on Berry's single.

Appling singled with one out in the Sox' seventh to start a Chicago score. It was a hard bounder that flew off the tip of Sweeney's glove. Jeffries was side tracked on a fly to left. Then Grube doubled in the same direction, scoring Appling. In the hope of getting the other run, Manager Bush sent up Fothergill to bat for Moore, but after Bob had mopped his brow a few times he discovered he had been called out on strikes.

Thomas vs. Kline Today.

The belated fuss kicked up by Chicago in the ninth began with Fonseca's single. He went to third on Simons' single to right. Appling walked to fill the bases. The situation looked exceedingly promising, but Watwood, batting for Jeffries, put a crimp in it by bouncing into a double play. Fonseca scored on the play. Then Grube's single scored Simons. Sullivan, batting for Faber, singled, and McKain was asked to try his skill in Kerr's place. He was tossed out by the pitcher.

Thomas and Kline are billed to work in the series final today. It will be ladies' day, because of there being no game scheduled for tomorrow.

Klein's Bat Helps Phils Beat Cubs

English, D. Taylor's double and Wilson's fly and the Phillies accumulated their cluster on a walk to Brickell, Bartell's single, Klein's triple and an infield out.

The Cubs got their second counter in the second on Hartnett's double and Cuyler's single. The Chicagoans had the bases full when D. Taylor ended the inning with a pop to Friberg.

Wilson opened the third with his No. 10 home run, a high smack over the right field wall some six feet inside the foul line. This tied the score at 3 all.

That triple play in the fourth inspired the Phils to reassume the lead in their half of the inning. Mallon walked and went to second when Sweetland threw the ball away in an attempt to catch him napping. J. Elliott drove a single off the right field fence, Mallon scoring.

The Phils added a run in the fifth to make the score 5 to 3 in their favor. Klein opened with his second hit, a single along the left foul line, went to second while Jurges was throwing out Arlett, and scored when Whitney doubled off the right field fence.

In the sixth J. Elliott got his second successive hit, with one down, and went to second on Brickell's single to left. The bases were filled when Jumbo was flagged at third on Bartell's single to left. Then Klein cracked a double to right, J. Elliott and Brickell scoring and Bartell stopping at third. At this point Baecht relieved Sweetland and gave Arlett an intentional pass to fill the bases. Whitney popped to Jurges in short center. Davis walked, forcing in Bartell. Friberg lined to Cuyler.

Klein Knocks Homer.

The Phils got a run in the seventh on singles by Mallon and Bartell, with a sacrifice sandwiched between them. In the eighth Klein's homer off Blake, three walks, and a single gave the Phils two more runs.

The heat got Elliott in the ninth and the Cubs scored three runs before Collins went into get the last man out.

BY AL CHASE.

Plans have been completed and work will start at once on a $125,000 north division plant of Sidney Wanzer & Sons on the south side of Argyle street, 206 feet east of Lincoln street. It will comprise a one and two story distributing and office building, 200x418. The two story section will comprise one-half of the front of the structure. The building also will contain a refrigerating department and a garage unit to accommodate 150 trucks, as well as a repair shop.

The garage is so planned that later on when necessary an addition can be added, raising the capacity to 200 trucks. Stables are to be erected on another part of the lot. The architect is Richard Griesser. Completion is set for Sept. 1.

This new plant will replace the one now at 1414 Roscoe street. The Wanzer concern now operates five plants throughout the city. The site for the new plant is 200x626 and was purchased from Stephen Kauth. The Roseland Dairy company took title for the Wanzer interests.

Bordens Plan Addition.

The Borden's Farm Products of Illinois have awarded the general contract to George Thomson & Son for the erection of a garage, stable and distributing station addition to 315 West 70th place. It will be partially fireproof and will be 118x132. The present building will be modernized. The total cost will be $75,000. E. E. and Elmer C. Roberts are architects.

The sixteen apartment building at 2300-02 Lexington street has been sold by Sidney S. Cohn to Attilio Matteucci for an undisclosed consideration, subject to $35,000. James Valentino was the broker. Barancik & Dolan were attorneys for the seller and Biagi Raimondi acted for the buyer.

Colfax Avenue Deal.

The six apartment building at 7840-42 Colfax avenue, lot 50x124, has been sold by Sadie and Samuel Goodman and Frank and Nettie Isenberg to Anna Kaiser for an undisclosed price. Oscar M. Nudelman was attorney.

The lease of the 20x68 premises at 41 West Slade street, in Palatine, by Lars S. Miller and William Kehe Jr., to the federal government for a post-office was filed for record yesterday. The term is ten years from March 11, 1931, and calls for $1,200 annual rental. The lease includes equipment.

STOCKS REGAIN 14.1% OF LOSS FROM 1929 PEAK

Upturn Largely Due to Debt Project.

BY O. A. MATHER.

...strong upward surge of the security markets last month, which was chiefly the reflection of the proposal of President Hoover for a world holiday on war debt payments, is strikingly illustrated in the action of representative common stocks.

...issues on June 30 had ...14.1 per cent of the total depression incurred since Aug. 30, 1929, when the bull market reached its peak, according to a compilation by Fowler, Jelke & Co. The appreciation in market value totaled $3,890,000,000, whereas the total depreciation had aggregated $27,496,299,000, or a loss of 63.3 per cent from the aggregate value on Aug. 30, 1929.

Mines Lead Gain.

For last month alone, the net increase in appraisal was $2,403,573,000, or 7.7 per cent, the total valuation rising $19,842,134,000 on June 30, compared with $17,438,561,000 on May 29. The largest gain for the month was in mines, which recovered 33.9 per cent, the amusements gained 25.6 per cent, railroad equipments and chemicals 17.9 per cent each; miscellaneous industrials, 15.2 per cent; rails, 15.1 per cent; utilities, 15 per cent; steels, 13 per cent; motors, 14 per cent; electrical equipments, 11.3 per cent; oils, 11 per cent; stores, 8.1 per cent, and foods, 4.1 per cent.

Percentage of Losses.

Between Aug. 30, 1929, and June 2, 1931, the mines lost 82.2 per cent; amusements, 73.1 per cent; railroad equipments, 67.8 per cent; steels, 67.2 per cent; chemicals, 67 per cent; electrical equipments, 66.8 per cent; oils, 64.7 per cent; motors, 63.9 per cent; rails, 63.3 per cent; rails, 60.6 per cent; industrials, 57 per cent; utilities, 53 per cent; and the foods, 42.6 per cent.

The market losses recovered between June 2 and June 30 were 22.7 per cent in the foods; 19.3 per cent in the utilities; 16.7 per cent in the industrials; 15.4 per cent in the amusements; 15.1 per cent each in the railroad equipments, motors and rails; 14.9 per cent in the steels; 10.8 per cent in the chemicals; 10.4 per cent in the mines; 9.6 per cent in the electrical equipments, and 8.6 per cent in the stores.

Comparison of Lows.

Allowing for splitups and larger stock dividends, a comparison of 1921 and 1931 lows of 260 common stocks shows that 140 issues sold lower ten years ago and that 120 have sold lower this year. Ready comparison is complicated by changes in share units in the case of 148 stocks, some of which have been altered by two or more splits or stock dividends.

Of the 35 rails tabulated in the survey, 17 have sold lower this year than at any time in 1921, while only one of the 10 utilities has dropped below the lowest price of ten years ago. Of the 25 mining issues, 20 of the 35 oil stocks, nine of the 17 industrial shares, seven of the 11 stores, and seven of the 14 retail shares have declined below the lowest prices of 1921. More than half of the 260 issues tabulated in the survey have since split up.

Washington, D. C., July 1.—Shippers' regional advisory boards in a report made public today estimated that car loadings for the third quarter of this year in the midwest will be approximately 200,000 cars less than in the corresponding period of 1930. This estimates a decrease of 13.8 per cent for the midwest, which is 4.5 per cent greater decrease than for the country as a whole.

Says U. S. Aids Canadian Rys. at Expense of Its Own

BY SCRUTATOR.

Railroads in the United States have experienced a falling off in tonnage and greatly reduced revenues. They have asked the interstate commerce commission for a fifteen per cent increase in freight rates.

With this in mind it may be well to consider the rate system operating between New York-New England and Chicago.

Take, for example, the freight movement from Boston to Chicago. If the traffic is routed via the New York Central lines direct from Boston to Chicago over the cheapest possible operating route the rate is actually higher than if the traffic moves in a northwesterly direction over the Canadian border to be handled by one or the other of the Canadian lines via Detroit or Port Huron to Chicago.

Traffic Principles.

This circuitous routing violates cardinal traffic principles. In the first place, the traffic density of the Canadian lines is less than that of the New York Central, and therefore rates should be higher. Secondly, while under the mileage principle a rate increases with the mileage, in this peculiar situation the rate is actually lowered because of the increase in the length of haul.

A railroad lives on revenue ton miles. But here are New England roads taking divisions of a lower through rate in order to export those ton miles.

Canadian labor is substituted for American labor in the handling of freight having both its point of origin and point of destination in the United States.

Transportation is a commodity, and while we raise tariff barriers to protect domestic industry against the importation of cheaper foreign made commodities we actually encourage the importance of transportation, despite the need of American carriers for protection.

The importance of this traffic to Canada's government owned Canadian National railway can hardly be overemphasized. While this system as a whole operates at a big loss its subsidiaries dipping down into the United States through Michigan to Chicago and through New England to Portland, Me., and New London, Conn., turn in profits for themselves and send a great volume of American tonnage up across the frontier to be handled by the Canadian lines on the other side of the border.

In 1929 the Grand Trunk Western Railroad company, the subsidiary running across Michigan and into Chicago, reported net railway operating revenues of $10,694,983. The combined income account of the Canadian National railways showed net railway operating revenues of only $41,864,706. And yet the mileage on this side of the boundary represents less than 1-22 of the system's total mileage.

Relations with Government.

The Canadian National at the close of 1930 showed a total balance sheet deficit of $579,755,822. Last year's deficit alone was $68,279,770, and in 1929 the deficit was $44,816,022. Its total indebtedness now amounts to almost two and a half billions, of which $1,230,000,000 is owed to the dominion government, and on which no interest has been paid.

Thus the Canadian National finances are closely bound up with those of the government and any writing ff of its debts would be at the expense of the taxpayers. Without the American tonnage routed over its lines the system would be an impossible financial burden for the dominion.

Under the present system of routing traffic from New York and New England to Chicago and the west by way of Canada Americans are supporting Canadian railroads at the expense of their own.

CONDUCT PRIVATE CONVERSATIONS ON COPPER PLAN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 1.—Following failure of a general conference to reach an agreement concerning world-wide curtailment of copper production, representatives of the larger producers today were conducting private conversations with dissenting parties with a view to bring about the desired result within a week.

Desire on the part of several of the smaller companies to obtain special concessions in the agreement led to the breaking up of the meetings in progress earlier in the week, according to one of the most important officials concerned in the negotiations.

It was learned from a reliable source that Anaconda and Kennecott, the largest American producers, and representatives of the Katanga Mines in the Belgian Congo, were willing to restrict production. It was reported that some of the smelting companies, claiming that special situations existed in their case, had refused to accept the allotments proposed.

U. S. Gold Stock Increases $153,000,000 During June

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 1.—During the month of June this country gained gold at a rate that has not been approached since 1917 and has probably never before been equaled, according to the monthly review of credit and business conditions published by the federal reserve bank of New York.

"The total gain of the country's gold stock during the month was about $153,000,000," the review says, "of which $61,000,000 took the form of imports and $92,000,000 represented the net releases from earmark of gold previously accumulated here by foreign banks."

Steel Output Slips Again; Dull Month Looms Ahead

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 1.—While steel production slipped another point this week to 35 per cent of capacity, trade reviews reported today an improvement in sentiment among big consumers due to President Hoover's proposal of a debt holiday, which may lead to an upturn in demand in the near future.

However, both Iron Age and Steel agree that another month of dullness is ahead before the industry will feel the good effects of a loosening of war debt ties. The proposal has had the effect, it was reported, of reviving several large projects which had been dormant for some time.

Full summer stagnation in the industry is now approaching and many industrial consumers have announced July shutdowns of their plants for at least two weeks.

Will Suspend Activities.

"Nearly all of the automobile plants," Iron Age reported, "will suspend activities for two weeks for vacations and inventories between July 15 and Aug. 15. June output of motor cars is not expected to be above 270,000 units, against 315,115 in May, and a further decline is indicated for July. Steel orders from the automobile industry continue to decline.

"Railroads, on the other hand, perhaps stimulated by the hope of an advance in freight rates, have been ordering a little more freely. The Union Pacific bought 10,000 tons of rails, and the Seaboard Air Line 9,000 tons of rails and 7,000 tons of tie plates. The Norfolk and Western will open bids July 8 on 20,000 tons of rails and the necessary track fastenings. The New York Central plans to cover its steel requirements for the entire last half, some mills, however, declining to quote beyond the third quarter.

"Although some dormant pipe line projects may be revived if the general business situation improves, the only immediately prospective order is 25,000 tons of twenty inch pipe for the Lycoming Natural Gas company for a Pennsylvania-New York state line, which may be placed this week."

All three of the Iron Age composite prices have changed this week, pig iron declining while scrap and finished steel have advanced. At $15.59, pig iron is down to the lowest since November, 1915, after holding at $15.63 for five weeks. Finished steel advanced, on the revised sheet prices, from 2.102 cents a pound to 2.137 cents. Steel scrap, higher at Pittsburgh, goes from $9.08 to $9.17, the first advance since February.

Chicago Activity Low.

While Steel also reports an improvement in sentiment, the following rates of activity are perhaps indicative of the trend in industry:

"Chicago is down 6 points to 30 per cent; Pittsburgh down 3 points to 36 per cent, and Buffalo is down 6 points to 40 per cent. Eastern Pennsylvania is off 1 point to 3 per cent. Youngstown is unchanged at 41 per cent; Cleveland at 41 per cent, and Birmingham at 45 per cent."

New fabricated steel projects appearing in the week totaled 19,000 tons, compared with 44,000 tons a week ago, says the Iron Age. Included were 2,400 tons for a post office in Louisville, Ky.; 2,000 tons for a municipal auditorium in Worcester, Mass., 1,500 tons for a newspaper building in Cincinnati, and 1,000 tons for a church on East 35th street, New York.

Fabricated structural steel awards were likewise light, calling for 20,000 tons. Some 2,100 tons for a subway concourse at city hall, Philadelphia; 1,910 tons for bridges in Philadelphia for the Reading railroad, and 1,100 tons for a generator station in New York for the Consolidated Gas company were included.

CRUDE OIL SELLS IN EAST TEXAS AT 5 CENTS A BARREL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 1.—With probation plans still in a nebulous stage, reports came in today of sales of crude oil in the east Texas field at 5 cents a barrel. In 1920 petroleum sold in the midcontinent area for $3.50.

The sales in east Texas at 5 cents do not, however, represent the market. They are reported to be distress sales by small independents who cannot hold on to the product of their wells until better prices obtain.

Asserts Debt Plan May Help Restore Tin Industry

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 1.—Revival of the tin industry may be brought about through the carrying out of the Hoover moratorium plan, John Howeson, chairman of Anglo-Oriental Mining Corporation, Ltd., declared today at the company's annual meeting in London. Mr. Howeson said the plan for a moratorium will aid the tin industry by accelerating the international production quota scheme adopted by the governments of the Federated Malay States, Dutch East Indies, Bolivia, and other tin producing countries.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 1.—The news from Paris looked a little better to speculative Wall street today and stock trading sentiment flopped once more to the buying side. Enthusiasm became quite pronounced in some directions in the late trading and early losses were replaced with upturns, amounting in some cases to as much as 5 points.

All departments shared in the improvement. Among the standard leaders, United States Steel took its place at the forefront, advancing more than 2 points after an early dip to 99. American Can and American Telephone made good sized advances and so did Consolidated Gas. The motors ignored the predictions of a dull season by the current steel trade summaries and the rails cashed in rather magnificently on the early realization. Stocks like American Sugar, Armour preferred, and Coast Line provided some color for the proceedings by shooting up anywhere from 3 to 5 points or more.

Up to the final hour spurt in operations the pace of trading was extremely dull. However, the day's volume declined to around 1,700,000 shares. Obviously the public was keeping to the side lines pending something more definite than unofficial news accounts of the progress of the debt holiday negotiations at the French capital.

All Set to Renew Push.

From all accounts the bull forces are all set to renew their push on an aggressive scale the minute word comes that an agreement is at last

CHICAGO STOCK PRICE CHANGES ARE MODERATE

Insull Utility Most Active in Dull Market.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

The financial community buzzed yesterday with contradictory reports concerning the fate of the President's debt program and each report played its part making a crazy quilt of the stock market prices. It was a case of report chasing rumor and "confidential information" supplanting both, with prices fluctuating erratically in an attempt to keep up with the gossip.

At times during the day it appeared as if a moratorium in speculative activity was imminent. The tape lolled along ticking out the quotations on the 91,000 odd shares which were traded in on the Chicago exchange.

Traders More Optimistic.

Sentiment among traders was one of conservative optimism that the debt question will be worked out on a satisfactory basis. The feeling was reflected in the moderate up trend in prices, but there was a prevailig note of caution which kept the public on the sidelines and speculative activity at low ebb.

Leading Chicago snares were hemmed within a narrow price area. Final quotation in the main represented moderate reaction from the best prices of the day. Insull Utility was the most active share on the board, but failed to break rank to achieve anything notable on the upside. Cord was quiet and slightly higher on the face of Auburn monthly report on shipments which showed a loss from the previous month, but a gain over the same period last year.

Midland United Issue.

The Midland United company announced yesterday that an $11,000,000 issue of serial notes have been sold to Halsey, Stuart & Co. Public offering will be made of the notes. The issue is secured by a contract calling for the purchase of Midland common stock by Commonwealth company, Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, Public Service of Northern Illinois, and Middle West Utilities.

Coupon rates range from 2 to 4½ per cent and the notes will be offered to yield 2¼ to 4¾ per cent, according to maturity. The contract calls for the payment in twelve monthly installments of approximately $917,000.

AUTO CONCERNS GIVE REPORTS ON JUNE SHIPMENTS

The Auburn Automobile company yesterday reported shipments for June of 3,025 cars, as compared with 6,717 in May and 950 in June last year. Shipments so far this year total 27,660, or more than twice the cars shipped during the entire year of 1930 and 5,193 more than during the peak year of 1929. The company added 186 dealers during the month, it was announced.

Buick Motor company, division of General Motors, produced and shipped 6,479 cars in June, compared with 9,256 in May and 4,135 in June, 1930.

During June the Reo Motor Car company shipped 1,729 cars and trucks. This was a substantial increase over June, 1930, and compares with 1,737 units in May of this year. The company reports a heavy accumulation of orders for July delivery.

The Hupp Motor Car corporation shipped 1,631 cars in June, compared with 2,154 in May and 2,606 in June, 1930.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 5,000; hogs, 18,000; sheep, 8,000.

All classes of live stock suffered additional price cuts yesterday, the result of the intense heat which has greatly reduced demand for fresh meats during the last few days. However, the possibility of a break in the heat wave today injected strength into the trade toward the close and most classes recovered the first losses.

The classes which were hit hardest on recent sessions were being held off the market in hopes of a recovery today and Friday. Supplies have been small since last week's close. The twenty markets in three days show a decrease of 137,000 head of cattle, hogs and sheep, or more than 20 per cent compared with a week ago.

There was a decidedly better tone in the hog market after 5 mostly 10c lower opening yesterday and closing sales were steady to strong with the general selling the previous day. Outside orders were small and some city butchers who deal mostly in fresh meats bought sparingly.

Others carried some of the largest orders of the week and several buyers in search of top kinds were "short" at the close. Most of the 7,000 left were heavy hogs being held off the market. The extreme top at $7.25 was paid for prime 215 lb., butchers, while the general average showed 5c loss at $6.10. The "spread" of $1.15 equaled the widest for any corresponding day on record. In 1930 and 1929 the range was half as wide. Hog receipts have been small for some time. The eleven market total for June at 1,888,000 was smallest for that month since 1910. The six months' total at 13,448,000 was smallest since 1914. Prices at Chicago averaged $6.40, equal to the lowest for any month since February, 1912, and only 15c above the lowest June average since 1908.

December Offers at $7.25.

Lightweight hogs for delivery during the last half of next December were offered as low as $7.25 on the futures market yesterday, but no bids were posted. Offers for the first half of the month were made at $8.00 on light and mediums and at $8.25 on heavy. September light medium and heavy were offered at $8.00 and bid $7.25. On the "to arrive" market, light weights for today's delivery were bid $7.15 but no offers to sell were made at this figure.

Cattle receipts at 9,000 were moderate for mid-week but demand was better and salesmen succeeded in reversing the trend of prices soon after the opening. Losses of 25c were recovered later and closing sales were strong. Prime 1,036 lb. yearlings topped the price list at $8.50, which equals Tuesday's peak, while 1,282 lb averages were sold at $8.15 and 1,223 lb. averages at $8.40, highest of the week for those weights. Butcher stock failed to show the late strength, however and veal calves slumped sharply.

Cattle receipts during June at 186,968 were second smallest for that month since 1916. The average price of beef steers at $7.45 was 30c above May, but lowest for June since 1911. There is usually an advance in the market for top cattle in July and August.

Montana Lambs Come Early.

The first Montana lambs of the season arrived at Chicago yesterday. They were earlier than usual, but about 15 days later than in 1930. In 1927 the first were here on Aug. 1. Lamb prices were mostly steady after the start, with strong weights to packers at $7.25 and to city butchers at $7.50@7.65. Yearlings were weak, selling at $6.00 and below.

Aged sheep showed little change. Sheep receipts at Chicago in June at 377,892 were largest for the month in five years. The general average at $7.75 was lowest for June since 1913. The aged sheep average at $1.75 was lowest on record.

Life Insurance Sales Down 16% During May

Sales of ordinary life insurance in May declined 16 per cent below the volume in May last year, while total sales for the first five months this year were 17 per cent below 1930, according to the monthly report of the life insurance sales research bureau.

Analyzing the sales of life insurance since the beginning of the depression, the bureau finds that they were continually on the increase when the rest of business had turned down, and that it was not until a year ago that the first slight downward trend was perceived. This explains in part the extent of the decrease so far this year when sales are compared with last year, it is felt.

All districts of the country reported lower sales than last year, both for May and the five months.

CASH·GRAIN NEWS

Foreign demand for North American cash wheat showed no important change and business was limited, although new No. 1 hard winter at the gulf was reported as offered at 1½c under Chicago September for last half July-first half August loading with no bids in sight. Charters were reported for 750,000 bu old crop winters at the gulf. Italy was said to have purchased 7,000,000 bu of Russian wheat for shipment extending to the end of 1931.

Local handlers sold 2,000 bu wheat, 108,000 bu corn, 38,000 bu oats, and 2,000 bu barley to the domestic trade with 250,000 bu corn sold to go to store. Purchases of 50,000 bu wheat, 20,000 bu corn, and 2,000 bu oats were made to arrive.

A car of No. 2 red winter at Chicago sold in the sample market at @2c but offerings generally were very small. New No. 2 red and hard winter for July, August, and September 15 shipment from the country was booked on the basis of around 85c early in the day. St. Louis reported prices as 1@1½c lower, while Kansas City was 2@1½c lower with No. 1 hard quoted at about 2½c under. Omaha had a car of new Nebraska under. Omaha ha da car of new Nebraska wheat which graded No. 1 hard and sold at 50c.

Shipping demand for cash corn was fairly active, but there was no change in the basis in the sample market. No 1 and No. 2 mixed was July price to ½c over. No 1 yellow ¾@1c over, No. 2 yellow ½@¾c over. No. 1 white 1¾c over, and No. 2 white 1¼@1¾c over July, while No. 3 mixed was ¾@1¼c under the yellow. July price to ¼c over.

NEW YORK BOND MART EASY AND FIRM BY TURNS

New York, July 1.—[(AP)]—The bond market was easy and firm by turns today and ended without many significant changes.

The average price for thirty representative bonds consisting of equal quantities of rail, public utility and industrial obligations was unchanged. There were gains and declines distributed over the list but they offset one another pretty much.

A spurt in Armour 5½s of 1943 featured the late trading in the Industrials. At one time this issue showed a gain of 4½ points, most of which was lost by the close. The shares of the company made sizeable gains also. Wilson First 6s, Sinclair 7s of 1937, Pan American Petroleum 6s, of 1940, Humble 5½s, Certainteed 5½s and Chile Copper 5s made varying declines on moderate activity.

Dual price movements characterized the foreign group. Argentine obligations closed higher after temporary losses, a description which applied also to the currency of that nation. Brazilian Loans scored about as many net losses as gains. German issues closed irregularly lower. Loans of the United States government were less active, but an upward trend was apparent among the popular issues.

Most public utility and railroad bonds provided few small sales and the fluctuations among them were usually narrow.

BOTH COFFEE AND SUGAR REGISTER JUNE ADVANCES

New York, July 1.—(AP)—Both coffee and sugar scored substantial advances during the month of June, the monthly review of the New York Coffee and Sugar exchange shows.

Coffee futures on the exchange advanced 28 to 64 points during the month and Rio coffee sold at ½ ¾c a pound at the close of the month, compared with 6¼c at the end of May. Total sales on the exchange during June amounted to 1,235,750 bags, compared with 799,000 bags in May and 925,250 bags in June, 1930.

Raw sugar advanced seventeen hundredths of a cent and closed the month at 1.43c a pound, compared with 1.26c a pound at the end of May. Volume of trading in futures for June amounted to 646,200 tons, compared with 555,100 tons in May and 874,100 tons in June last year.

Philadelphia Insurance Firms Agree on Merger

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 1.—Plans for the merger of the Independence Indemnity company and the Commonwealth Casualty company, both of Philadelphia, have been approved by directors, and will become effective if the approvel of stockholders and the insurance commissioner of Pennsylvania are obtained. Owners of a majority of stock of both companies are reported to have agreed to the plan. Under the plan, Charles H. Holland will be elected chiarman of the new company and W. Freeland Kendrick, now president of Commonwealth, will become vice chairman. J. Horsea Shale will become president and general manager.

DISCUSS PLANS.

Representatives of Columbia Gas and Electric corporation and the Lycoming Natural Gas company, a subsidiary of Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, are reported to be discussing working arrangements which would insure the development along economically constructive lines of the recently discovered natural gas areas in northeastern Pennsylvania and southwestern New York.

SELLING ENGULFS BUYERS, SO CORN AND OATS CRASH

Rains in Grain Belt Change Market Sentiment.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

A near collapse in the corn and oats markets, which advanced in a sensational manner during the past two weeks, with an advance of 10½c in December corn, came yesterday. A flood of selling orders engulfed buyers, and the break was not checked until corn had dropped 2⅛@4¼c from the finish of Tuesday, with the December touching 50c, while oats broke 3¼@3¾c from the previous close, with the September selling at 27½c.

Scattered rains in parts of Kansas, Nebraska and Iowa, with the forecast for lower temperatures, brought about a marked change in sentiment as the change in weather conditions was regarded by the trade as likely to put an end to the apprehension of damage to the new crop. Official reports from the corn belt showed no damage of consequence had occurred so far from the heat wave, and about the only effect had been to greatly stimulate growth.

Longs Sell Heavily.

Many of the recent aggressive buyers of corn and oats futures were on the selling side yesterday and found a lack of the support which was so much in evidence up to Monday. Stop loss orders were uncovered in profusion on the way down, and general liquidation was in evidence at times. At no time did the corn or oats markets show a pronounced rally to cover and long grain came out in profusion from the start. Corn closed within a fraction of the bottom, with net losses of 2¼@4¼c, with December leading. July showed the most strength and finished at 59⅛@59⅝c; September, 56⅜@56⅝c, and December, 50¼@50¼c. Oats were off 2¾@3¼c for the day, with July, 27¼@27½c; September, 28⅛@28⅜c, and December, 31¼@31¾c.

Expectations are that the corn crop this season, based on the outlook prevailing at the present time, will be one of the largest ever raised. The Miller-Bennett report suggested a yield of 2,995,000,000 bu, compared with the short crop of 2,081,000,000 bu in 1930 when the crop in the Ohio valley was practically wiped out by excessive heat and drought. The memory of the crop disaster in that section was one of the main influences in causing the recent bulge. The oats crop, however, has suffered irreparable damage, and is estimated by E. H. Miller at 1,350,000,000 bu, or 70,000,000 bu less than the average of the private returns of a month ago, and compared with 1,402,000,000 bu harvested in 1930.

Hedging Sales in Wheat.

While the wheat market showed more resistance to pressure than coarse grains there was a drop of 2@2½c from the finish of the previous day. The close was 1⅝@2¼c lower, with the July selling at 55⅞@56¼c at the last after having touched 55⅝c on the break, or within ⅜c of the lowest figure of the season. September closed at 57⅜ to 57⅛@57⅝c and December at 61⅞@62c.

Little attention was paid to the reported change in policy on the part of the Farm Board, and an examination of the detailed statement led many operators to feel that the situation actually had not changed other than that sales would be limited to 5,000,000 bu per month. There was no export business of consequence during the day, and the July delivery at Liverpool closed at 60c, prices being ¾@1d lower in the English market for the day. Winnipeg had a holiday. Italy was reported to have bought 7,200,000 bu Russian wheat of late for shipment up to December 31.

2 Cents Under Chicago.

An extremely bearish construction was placed on the reported prices being paid for new wheat at Chicago and the Gulf. No. 1 hard at the latter was said to have sold at 2c under Chicago September, or practically the same figure as was secured for No. 2 red or hard winter for shipment from the country to the local market up to September 15. It was felt that this broadened the territory from which grain would be drawn to terminal points, and that it would take considerable readjustment to cause the grain to move abroad in volume.

One effect of the hot and dry weather in the southwest has been to cause a rush of new wheat to markets despite the fact that farmers are receiving very low prices. In three days 10,700 cars, or about 16,000,000 bu, have arrived at the various markets, with millers and shippers absorbing the offerings.

A winter wheat crop of 696,000,000 bu was suggested by the E. H. Miller report, or 47,000,000 bu more than the government June returns and 95,000,000 bu more than harvested in 1930, but spring wheat figures were lowered 28,000,000 bu from June and the probable yield is placed at 182,000,000 bu, against 247,000,000 bu last year.

Rye failed fully to reflect the decline in wheat but closed 1⅜@1⅝c lower, with July, 35⅝c; September, 35⅝c, and December, 42⅞c.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, July 1.—(AP)—COTTONSEED OIL—Bleachable, closed unchanged to 15 points higher today on sales of four contracts, equivalent to 600 barrels all in September. Firmness of cotton, continued dryness in the cotton belt, and firmness of stocks easily offset the weak grain market. Crude oil was nominal at all points.

Bleachable spot close 7.05c; July, 7.03c; Sept., 7.10c; Dec., 6.80c; Jan., 6.95. Prime summer yellow contracts were neglected, closing as follows: Spot, 7.00c; July, 6.90c; Sept., 6.95c; Dec., 6.75c; Jan., 6.85c.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, July 1.—(AP)—Cotton gray goods markets were quiet and unchanged today. Second hand selling of print cloths continued as cotton tended to decline further. Fine goods markets were quiet with little change. Rayon fabrics were in light demand. Rayon yarn markets were generally quiet. Worsted manufacturers were busier. Burlap markets were unchanged and quiet here and abroad. Calcutta observing a holiday. Spot raw silks were unchanged, with the market dull.

PRODUCE MARKETS

Hot weather has practically demoralized the potato market. Practically all of the receipts showed more or less decay with very few sound cars. Some sold for freight charges. During the day business was done at 30c to $1.25 per 100 lbs, with main sales at 75@85c, and few sold above 90c. Receipts, 34 cars, with 288 cars on track. Butter steady. Receipts, 10,321 tubs. Fresh eggs unchanged. Receipts, 10,807 cases. Live hens, spring chickens, broilers, and leghorn broilers and old ducks declined 1c with spring ducks 2c lower. Receipts, 4 cars and 40 trucks.

COTTON ADVANCES $1 BALE

Cotton had good support after an early dip in prices yesterday and closed around the best of the day, with gains of 17@23 points in Chicago, 20@25 points in New Orleans, and 21@25 points in New York. Spots were up 20 points, or $1.00 a bale, New York being 10.15c, New Orleans 9.90c, Galveston 10.15c, and Houston 10c. Liverpool closed unchanged to 2 points net higher with spot sales 5,000 bales.

The advance in stocks was responsible for a good part of the late strength. Heavy buying for European and Japan accounts was taken as indicating that the Hoover moratorium plan was going through, and brought a covering movement in the market not well supplied with offerings.

The Miller-Bennett crop report was taken as a bullish estimate being 12,710,000 bales, with a reduction of 12.2 per cent in acreage. Norden's report made the condition 69.6 against 68.4 a year ago, giving Texas 69 against 68.1 last year. The official report on acreage is due July 11.

The weekly government crop report said cotton is still regarded as somewhat backward and is beginning to suffer from lack of moisture in spots. Prices follow:

LARD STOCKS INCREASE

Lard stocks in Chicago are 50,819,840 lbs, as compared with 44,263,275 lbs a month ago and 57,934,900 lbs last year. Increase for the month was 6,567,000 lbs, for the last two weeks 4,601,000 lbs. Total stocks of meats are 136,997,000 lbs, against 144,330,000 lbs a month ago and 103,303,000 lbs last year. A fair business was on in lard and bellies, with a better tone to the market. There is a good trade in fully cured and boiled hams, owing to the warm weather. At the close lard was 5c lower and bellies off 27½c. Liverpool lard was unchanged to 9d lower and export clearances 507,000 lbs. Hog prices were lower, despite lighter receipts than a week and a year ago. Prices follow:

WINTER WHEAT CROP

E. H. Miller, the J. E. Bennett & Co. statistician, estimates the winter wheat crop at 697,000,000 bu, or 6,000,000 bu more than a month ago. The government June report showed 649,000,000 bu, against final returns of 604,000,000 bu in 1930. The spring wheat crop is estimated at 185,000,000 bu, against 21,000,000 bu last month and 247,000,000 bu harvested last year. Kansas is given 187,300,000 bu of winter wheat against 168,000,000 bu by the government last month and 158,000,000 bu as the final for 1930. The five states east of the Missouri river are given a total of 363,000,000 bu, against the government's estimate last month of 339,000,000 bu, and final returns for 1930 of 307,000,000 bu, or an increase of 56,000,000 bu.

BUTTER AND EGGS STEADY

Butter and eggs futures were quiet and steady on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange yesterday, butter receiving better support and recovering an early loss, both November butter and eggs closing unchanged. Potatoes were slightly firmer, Idahoes and round whites up 1c and Green Mountains up 2c. Storage news in butter showed a continued heavier input than a year ago, although the movement was not as heavy, comparatively, as in the last few days. Early prices dropped ¼c but buying entered and caused a rally at the last. Sales: Butter, 79 cars; eggs, 31 cars; potatoes, 11 cars. Deliveries of butter, 8 cars. Prices follow:

WORLD'S·GRAIN·MARKET·NEWS

Crop reports from Chicago statisticians are due at 10 o'clock today. Estimates on winter wheat are expected to range between 675,000,000 and 685,000,000 bu, with the Miller estimate at 697,000,000 bu; spring wheat, 185,000,000 to 193,000,000 bu; corn, 2,975,000,000 to 3,000,000,000 bu; oats, 1,325,000,000 to 1,360,000,000 bu. Estimates last month were winter wheat 675,000,000 bu; spring wheat 212,000,000 bu; total all wheat 887,000,000 bu. Last year's final all wheat, 851,000,000 bu. Oats last year, 1,401,000,000 bu.

A Board of Trade membership sold at $9,500.

Chicago grain men, after reading the decision of the farm board to sell its 200,000,000 bu of wheat at the rate of 5,000,000 bu a month to foreigners on a cumulative basis, were not entirely satisfied. Most leading operators would prefer to have the government liquidate its holdings through sales of futures and delivery of cash grain in the regular way, rather than have it held over the market for an indefinite period. They believe that were the wheat to be liquidated this way it might possibly depress prices 10c, but the decline ultimately would be recovered and the market put in better shape. To have such an immense line constantly held over the market is regarded as a handicap that will keep the trade uncertain until it is liquidated.

S. C. Harris, a director of the Chicago Board of Trade, inclines toward the theory that foreigners may take hold and buy wheat somewhat more freely, having a fairly definite knowledg of amounts to be sold by the leading interest. There will not be the fear of dumping of unwieldly quantities at any time without warning. This will probably facilitate export business in the new crop, says Mr. Harris. The contrary view, as Mr. Harris expresses it, is that the 5,000,000 bu per month, added to a liberal surplus from the new crop, suggests sufficient supplies in sight at all times so that foreign buyers need show no anxiety over prospective requirements. On the whole, we are inclined toward the view that it is perhaps a wise policy and it indicates at least one thing, viz., that the present head of the farm board wishes to operate along sound lines rather than follow every political straw that the wind may blow across his path.

The first carload of 1931 Nebraska grown wheat arrived on the Omaha market and brought 50 cents a bu, the lowest price paid since the institution of the Omaha grain exchange in 1904. The wheat graded No. 1 hard winter.

CROP CONDITIONS

"Growth of corn in the main producing sections has continued good to excellent and especially rapid in southwestern and south central Iowa," says the weekly government crop report. Heat and dryness in the central trans-Mississippi states caused considerable twisting of plants. Winter wheat crop was generally far enough advanced to escape harm from excessive heat over central sections of country."

Harvesting is about completed north to eastern Kansas, where cutting is well along in central sections and begun in the west. Serious injury was reported to spring wheat in South Dakota, where some fields are beyond relief. In the eastern section of the belt condition is fair. In the Pacific northwest reports indicate continued improvement of grain except where previously burned. Oats were seriously damaged with much premature ripening in Iowa, where they are in the milk and dough stage. The intense heat also caused much premature ripening of small grain from Illinois and Missouri northwestward, but elsewhere they are doing well.

A report to Bartlett-Frazier company from Kinsley, Kan., says wheat is a way above expectations—20 to 25 bu average. Early harvest is progressing rapidly and will be finished in about 40 days. Elevators are filled up and threaten to close next few days. Corn good but needs moisture now.

The Canadian government reports a further market deterioration in crops, due to high temperatures and deficient rainfall. Wheat is generally heading out less than a foot high and failure of hay and pastures forecasts a serious winter feed problem even if rains occur soon. Large central and southern areas of Saskatchewan are suffering from acute drought with much of crop bordering on complete failure. Frequent and heavy rains will be required to produce feed in most of this large territory.

Indiana oats are being badly damaged and looks like not over half a crop now, reports a prominent grain dealer at Kentland, Ind. Samples show oats in milk are drying up, leaving berry only about one-fourth normal size. Oats that look good for 50 bu will not make over 25 to 30 bu. Continued heat wave will further damage the crop.
